Refuses To Release Medical Records

Eagleton Offers To Quit Ticket

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Rejecting Thomas F. Eagleton's offer to quit the Democratic ticket, Sen. George McGovern says he wants to "wait and see" the reaction to his running mate's revelation that he received psychiatric care and shock treatments.

McGovern's top political adviser, Frank Mankiewicz, said the next three days will be "a little touchy," and that the incident can't be a plus for the Democrats in their uphill battle to take the White House from President Nixon.

Mankiewicz said that he thinks "a lot will depend on how the Republicans handle it. If they take it and run, there could be a considerable backlash," he said.

Eagleton told reporters on a flight to Los Angeles that "time will tell" how the public reacts to his disclosure that he voluntarily hospitalized himself in 1960, 1964 and 1966, because of "nervous exhaustion and fatigue."

Thomas F. Eagleton refused anew today to release medical records of his three hospital treatments for nervous exhaustion but said he would talk with his doctors about allowing them to discuss his past medical problems.

Eagleton also said he now realizes he made a mistake by not telling Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern about the three hospital stays before McGovern recommended him to the Democratic National Convention.

Eagleton revealed Tuesday that he had voluntarily submitted to hospital treatment in 1960, 1964 and 1966 for "nervous exhaustion and fatigue" brought on by overwork. Twice he received psychiatric care and electric shock treatment.

Eagleton elaborated on that announcement today, although Tuesday he said he would have no further comment on it during the campaign.

He said he does not now receive any medication except for "an occasional, very sporadic tranquilizer. I don't even know the name of it."

He said he did not feel any need for a psychiatric examination now and would not submit to one unless McGovern, President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew do the same.

He said the fatigue and depression that led to the three hospital stays were in his opinion relatively minor matters.

"In my own mind, I do view it as a broken leg or a broken arm," he said. "I realize many in the public do not."

He said he had reconsidered his initial stance of making no further comment about the matter and will instead try to educate the public about the kind of problems he encountered in the past.

Eagleton reiterated that he feels perfectly qualified to run for vice president and to take over the White House.

Newsmen who questioned Eagleton today at a morning news conference asked him again, as they did Tuesday, whether he would allow hospital records of his treatment to be made public.

Eagleton again refused, saying that these records are private, privileged documents. "And it is my intention that they so remain," he said.

He said the records are intended as communications among doctors, that they contain highly technical information not readily understandable by laymen, and that they contain information from personal interviews.

However, Eagleton did leave open the possibility that he will allow his former doctors to discuss treatment they gave him.

He noted that professional ethics prevent physicians from discussing publicly matters relating to their patients, and said he would within the next few days speak to the doctors and "discuss with them what should be said."

The Missouri senator was scheduled to depart today for Honolulu, Hawaii, to address a union meeting. He said he would telephone the doctors after he returns Thursday.

At the Los Angeles news conference, newsmen also pressed Eagleton on why he had not told McGovern about his mental problems when McGovern offered him the vice-presidential nomination.

"Quite frankly, I didn't think that these experiences were of that great moment," Eagleton said. "I now realize that it is. I've read the morning headlines."

He said McGovern had offered the No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket during a hectic day and that now he believes he probably would have told McGovern about it if he had had more time to think.

Eagleton said that no members of his family have been subject to mental difficulties. He said his mother died of hyptertension and his father died of natural causes when "his internal organs just slowed down at age 76."

If Eagleton should eventually leave the ticket, his successor would be selected by the Democratic National Committee.

Friends Say Eagleton Can Handle Pressures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri political friends and observers of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, for the most part, said the Democratic vice presidential candidate's disclosure of hospitalizations merely confirmed what they had known.

Eagleton told newsmen in Custer, S.D., Tuesday he entered hospitals three times between 1960 and 1966 because of "nervous exhaustion and fatigue" but since has been in "good sound, solid health."

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, whom Eagleton praised in his acceptance speech in Miami Beach, said, "I had no personal knowledge of the hospitalization" but had heared about it and did not know any details of the illness.

Asked in a St. Louis television interview if he thought the announcement would have any effect on the campaign, Hearnes said:

"No, Tom has successfully gone through several hardfought campaigns and can handle himself. Judging from how he handled himself in his previous positions, I think he can handle the rigors of office."

Lt. Gov. William Morris, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said "Tom Eagleton is one of the ardest campaigners I've ever seen, and I'm sure he, like most all of us who really work at campaigning needed a rest after the rigors of primary and general elections."

Henry Clay Gold, veteran political correspondent for the Kansas City Star, wrote in today's editions that Eagleton's three illnesses "tokched off Jefferson City speculation that Eagleton was undergoing treatment for mental illness, but the more common conclusion was that he suffered from alcoholism."

Jefferson City is Missouri's capital city.

"By the summer of 1968, it was widely accepted in political circles that Eagleton had been treated for mental illness," Gold wrote. "Medical records from Barnes Hospital in St. Louis reportedly were in circulation but, if so, they were never printed or reproduced in large numbers."

Eagleton was campaigning in 1968 for the U.S. Senate seat then held by Democrat Edward V. Long.

Gold wrote that the first illness, in late December 1960 and early January 1961, "touched off reports that Eagleton would not be physically capable to taking his oath of office (as attorney general; Jan. 9, 1961.

"The late Gov. John M. Dalton began immediate staff discussions on filling the attorney general's office if Eagleton failed to appear."

Eagleton left Barnes Hospital Jan. y and was inaugurated on schedule.

Gold said Eagleton's health came up among newsmen and some Missouri delegates at the Democratic National Convention immediately after Eagleton was chosen as Sen. George McGovern's runningmate. Gold said he received a call from a McGovern staff member within an hour after Eagleton had been selected, and was asked the name of the hospital in which Eagleton had been a patient.

Lusk Bound Over

NEW MADRID — Bennie Lusk, 25, of New Madrid, charged with murder in the July 16 shooting death of Elbert T. Johnson, was bound over Tuesday to Circuit Court following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Leo Hedgepeth, who ordered Lusk's $5,000 bond continued.

Testimony was given by two witnesses, Lucille Johnson, no relation to the deceased, who said she was Lusk's girl friend and was with him at the time of the shooting, and Willie Gilmore, operator of Brotherhood Club on Russell Street where the shooting occurred.

Miss Johnson testified she and Lusk were seated at a table in the Brotherhood Club when Johnson approached Lusk from the rear and struck him over the head with a "king-size Coke bottle." She said Lusk jumped up, faced Johnson and quickly fired two shots with a .22 - caliber pistol which he was carrying in his pants pocket.

Relating incidents prior to the shooting, Miss Johnson charged Johnson had called Lusk a bad name while the couple and three children were in Lusk's car parked outside the club.

After the shooting, Miss Johnson said she and Lusk went immediately to the home of Deputy Sheriff Shorty Price and told him of the shooting.

Gilmore's testimony differed with that given by Miss Johnson. He said he was at the club's bar and saw Lusk do the shooting, but that he could not see Johnson from where he was because of a wall. Gilmore testified Johnson had to be 15 feet away from Lusk at the time of the shooting or he (Gilmore) would have been able to see Johnson.

Both witnesses denied knowing of any prior trouble between the pair and said neither of the men had been drinking before the shooting.

Malden Man Found Shot

MALDEN — Harold Towery, 43, of 901 Stokes Blvd. was found dead in the den of his home early today by his wife and a neighbor.

Death has been attributed to a self- inflicted gunshot wound in the chest. A 28-gauge shotgun was used.

The shooting was discovered about 5:30 a.m., according to Dunklin County sheriff's department, when Towery's wife awoke and could not find him. She called on a neighbor to help her locate Towery and he was discovered in a chair in the den.

The body was taken to Landess Funeral Home.

He owned Harold Towery Trucking Company here.

Beer Thieves Are Nabbed

Three youths, wanted by Wayne County authorities for allegedly stealing a cooler of beer from a man at Lake Wappapello last weekend have been taken into custody by Sikeston Police Department.

The theft occurred either late Saturday or early Sunday. The youths, all 17 years old, are out on bond.

They are Paul David Saver, 730 East Kathleen; David Ray Alberson, 411 Broadway; and Gregory Clay Brannum, 411 Edmondson. All are charged with stealing under $50 and possession of five per cent beer.

Other arrests announced today by police include: Bill Joe Heuring, 924 Arlington, stealing over $50; Winston Wade Young, 1707 Kentucky, petit larceny; Joseph Vaughn Stewart, 911 Davis, speeding; John S. Tarpley, 219 Edmondson, careless and imprudent driving; and Robert James, Route Three, speeding.

Walkout Staged At Noranda

MARSTON — The firing of three electricians Monday night has reportedly resulted in a walkout of some employes at Noranda Aluminum Company, Inc.

A spokesman said early today, "There is a wildcat (or illegal) strike, not sanctioned by the unions. There is a picket line here and one highway patrolman. Anyone can work if they can get through the picket line. Quite a few employes have reported to work, but we are still not up to normal."

Two Injured In SeMo Accidents

Two were injured in one-car accidents in the area Tuesday, according to the highway patrol.

Sandra DeWitt, 9, of Sikeston was treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for a broken arm after the brakes failed on the car in which she was a passenger. Driver of the car was Lynell DeWitt, 32, of Sikeston. The accident occurred at 1 p.m. on Highway 62 east of Sikeston.

At 2 a.m. Tuesday on Route 51 near Puxico a pickup truck driven by Edna Louise Conner, 19, of Puxico Route One apparently went out of control and left the road. The driver told authorities she did not know how the accident happened. Injured in the accident was Roy Lee Conner, 22, of Puxico Route One.

Gin Company Broken Into

The E. P. Coleman Gin Co. on South Handy Street was broken into sometime between Saturday and Tuesday, according to police.

Missing are a battery, generator and trailer license plate. Police said all windows on east side of the building were broken out.

FBI Questions Man In Cape Highjacking Scare

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Bondree Cortney, 55, of Des Plaines, Ill., was briefly taken into custody Tuesday night at Cape Girardeau Municipal Airport by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation after he told an Ozark Airlines stewardess that he had a .45 - caliber pistol and a parachute.

Cortney was released after questioning and allowed to proceed on the flight after FBI agents determined that he had had too much to drink and was not carrying a gun or parachute.

Cortney boarded Ozark flight 843 in St. Louis and bought a ticket for Paducah, Ky.

According to the FBI, Cortney made the remark about the gun after a stewardess refused to let him drink on the plane.

The FBI said Cortney left the plane voluntarily at the agents' request and allowed his luggage to be searched.

No charges were filed against Cortney because he made no statement about hijacking the airliner, but simply said he had a gun and a parachute, according to FBI agents.

Cable Cut Disrupts SeMo Service

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Normal long-distance telephone and Teletype service resumed today in a portion of southeastern Missouri affected by a long-line phone cable cut.

Carl Benbrook, district manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., said it was not known how the cable was severed. He said a report would be made today.

The break occurred on the eastern edge of Poplar Bluff, he said. Local phone service wasn't affected but Poplar Bluff and several towns surrounding it were without longdistance services part of Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Missouri was the second state to adopt a good roads constitutional amendment, and a total of 28 states have followed our example of reserving highway funds for highways in the Constitution. Several additional states prevent diversion of road taxes by statute.

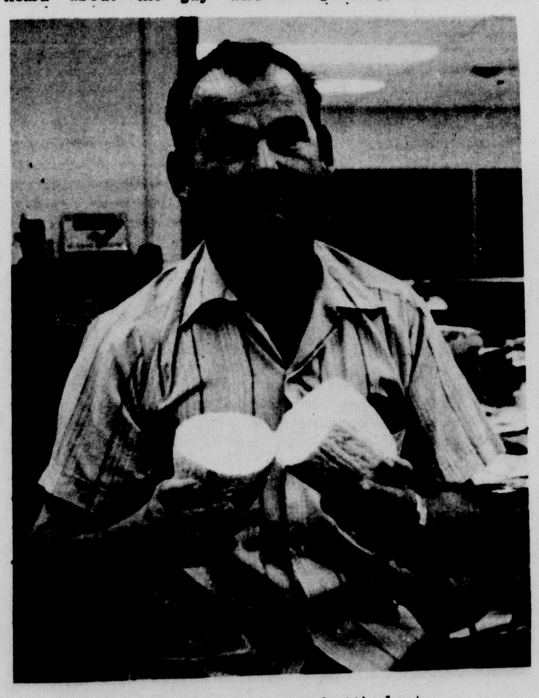
It's A Spaghetti Plant

By RON PORTER

Remember the joke where you ask your neighbor if he heard about the guy who bought a farm that was a mile long and half an inch wide? And your neighbor asks what he's growing, and you reply that he's growing spaghetti, then you break up into fits of laughter?

Well, you can stop laughing now. There are spaghetti plants growing behind J. L. Wells' home at 417 Broadway, and if you don't believe it, the joke's on you.



J. L. WELLS and his spaghetti plant.

The seeds are sold under the Silly Seed label, and the company that sells them offers besides spaghetti plants, elongated cucumbers and other vegetable absurdities.

Mrs. Wells bought the seed at Arlans Department Store in St. Louis in March. Wells planted the seed in April without really knowing what to expect.

At first, Wells says, it looked like a squash vine. Then the vine looked like it was sprouting little watermelons. Now, nearly four months later, the plant has produced a large pod with a very fibrous interior.

Instructions on the seed package say to boil the plant for 20 to 30 minutes and the fibrous material inside will expand to look like spaghetti. Cut the pod open, salt and butter, and eat.

Wells says he doesn't know what it tastes like, since the pods aren't yet ripe enough to eat.

Presumably it tastes like spaghetti.

WELFARE REFORM
'BUDGET BUSTER'

Labeling the welfare reform proposal recommended by the Senate Finance Committee as a "budget buster," W. P. Gullander, president, National Association of Manufacturers, said that what the country really needs is a program that has an effective work incentive and provides more uniform standards of assistance.

The finance committee's bill would cost the taxpayers twice as much as the Administration's plan according to Mr. Gullander, who strongly urged that the committee alternative be rejected.

"Even if the concepts of the Senate Committee substitute were otherwise acceptable, with the fiscal outlook for the next few years as gloomy as it is, a new program involving expenditures of a least $17.9 billion in fiscal 1974 should be considered," he said.

The NAM has recommended that the Administration's program should be modified, including the denial of benefits to strikers and their families, and that it should be rigorously tested for two years.

The committee's plan of replacing the work requirement and work incentive with federally subsidized employment "could be a make-work project rather than a serious attempt to turn welfare beneficiaries into productive members of the community," Mr. Gullander said.

"Many of these families are in trouble because of the lack of skills among the adults. Yet the Senate Finance Committee's proposal would have those parents who go into job training receive less than those who go into make-work 'employment.' Although this is thought of as an 'incentive,' it might well become a disincentive to skill improvement."

THE SEASON FOR NUDISM

During the dog days of July and August, the number of people who secretly wish to be nudists for a spell rises in direct proportion with the temperature. Midsummer also is prime time for dedicated, no-nonsense nudists. The Midwest Sunbathing Association, for example, will hold its convention at Indiana's Sunshower Country Club and Nudist Resort starting today. And August will bring the Miss Nude Cosmos Pageant in San Bernardino, Calif.

Nudists contend that the unclothes human form is a wholesome physical entity which is neither inherently obscene nor apt to cause erotic stimulation in normal social gatherings. This acceptance of the nude body is construed to be a sound basis for mental and physical well-being and to provide the proper orientation for the rearing of children. Prior to 1900 such Americanmen of letters as Benjamin Franklin, Henry David Thoreau and Walt Whitman had espoused some facets of what is now modern nudist practice. But nudism as a movement did not become established in the United States until Karl Barthel, a German immigrant, held the first American nudist outing near Peekskill, N.Y., on Labor Day, 1929.

To some extent, nudity has acquired political overtones. Rare is the warm - weather antiwar demonstration that does not encourage at least a few participants to shuck their clothes, especially if a body of water is nearby. Some of the Yippies who gathered in Miami Beach for the Democratic National Convention went in for skinny- dipping, but the threatened nude parade down Collins Avenue failed to materialize.

People seem more tolerant nowadays of both organized and ad hoc nudity, possibly because it has lost its shock value. Certainly Patrick Leahy, state's attorney in Chittenden County, Vt., took a less- than - solemn view of the question last summer. Asked by police for guidance in coping with an increase of nude swimming, Leahy said skinny-dipping was permissible "on private land out of the view of the public" and "in secluded areas sometimes publicly used, if no member of the public present is offended." He ranked this decision with "my position on the use of sparklers on the Fourth of July and the validity of upside down license plates."

The Public Service Company of Colorado noted that a miniature printer to speed takeoff procedures on transoceanic flights is being tested in the cockpit of a Pan American World Airways 747. The printer, smaller than a typewriter, prints pre-departure and enroute clearances for the crew. Normally, these clearances are read over the radio and must be copied down by the crews. Radio signals activate the printer, which operates by heat rather than conventional mechanical impact. The printer has a printhead containing 35 tiny rectangles that heat and cool almost instantaneously, forming letters and numbers as the printhead glides across a heat- sensitive paper. The test is being conducted in service between the West Coast and the Far East.

American Richard Nixon, chopsticks and occidental decorum at the ready, is playing the most crucial game of Chinese Checkers in history. As to why the game is being played at all, few Americans could understand. Paradox is paramount: the President of the imperialist running dogs of Wall Street conversing with the owners of the Great Wall which neither piety nor good intentions would be allowed to penetrate. Western morality is a joke in a fortune cookie, as durable and useful as the last pleas of Tibetan monks murdered at the order of Mr. Nixon's hosts. Would the staged gaiety in Joyous Pavilion Park make one forget the thousands of Americans killed in Korea by Red Chinese soldiers who once romped as children in Joyous Pavilion Park? Perhaps the Temple of Azure Clouds would make one fall in love with the greatpast that once was China. But this is not that China: it is the unimaginable butchery and insanity of the so-called Cutural Revolution — that forging of Communist Chinese man and the decapitation of children who had the misfortune to be related to an enemy of Mao. Was this Richard Nixon in Peking making a generation of peace or a replay of Roosevelt at the Summits which consigned millions in Eastern Europe to Communist slavery and, ah so, hundreds of millions of Chinese to the Stalinist communism on the mainland? One would wish Mr. Nixon success in any genuine quest for peace and world freedom, but given the take- a - dive precedents of Americans at the Summit with Communists, the Peking Tea Sip can logically be considered a toast to the Wave of the Future.

This has been a lively election summer in most areas of the United States. Newspapers from all parts of the country have been full of political advertising. Politicians at all levels have engaged in a job of salesmanship from which many businessmen could take a few pointers.

The objectives of political advertising are practically the same as the objectives of retail advertising. In both instances, advertising is slanted to the individual on the local level. In both instances, an effort is made to overcome competition and to inspire the individual to act in favor of the advertiser.

On the basis of his constant experience, the retailer should do a better job of advertising than the politicians. But too often the opposite is true.

The political advertiser, more or less instinctively, seems to follow the principles of good advertising. There is a relentless consistency in political advertising; the politician never assumes that he has repeated his message often enough. In political advertising, product features -- that is, qualifications of the candidate -- are listed in precise detail. Finally, the political advertiser is specific in acclaiming benefits which will come to the individual if he acts in the desired way.

Each of these qualities -- consistent local newspaper advertising, appeal to the individual, concrete listing of product features, and promise of benefits -- are basic elements in the best newspaper advertising. Yet, some of the important elements are often ignored by retail advertisers.

REFLECTORIZED SIGNS
COMMUNICATE TO
"INTERSTATE MAN"

Pounded along an Interstate highway lately? If you have or are planning to do so, you might like to know Interstates are three times safer than other highways.

America's Interstate highway system was designed to be virtually accident - proof. And it could be, but for the fact that this 42,500 mile growing network of coast - to -coast roads has spawned a new breed of driver -- with potentially dangerous habits.

According to a recent study, the new "Interstate Man" set out on his trip knowing where he's going and generally how he's getting there, but he seldom decides in advance what he'll do along the way.

The average Interstate motorist, according to the study, spends 11 hours behind the wheel each day, covering more than 500 miles. And, since the vast number of Interstate travelers are vacationing or weekend visiting, they are strangers, traveling a particular route for the first time and totally unfamiliar with the range and location of service they will need.

All of these characteristics are dangerous. Many traffic safety experts recommend that 400 miles be the maximum distance traveled in one day, not the 500 and more typical of Interstate drivers.

Hours of constant high-speed driving and the fact that Interstate drivers don't expect anything to happen leads to a loss of sensitivity and "Highway Hypnosis" often develops.

The characteristics of the Interstate driver lead to uncertainty and indecision. Or even worse, the last - minute decision. Numerous accidents are caused by the Interstate motorist who suddenly spots a motel, gas station, or restaurant, and veers across several lanes of traffic towards the exit lane. If he makes the exit without sideswiping another car, too often his speed is excessive and he loses control on the exit ramp.

Reflectorized signs and road markings, used along the Interstate system, have helped increase driver reaction time by communicating to him well in advance of a turn or exit.

While good signing cannot itself insure an accident - free highway, it does help drivers help themselves by giving them more time to react. This is why easily - red reflective white - on -green guide signs are used on the Interstates and other high-speed roads.

The signs increase in size and legibility in ratio with the maximum permissible speeds and the time allowed the driver to understand the message.

Effective use of reflectorized material on bridge abutments helps reduce "highway hypnosis." Communicating messages clearly and quickly keeps Interstates safe.

PRACTICALLY AND
AESTHETICALLY BAD

An item that comes in the "now I have heard everything" category is contained in a report of the Army Corps of Engineers predicting that within 10 years, one of the federal government's major hydroelectric dams will be relocated because of obsolescence.

In the words of the report, "Obsolescent locks and inadequate approaches at the existing Bonneville dam...will doubtless be solved by construction of a new dam" further down stream. Because of the local nature of the report, nothing was said of other federal hydroelectric projects such as TVA, other great dams on the Columbia river and elsewhere. Under present circumstances of soaring governmental costs, inflation and high taxes, to say nothing of the growing role of nuclear energy, taxpayers should hardly be expected to remain quiescent, as proposals come forth for the investment of billions of tax dollars in "new model" federal hydroelectric dams...dams that would unquestionably carry on as tax-favored commercial business enterprises in competition with the taxpaying, electric industry.

Any attempt to picture replacement dams "a few miles below" existing structures that have turned major rivers into a series of steps strains human credulity. The prospect of future generations improving this part of their environment is pretty dim if obsolescent government dams are going to become a permanent part of river scenery.

THE CHURCH'S
UNFINISHED MISSION

Slapped with a $500-million bill for "reparations" to pay for their fathers' sins against Negroes, many churchmen turned the other cheek. (Many others, though, merely turned their heads). Black leader James Forman has now upped the debt to $3 billion.

What is strange, however, is that whether they believe the claim is a valid one or whether they consider it outrageous, churchmen have been amazingly reticent about pointing out to black militants that, at least in the area of monetary aid, the churches' record in relation to Negroes has not been entirely shameful.

"More than 100 educational institutions in the South were founded, financed and staffed (1865-1890) by the churches inone of Christianity's most remarkable missionary upsurges," writes Francis Stuart Harmon in a letter to the New York Times. Harmon is vice president of the Interchurch Center and a trustee of the Riverside Church in New York.

The American Missionary Association (Congregational) sponsored 37 of these colleges and training schools, he notes. Baptists founded 26, Presbyterians 41 and Methodists 30. Others began under auspices of the Disciples of Christ, Episcopalians, Lutherans and Friends.

Christian and Jews, and nonchurch people as well, have channelled tens of millions of dollars to these schools through various funds and foundations and, since the end of World War II, through the United Negro College Fund.

This is but the sketchiest summary of church activity in only one field. But however much the churches have done, it has not, of course, been enough. The fact that so many people are unaware of these facts is proof that in the 106 years since the Emancipation Proclamation white America has never mounted the kind of national commitment, either through the churches or through secular agencies, that is needed to complete the transition of black America from slavery to full citizenship. Forget Forman and his tactics and the particular chunk of money he demands. The real question he has raised is, do the churches indeed have an unfinished mission?

Even if the answer is a resounding "yes," that mission cannot be discharged by simply handing over vast sums of money to black militant organizations out of a self-flagellating sense of guilt for past sins of omission or commission. It will require a carefully planned, long-term, interchurch and interracial co-operative endeavor.

MINDFUL OF THE

Any question, as to the necessity of granting rate increases to the nation's railroads, should vanish in the hard light of facts released by the Association of American Railroads. The Association's annual "Railroad Review and Outlook" notes: "Strong advances were made by the railroads on several fronts in 1969 despite the disruptive impact of continuing inflationary pressures on costs ... The immediate problem, in the interim period of the next year or two, will be to keep the financial health of the railroads from further impairment -- and, indeed, to improve their viability ..."

The strong advances cited included new records in freight traffic and revenues, expansion of unit train operations, improvements in freight service and introduction of a new generation of high -speed passenger trains in the Northeast Corridor. Desnite these favorable factors, an Association official has said: "Without the help provided from general rate increases authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the financial situation would have become desperate ... Further substantial escalations of costs are ahead and, without further prompt help from rate adjustments, maintenance of even the present low level of railroad earnings is not to be expected..."

In granting "wage increases" to the railroads, the nation should be mindful of the record. Over the years, the rails, through increased efficiency and advancing the technology, have stepped up their productivity and have actually helped stem the rising tide of inflation. Rather than adding to the fires of inflation, needed rail rate increases assure that commerce continues to flow smoothly at the lowest possible cost over the nation's primary arteries of transport.

STAYING HOME
WON'T HELP

Increasingly we hear people say they don't particularly like any of the candidates this year, and plan to stay at home and not vote.

This won't help the situation, whether you are a Republican, a Democrat or something else.

Perhaps some of us don't get particularly enthusiastic about any one candidate in either party — we feel that way ourselves now and then — but voting is an American duty — one by which we vote for the person we think is best qualified. Even though we aren't especially impressed by any candidate for one particular office, we at least have the judgement to choose the lesser of the evils and vote for the person we believe best qualified. If we fail to do this, and stay at home, the election could well go to those who have axes to grind or special interests to promote. In that event, our last estate as citizens could well be worse than our first.

GETTING THE
FACTS STRAIGHT

If a citizen listened only to farleft politicians and to the media, he would have a sadly distorted picture of the situation in Vietnam. Senator Edward Gurnev of Florida thinks that we should "get the facts straight," and recently presented some of those facts which are at variance from the widely accepted view of the war.

Said Senator Gurney; "To those who claims we are guilty of crimes against humanity in Vietnam, let the record show that it is North Vietnam that is invading the South; that it is North Vietnam which is responsible for the 36,000 civilians who have been murdered in South Vietnam since 1960; that it is North Vietnam which was responsible for the 5,700 civilians slaughtered in cold blood at Hue during the Tet offensive ... and that it is North Vietnam which must be blamed for the hundreds of thousands of South Vietnamese and American casualties resulting from this war."

Senator Gurney also pointed out two little known facts about the way the communists have conducted the war: "it is North Vietnam which has used flamethrowers against the Montangnards of Dak Son," and "it is North Vietnam which chains its tank drivers to their seats and sends them forward against the South Vietnamese ... "

Clearly the North Vietnam communists and their Soviet and Red Chinese allies don't want peace in Southeast Aisa. Their aim is to control South Vietnam and to move from there against other free nations in that part of the world. Refusing to face these facts makes it more likely that our enemies will achieve their goal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without:

Heat waves and people who make unnecessary waves.

The sound of triphammers.

Letters from worthy causes that blithely tell us we can "contribute $25-or even less."

Front-page romances between giant pandas too young to know what real love is.

Recipes for personal happiness by movie stars who can hardly spell the word.

Quarter coins so light you can't tell them from nickels.

Veal cuts at $3.29 a pound.

Any armchair strategist who has never been to Vietnam but thinks he knows what'll solve all the problems there.

Summer cocktail parties in the apartments of people whose air-conditioners have just expired.

Girls who borrow a cigarette from you and then wait for you to light it for them, too.

Girls who won't lend a man money—unless he takes them out to lunch with it.

Management morale messages on the office builletin board intended to keep the staff from lapsing into the summer doldrums.

Post cards from executives letting their subordinates know what a wonderful time they're having on their vacation.

Spoiled milk in the refrigerator and a plate of cold meats turing sour.

Announcement of new weapon systems that cost more apiece than it used to take to run the government for a year.

No seat left in the coach car except one next to a tired fat mother holding in her arms a wailing child with waving stick fingers.

From these and other afflictions and inflictions, deliver us. Amen.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON: — In the oak- paneled world of ambassadors, there's an old saying that a diplomat is an honest man sent out to lie for his country.

This has been the unhappy role of our envoy to Paraguay, J. Raymond Ylitalo, who has represented President Nixon in the Autocratic court of dictator Alfredo Stroessner since 1969.

Indeed, the rivet-eyed Stroessner is fond of daying that the American ambassador is like a member of his cabinet.

When we revealed that Stroessner's epauletted generals and admirals were hustling heroin, therefore, Ylitalo sprang to the defense of the military dictatorship. "Slanderous." he called our story.

"As the American ambassador in Paraguay," he proclaimed, "I consider it my duty in good conscience to refute the unfounded accusations . . .by Mr. Anderson."

Stroessner promptly ordered his embassies around the world to issue press releases quoting Ylitalo. The dictator also had his foreign minister, Raul Sapena Pastor, send a private message to Secretary of State Bill Rogers demanding that he denounce us in public.

But this was carrying diplomacy a little too far for Rogers who sent Pastor a polite note saying he personally didn't have any hard evidence on the charges.

IT'S CLASSIFIED

Rogers didn't mention that he had some classified cables from Ylitalo's own embassy in Paraguay, refuting what Ylitalo had said in public . On at least four occasions between June 16 and June 20, the embassy secretly supported our stories.

Ylitalo happened to be on home leave at the time. But back in Paraguay, his staff fired off reports telling how Stroessner had refused to cooperate to end the heroin trade.

"The time has come to give a clear signal," began one classified cable. It went on to describe Paraguay's do-nothing posture on drugs.

Other cables suggested that the United States whould warn Paraguay of aid cuts unless the dictatorship helped to crack down on the drug traffic. "Marked improvement" was needed, declared the embassy.

Stroessner had let the U.S. down by refusing to adopt strong new laws to control drugs and failing to adhere to the 1961 narcotics convention protocol.

Paraguay has also dawled about handing over the notorious French narcotics kingpin, Auguste Record, who is living comfortably in a Paraguayan jail while the United States pleads with Stroessner to extradite him. On this count, too, the embassy urged tough action by Washington.

FOOD SCANDAL

The mismanagement of the military commissary system has become so bad that even House Armed Services Chairmen Eddie Gerbert, D-La., the Dutch Uncle of the Defense Department, is upset about it.

Hebert has quietly written to outgoing Army Chief William Westmoreland complaining about "commissary personnel, both in and out of uniform, belonging to an organization whose members are doing business with commissaries."

The chairman, of course, was talking about the Defense Supply Association, a well-heeled hobby whose membership includes both food brokers and the Pentagon officials to whom they sell their goods.

"This sort of arrangement," said Hebert, "has the potential for restraint of trade which will result in higher prices for military personnel, kickbacks and conflict of interest."

Hebert asked Westmoreland to give the commissary mess his "personal attention." It needs it. The $2.5 billion (B) a year commissary system is the biggest and worst -managed supermarket chain on earth.

It is supposed to provide food and other basic goods to military families at low cost. But all too often, the commissary officers have given the best deal to the food brokers who have, in turn, provided them with such emoluments as Paris playgirls and plush hotel rooms.

When we first revealed these shenanigans early last year, we found that the four top logistics officers in the Pentagon had winked at the improprieties because they were also involved with the food lobby as "honorary presidents" of the Defense Supply Association.

Subsequently, they have resigned, and the association has changed its name to the American Logistics Association.

Yet we have found that the brass hats and the lobbyists are still playing buddy -buddy. At the Masters Golf Tournament in Augusta, two commissary officers, Forrest Gorr and Vance Rimmer, were spotted living it up with two bigtime food brokers, Russ Friend and Charley Reed.

Gorr has also gone to the races with such other food brokers as Si Abzug and Mack Palmer. Both Gorr and Rimmer insist they always pay their own bills when they travel with food brokers.

Whether they do or not, such cozy friendships have led to disastrous mismanagment of the commissary system. A recent GAO study, for example, showed that European commissaries had bought an 81-year supply of Kellogg's tuna fish salad and a 28-year supply of crabmeat salad.

This blunder has led to the tuna fish being unloaded on Army mess halls in Europe in hopes it can be consumed before it all spoils.

Two Waive Hearings

NEW MADRID — Two waived preliminary hearings on felony charges Tuesday before Magistrate Leo Hedgepeth and were ordered bound over to Circuit Court.

Ernest Strickland of North Lilbourn was bound over to Circuit Court under $1,000 bond on charge of exhibitng a .22- caliber pistol in an angry and threatening manner before J. W. Moore, Jr., and Rueben Moore July 15. J. W. Moore, Jr., was hospitalized for a gunshot wound which he reportedly told authorities was accidentally inflicted by Strickland.

Henry Johnson of Baderville, accused of assaulting Charles Johnson Sunday with a five-inch hunting knife, was bound over to Circuit Court under $500 bond.

Two charged with public drunkeness, Bobby Gene Treece and Carly Wayne Burgett, each were given 30-day suspended jail sentence, placed on six months probaton and fined $45.

Kenny Marshall was levied $45 fine on common assault charge.

Charged with speeding and forfeiting bonds were Charles L. Pearson, $40; Matthew Thompson, Denis A. Mowrey, Odell Buckley, James Lucas, Charles Bailey and William I. Nowers, $35 each; Willie Morris Booker, $30; and Jesse Worsham, $25.

Others forfeiting bonds were Bobby Rye Cole, charged with operating improperly registered vehicle, $45; and Tommy Woods, peace disturbance charge, $30.

John Edward Harless was assessed $28 fine on speeding charge and operating vehicle with no operator license. Clifford D. Bailey paid $25 fine on speeding charge.

L. E. Myers and Company paid $15 fines on each of two charges of operating improperly registered vehicles. Freddie Junior Patton was fined $30 on improper registration charge and operating vehicle with no operator license.

Others fined on improper registration charges were Don Medlin Farm and Co., $15, and Raymond Bruce Kennedy, $15.

Roscoe Eddison Hill paid $15 fine on no operator license charge; Bobby Gene Williams paid $20 fine on similar charge; Arthur Franklin Allen was fined $11 for not having operator license on person; and Wilburn M. Sullivan was fined $15 for using out-of-state operator license while a Missouri resident.

Charged with failure to exercise care in the operation of a motor vehicle, Robert Wayne Curtis paid $11 fine.

James Ras Jones was awarded $142.50 judgment against Ebb and Irene Wheatley in a suit on account. E. C. Robinson Lumber Co. received $378.77 judgment against Meril Sillman. Frank Morgan, doing business as Morgan's Service Station, received $284.48 judgment for a materialman's lien against a 1966 Pontiac owned by Jimmy Knighton.

Man Pleads Guilty To Car Wash Thefts

NEW MADRID — Billy Collins of New Madrid pleaded guilty to burglary and larceny charges Tuesday in Circuit Court and was granted supervised probation after Judge William L. Ragland sentenced him to consecutive terms of two years on each charge.

Collins was accused of breaking into and stealing $5.75 at Bud Hartwell's car wash Aug. 19,1971. A charge of possession of stole property against Collins was dismissed.

Luther Midkiff of Clarkton, charged with forgery, was granted a change of venue to Mississippi county.

Divorces granted include Mary Wood from James F. Wood. She was given custody of three children and $45 monthly for each child for support, following approval of a property settlement.

Carlos Deprow was divorced from Ethel E. Deprow. She was restored to her former name of Davis. Deveda Partney was awarded a divorce, $32.50 weekly alimony, $300 attorney's fee and custody of one son on her cross bill against Everett C. Partney.

Custody of six minor children and a divorce were granted to Lucille Perkins from David Robert Perkins.

Sarah Arma Lee Wigfall received a divorce, custody of four children, $5,000 alimony, $15 per week for each child for support and $100 attorney' s fee in her suit against Wash Earl Wigfall.

Kiwanis Group Will Elect Lt. Governor

Don Pratt and Jim Stallings were elected delegates to the caucus to elect a Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor for Division 13 at Tuesday night's Kiwanis Club meeting at Ramada Inn.

The caucus will be held Tuesday night at the home of George Kirk, 1014 North Kingshighway, following a family picnic for all clubs in Division 13.

Two delegates from each of the 13 clubs in the division, plus past governors, will affirm the election of Warren Hastings of Cape Girardeau as lieutenant governor. Hastings' election becomes effective Oct. 1. The delegates will then elect a lieutenant governor for the term beginning in October, 1973.

The picnic and caucus has been held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk for the past 33 years, with the exception of one year.

Rodeo Parade Is August 10

The 20th annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo parade will be held Thursday, Aug. 10, according to Kenny Bridger, rodeo chairman, and co-sponsoring Sikeston Chamber of Commerce.

Saddle clubs, groups, businesses, or specialty entries should contact chairman Ken Walters by phoning 471-0511 or co-chairman Ken Stallings at 471-7667, or Mayor Frank Ferrell, chamber representative. All entries should depict a general western theme.

The Chamber of Commerce is working with the Jaycees this year to promote the rodeo event.

The parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. at Kingsway Plaza Mall and proceed north on Kingshighway to South Street, west to New Madrid Street, north to Front Street, east to Kingshighway, south to Malone Avenue and east to Midtowner Village Shopping Center.

Colleagues Give Support To Eagleton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate colleagues rallied to the support of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton today after his disclosure that he was hospitalized three times in the 1960s for psychiatric treatment.

His defenders included both party leaders in the Senate.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said at the start of today's Senate session that Eagleton, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, is "a fine and decent man."

"I say to our opponents: You have made statements which become you.

Mrs. Brown Is Court Clerk

NEW MADRID — Mrs. Gordon Brown has been appointed clerk of New Madrid County Probate Court. The appointment will be effective Aug. 14 and will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Maxine Coon, clerk for 22 years.

Eagleton Tells Of Hospital Stays

CUSTER, S. D. AP — Following is a partial transcript of the press conference Tuesday at which Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, the Democratic nominee for vice president, discussed his medical background:

On three occasions in my life, I have voluntarily gone into hospitals as a result of nervous exhaustion and fatigue. Few in this room knew me well — Tom Ottenad of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Ed O'Brien of the St. Louis Globe- Democrat and a few others have followed my career and they know me to be a rather intense, hard-driving person. And as a younger man, I must say, I drove myself too far. In 1960, when John F. Kennedy was running for president and I was the Democratic nominee for attorney general of Missouri, I'm not bragging when I say this, but I was the only statewide candidate who would go around the state and speak for John Kennedy. I felt a common interest with him and a deep admiration for him. I was in many instances my own car driver. The day and age of Secret Service escorts, that wasn't my cup of tea in 1960, and I pushed myself terribly, terribly hard, day and night. And after that campaign was over I did experience an exhaustion and fatigue and I was, on my own volition, hospitalized in Barnes Hospital , St. Louis, Mo., King's Highway and Euclid Ave. . . .the period of hospitalization, as best I could recall it, was probably four weeks. It was around, it started around Dec. 1 and culminated the first day of January or soon after the new year of 1961.

The second experience was four days in length and I went to Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., between Christmas, Dec. 25, 1964, and New Year's Day, Jan. 1, 1965. During that week, that holiday week, I was in Mayo for four days, having a physical examination. Part of the manifestation of my fatigue and exhaustion relates to the stomach. I'm not too dissimilar from the fellow in the Alka- Seltzer ad, who says, "I can't believe I ate the whole thing." But I do get, when I do overwork and tire myself, I do get kind of a nervous stomach situation. It's one of the physical manifestations of what I've experience.

The final time, ladies and gentlemen, was perhaps in middle or late September of 1966, where I once again went back to Mayo Clinic, once again exhausted and fatigued. The length of the stay was, I think, approximately three weeks.

One could ask and should ask, well, in light of that history have you learned anything. All of us live our lives in an attempt to learn more about ourselves. We are free in giving advice, as it is, to citizens on how they could conduct their lives. I'm a lawyer, I was free in giving my advice to my clients on legal matters. But in many respects, we are our own worst enemies and it took these experiences, these tough experiences, for me to learn a little bit about myself.

I still am an intense person. I still push pretty hard, but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years, and for the past six years, since 1966 to date, I've experienced good, solid, sound health. I make it a regular practice to remain as idle as I can on Sunday, that's my free day, that's my day to go swimming if the weather permits, and in winter months, that's my day to lie on the couch and watch the Washington Redskins, the St. Louis football Cardinals and the Kansas City Chiefs, the last two being my favorite teams.

So I believe and I'm very confident that, at age 42, I've learned how to pace myself, I've learned how to measure my own energy and to know the limits of my own endurance. Insofar as this campaign is concerned, it is my intent to give it all that I have, but on a measured basis, not to repeat the experiences that I have experienced in those prior years heretofore mentioned.

Q. Was Sen. McGovern aware of these hospitalizations before he decided on you as the candidate?

A. No. he was not. He was made aware of them the weekend or the Monday after the convention.

Q. Sen. McGovern, what is your reaction to it?

McGovern: When I talked to Sen. Eagleton about my decision to ask him to go as my running mate, I asked him if there were any problems in his past that he though were significant, that were worth discussing with me at that time, and he said no. And I agree with that. I'm fully satisfied on the basis of everything I've learned about these brief hospitalizations that what it manifests on Sen. Eagleton's part is the good judgment to seek out some medical care when he was exhausted. I've watched him at very close range in the U.S. Senate for the last four years and, as far as I'm concerned, there's no member of that Senate who is any sounder in mind, body and spirit than Tom Eagleton. I'm fully satisfieid, and if I had known every detail that he discussed with me this morning, which is exactly what he has just told you here now, he would still have been my choice for the vice presidency of the United States.

Q. Was alcohol involved at all?

A. Eagleton Alcohol was not involved in any iota or any way, shape or form whatsoever. Now it has been mentioned that there has been a rumor that has plagued me for all these recent years and I can assure you categorically without hesitation, unequivocally, there has been no trace, no hint, no iota, not one iota of alcoholism as part of these rumors, I mean as part of the actual fact, albeit it has been part of the rumors.

A. Did you receive any psychiatric help?

A. Yes I did. I consulted when I entered the hospital voluntarily my physician, who was my family physician, an interneist, Dr. William Perry in St. Louis. ... I was treated by a psychiatrist, Dr. Frank Shobe ...

Q. Was there any thought in your mind of refusing the offer of Sen. McGovern because of this?

A. My wife and I discussed this when we went to Florida when it had been speculated in the press that I was one of several people being roughly considered for vice president. We discussed amongst ourselves whether this development would necessitate my disclosing this medical history background which I did here today. I told her then that I thought it would . . . We discussed it at some length and both agreed that we had an opportunity to render a service, I thought I did. We were satisfied my health was sound, that I had learned the lessons of the past, and that the risk of having to divulge these things was a risk we would have to face up to.

Q. When Sen. McGovern asked you, you didn't discuss it with him?

A. I told him that my health was solid and sound and I think that's what Dr. Pearson the Senate physician will conclude when he examines the reports of my exams taken last Friday.

Q. What type of psychiatric treatment did - you receive?

A. Counsel from the psychiatrist including electric shock.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

PRAYER: Father, we thank You for Your matchless grace and for the power of the Spirit that strengthens us in time of crisis. Use us to communicate the Word to people and to help restore truth, mercy, and knowledge of You to the land. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Attack on Seward

Lincoln's secretary of state, William Seward, was attacked at home by Lewis Powell, a co-conspirator of John Wilkes Booth, at the same time Lincoln was assassinated. Seward's invalid wife died within two months and a daughter died within one year of witnessing the attack, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Accused Vender

By Jack Strauss, LL. B

Horace, in terrible financial difficulties, never knew where the next check was coming from or when the next one was coming back. Consequently, he decided to end it all, but not at a total loss. He bought himself an airline ticket, a substantial sum of flight insurance from a vending machine, naming his wife and children as beneficiaries, and then proceeded to blow-up the airplane while in flight.

When the pieces were put together, and the cause of the explosion uncovered, a lawsuit followed. The surviving relatives of those on the plane sued the insurance company that maintained the vending machine for the deaths of their loved ones.

"It was pure carelessness," they insisted in court. "To sell insurance by means of an automatic vending machine is like playing Russian roulette. There's no way to ascertain a purchaser's mental or financial condition. The new result is that some crackpot like Horace was able to blow up an airplane for the insurance money."

"There was nothing careless about it at all," was the answer. "Vending machines have become a part of American life. And, for those passengers who are in a hurry to board a plane and want insurance, they're a necessity. Therefore, we're blameless."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the insurance company pay for the plane going down?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the risk of a person blowing himself up in an airplane for the insurance money is minimal. The risk must be balanced against the greater need for having the vending machines at the airport, observed the judge, so that insurance is easily and quickly available, particularly for those who are late and in a hurry to catch a plane.

St. Louis Provides Visiting Spot For The World

ST. LOUIS (AP) — More than two centuries ago, in 1763, traders Pierre Laclede Liguest and Auguste Chouteau began carving out a settlement several miles downstream from the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

Today land meant originally for a place to trade with the Indians has mushroomed into what public relations men call "Surprising St. Louis," "The Gateway to the West" and a "mecca" for tourists seeking adventures in sports, amusement and musical entertainment.

Perhaps the biggest drawing card for the city is the 630-foot, stainless steel Gateway Arch on the banks of the Mississippi River. The landmark, completed in 1968, stands as a tribute to the early pioneers who left St. Louis to start a long, fateful treck to the mythical Golden West.

A unique, self-leveling capsule train takes Arch visitors to the top of the United States' highest man-made attraction. Once there, 75 feet above the pinnacle of the Washington Monument, the tourist can see a wide panorama which reaches into western St. Louis County on the west and into the environs of Illinois on the east.

Capsule trains run along each leg of the Arch during the busy summer season, keeping waiting time to a minimum.

Within walking distance of the Arch are a host of tourist attractions to keep the visitor busy during his stay.

Foremost among these is the bevy of riverboat restaurants and tour liners which dot the western shore of the Big Muddy.

Billed as the world's largest inland waterways excursion boat, the silver colored Admiral is available for daily trips down the Mississippi to the Jefferson Barracks Bridge and back during the summer. The boat can accommodate 4,000 passengers on its daytime and special moonlight dance cruises from Memorial Day through Labor Day. Passengers can enjoy a narrated cruise during the downstream trip. On the way back snack bars, sundeck lounging, a deck of pinball machines for the kids and even a concert on a real, steam calliope are available.

Other tour boats, smaller in size and scope, include the 19th century sternwheeler replicas Huck Finn and Sam Clemens and the Mississippi Belle.

For added amusement on the river, there's the Goldenrod showboat, featuring ragtime music, old-time melodrama and movie classics along with a first-rate buffet. Also available are the floating restaurant Becky Thatcher and the Robert E. Lee, a "mock" steamboat offering specialized fish or steak dining and cocktail lounges.

Two are strictly visitor boats complete the riverfront attraction. The U.S.S. Inaguia, a World War II minesweeper which saw service in the Battle of Okinawa, awaits nostalgic tourists. And the Santa Maria, replica of Columbus' flagship, has been restored to her original splendor after sinking several years ago during a thunder and wind storm on the river.

Within a couple of blocks of the riverfront is the downtown section which spans history beginning with the pre-Civil War era.

The domed Old Courthouse was the site of slave auctions and the infamous Dred Scott trials which sparked the nation's awareness of involuntary servitude. Inside are fully restored courtrooms and displays including 1862 murals by artist Carl Wimar which were the first of their kind west of the Mississippi. Many of the slaves sold on the courthouse steps were sent immediately to the cotton plantations of the South.

Near the courthouse is the Old Cathedral, formerly called the Basilica of St. Louis. The church was built on land originally assigned fr church use in 1764 by Pierre Laclede. About a mile to the west is the Eugene Field house, once the residence of the acclaimed children's poet who penned Little Boy Blue. The house includes an antique toy and doll collection and some original Field manuscripts.

Moving west of the downtown hub, the tourist encounters another wealth of attractions to occupy his photo-snapping hours.

About a half hour's drive from the Arch, the 200-acre Six Flags over Mid America amusement park beckons recreation hungry visitors. The park opened in June of last year and is available on a fulltime schedule from June through October.

Patterned after the mammoth Disneyland park, Six Flags attractions include a roller-coaster, log ride, motorized auto rides, dolphin show and a carousel. The park also offers live entertainment in an air conditioned auditorium, snack bars and gift shops.

Located on the site of the 1904 World's Fair, the sprawling Forest Park by itself has enough attractions to fill several days of a visit to St. Louis.

The 83-acre St. Louis Zoo offers one of the country's best animal displays and a circuit tour by miniature railroad. Unlike most zoos, the facility is free to the public. Youngsters can spend hours at the Charles H. Yalem Children's Zoo. A small admission is charged at the Yalem section, which includes display of newborn animals, a goat and bird feeding yard and a bread "mouse house."

Other sections of Forest Park provide space for the city Art Museum with Asian, European and American treasurees spanning 5,000 years, and the McDonnell Planetarium, offering

Hearnes Commutes Sentence

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP)– Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has commuted the 99-year sentence of William N. Pollard, who was convicted in the sensational 1948 murder of a baby in St. Louis.

Pollard is now totally incapacitated and will enter a Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe, Ohio. In 1970 he was paroled from the state penitenciary at Jefferson City to a rehabilitation unit at Moberly, Mo.

Pollard was arrested and convicted after St. Louis police had first questioned a Bolivar, Mo., couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Winn, in the killing. The body of 21-month-old Joseph Nichols, Jr., was found in a dresser drawer at the old American Hotel in St. Louis.

Pollard, who took custody of the child from its parents in Huntington, W. Va., had occupied the hotel room just before Winnes checked in. The couple later won a $25,000 damage suit against the hotel.

Also in Illinois, just off Interstate 70 near Collinsville, is an anthropologist's delight called Cahokia Mounds State Park. The park includes more than 100 Indian burial mounds—capped by the hundred-foot Monks Mound. Archeologists estimate Monks Mound dates from around 1200 a.d. and is believed to have been the grand temple of an ancient Indian settlement. Cahokia Mounds includes a picnic area for the historic buff.

Arington Named FHA Committeeman

Bill V. Arington of East Prairie Route One has been appointed to the Sikeston area committee of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA), John Foster, state director, announced today.

Arington and his wife live near East Prairie with their three children, Randy, 20, Sandra, 19, and Carol, 17. The Arington family owns approximately 360 acres and farms a total of approximately 750 acres. The Aringtons have lived and farmed in the Dogwood area all of their adult life. They are active members of Dogwood Methodist Church and participate in many other community activities.

The FHA Sikeston area committee is composed of three members, each appointed for a three-year term. One membership expires each year.

Other members of the committee are Albert Peters, Jr., and Johnnie L. Blissett.

Major functions of the committee are to: (1) determine eligiblity of individual applicants for loans; (2) establish limits with respect to amounts of credit that may be extended; (3) make recommendations with respect to loans to associations, soil and water districts and partnerships; (4) consult with the county supervisor concerning servicing of loans made with respect to borrowers who should be referred to other credit sources.

Bobby R. Hicks, FHA county supervisor at Sikeston, serves Scott and Mississippi counties.

The FHA furnishes credit and technical assistance to individuals and groups in rural areas who are unable to obtain the credit they need from other sources. Emphasis is given to the development of family size farms and rural communities through loans for family residences, water and sewer systems, and the ownership and operation of farms.

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

MISSOURI HONORED BY VICE- PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Missouri again has been paid a great tribute. The Democratic Party has once again looked to our state for a Vice-Presidential nominee as it did in Chicago twenty- eight years ago, when Senator Harry S. Truman was nominated.

It was my privilege to first serve in the Federal government at the request of Mr. Truman; and now share with the second from our state to receive this honor, Senator Thomas F. Eagleton, the privilege of serving Missouri and the nation in the Senate.

MISSOURI WOULD RECEIVE LESS THAN IT PAYS UNDER REVENUE- SHARING BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C. — State and local governments in Missouri would get back only 76 cents for each dollar Missourians pay in personal income taxes to support the Administration's revenue-sharing bill passed by the House of Representatives and now under study by the Senate Finance Committee.

Under the Administration's measure as passed by the House, Missouri taxpayers would contribute approximately $140.5 million, based upon fiscal 1971 Federal income tax figures, but our state and local governments would receive only $107.5 million in revenue sharing allocations.

Sponsors of the revenue-sharing measure say it was designed to provide revenue for local governments which face declining tax bases and in increasing demand for costly governmental services. At the same time, however, state governments would be encouraged to expand revenues from their state income tax.

Under complex formulas, the House bill would distribute $1.8 billion to state governments and $3.5 billion directly to local governments, the latter sum apportioned on a formula based equally on the percentage that the government has of the total state population, the extent of urban population in its area and the percentage of low-income residents within its jurisdiction.

According to the best figures now available, Missouri would rank 26th among the states in per capita receipts under the proposed revenue sharing legislation.

In 1971, Missourians paid 2.67 percent of all Federal personal income taxes, but under the House- passed bill, our state and local governments would receive only 2.03 percent of the $5.3 billion to be distributed in the initial allocation.

In addition to this disadvantage for Missouri between what we will pay and what we will get back, the bill will not provide assistance to some of the more critical needs facing our state and local governments.

For example, many public schools in Missouri and nationally face a "fiscal crisis" and are looking to state and Federal governments for greater assistance. The Administration's House- passed bill, however, does not provide any assistance for independent public school districts.

In many areas we have a "taxpayers' revolt" in the form of legal challenges to the property tax as the principal source of revenue for the public schools plus legislative proposals to alter the Federal income tax structure.

Because of my reservations as to the overall philosophy of revenue- sharing and the fact our state and many of our local governments would receive less under the Administration's House- passed bill than what it will cost our taxpayers, I am urging the Senate Finance Committee to re- examine both the formula on allocations and the basic concept of this legislation before the bill is reported to the Senate.

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

JAPANESE ELECTIONS

The Democratic Convention in Miami wasn't the only party election held last week. The Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) of Japan– that country's ruling party since the war -- also nominated its candidate for national leadership, Kakuei Tanaka.

The following day, in a procedure vastly different from the American electoral process, the Japanese parliament voted along strict party lines to elect their Prime Minister, Mr. Tanka. An election much less tiring than our own.

The Japanese election had special significance for Americans this year. Our relations with Japan were severely shaken by this year's Nixon "shocks" (as they are called in Japan). First, there was the fight on textile quotas. Then there were the surprise announcements of the China trip and the new economic policy.

The deliberate and slow-moving Japanese government, which operates on the principle of consensus decision- making, was thrown into a turmoil and politicians and bureaucrats alike experienced a serious loss of face.

New Era of Relations

The reaction of the LDP was to elect the dynamic Mr. Tanaka who is fondly referred to in Japan as the "computerized bulldozer." The choice of Tanaka has opened a new era of U.S. -- Japanese relations -- an era that will see the two allies embarking on independent but parallel courses in world affairs.

The most serious problem between our two countries is the lopsided trade advantage (approximately $3.2 billion last year) in Japan's favor. The Japanese economy has a highly excessive capacity not only to produce but to produce for export.

The Japanese seem to understand now that they will have to sharply curb exports if they wish to stabilize the free world market system and avoid another revaluation of the Yen – something Prime Minister Tanaka wishes to avoid.

Mechanisms Established

Increased domestic investment to solve social problems, a liberalization of import regulations and an improved distribution system will encourage more American investment in Japan. If Japan does not take steps soon we will have serious problems in the coming years.

The only encouraging change is that, after the trauma of the past year, mechanisms have been established to avoid unnecessary cross- cultural shocks and concentrate on the complexities of international trade -- a considerable task in its own right.

Dear Editor:

"The government is the only agency that can take a useful commodity like paper, slap some ink on it, and make it totally worthless." -- Ludwig von Mises

"It is precisely when a free gold market is needed that most modern governments seek to suppress it. For it reflects and measures the extent of the lack of confidence in the domestic currency: and it exposes the fictitious quality of the 'official' rate. And these are among the reasons why it is needed." -- Henry Hazlitt, "What You Should Know About Inflation"

Apparently the United States government has chosen to ignore the enlightened example of the vast majority of the IMF nations and to imitate the gold laws of two non-IMF nations -- U.S.S.R. and Communist China.

Non- ownership of gold permits politicians, whom we elect, to produce (by deficit financing) all the dollars they want to remain popular and be re- elected. If our citizens could own and trade in monetary gold, the inflationary bubble, and the embezzlement of life savings it creates, would burst and there would no longer be a "monetary crisis." The politicians' spending could be controlled!'

If you really wish to stop inflation, write to your Congressmen and to the Secretary of the Treasury asking them to legalize ownership of gold by all citizens.

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley,
President
Glendale, Cal.

Mississippi County Schools Get $12,929

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Congressman Bill D. Burlison of Missouri's Tenth Congressional District recently announced that the Office of Education has approved the awarding of $12,929 for Special Programs for Educationally Disadvantaged Children to school districts in Mississippi County.

Mr. Burlison noted that the grants are authorized under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, and are part of a program providing special grants for urban and rural schools serving areas with the highest concentrations of children from low- income families.

The U.S. Representative explained that the funds will be used solely for programs and projects designed to meet the special educational needs of educationally deprived children in pre- school programs and in elementary schools serving areas with the highest concentrations of children from low- income families. The grants may also be used in secondary schools in the same areas when the local and state education agencies determine that here is an urgent need for such programs in secondary schools, according to the Congressman.

County school districts receiving funds are: East Prairie R-2 $3,764 and Charleston R-1 $9,165.

Myers Named To Farmers For BondPanel

Peter Myers of Sikeston has been appointed to the advisory committee of Farmers for Bond for Governor, according to John Zapf, chairman of the organization.

Zapf said, "We are pleased to have a man of Myers' caliber working with us in the campaign. He and other interested farmers throughout Missouri have joined Farmers for Bond to help Kit become Governor and work with him on developing a platform to strengthen the Missouri farm economy."

Bond met recently with the advisory committee in Jefferson City. Various issues were discussed, including possible changes in the Missouri Department of Agriculture to make the agency more responsive to the needs of Missouri farmers.

Myers is a member of the Farm Bureau, Missouri Farmers Association and the Rotay Club. He and his wife Mary have five children.

The World Almanac recalls that prior to his election in 1860 Abraham Lincoln received a letter from Grace Bedell, 11, suggesting that he grow whiskers, because "All the ladies like whiskers and they would tease their husbands to vote for you . . ." Lincoln started his beard after his election.

Cystic Fibrosis Chairman Named

Mrs. Rene DeKrieck, 317 Kramer Drive in Sikeston, was named chairman of the Breath of Life campaign to fight children's lung diseases by Thomas J. Barta, president of the Gateway Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, St. Louis.

Mrs. DeKrieck will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support the research and care for children affected by cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and other related lung-damaging diseases.

The Breath of Life campaign will focus most activities during the week of Sept. 10.

Cystic Fibrosis, thus far an incurable disease, is inherited when both parents carry the defective gene. It is believed that one in 20 persons carries the C/F gene, usually without knowing it. Because of improved therapy and constand research, many C/F patients are living beyond infancy to their teens, and into young adulthood. That same kind of therapy is relieving and often curing children suffering from the other respiratory afflictions whose symptions resemble those of C/F.

The National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation has 110 affiliated centers across the United States.

Princess Resigns Rank

BANGKOK (AP) — Princess Ubolratana, the oldest of King Bhumibol's three daughters, has given up her title amid rumors that she has secretly married a fellow student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

There was no mention of the rumored romance, but it is customary for members of the Thai royal family to resign their rank if they marry commoners.

Princess Ubolratana went to Massachusetts in 1968 to attend Concord Academy and then went to MIT to study mathematics.

Births

SITZES — Specialist Four and Mrs. Edward Sitzes are parents of a daughter, Christine Marie, born July 14 in Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. She weighed seven pounds, six and one-half ounces and is the first child.

Mrs. Sitzes is the former Patricia Rentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rentz of St. Louis. Sitzes is the son of Mrs. Robert Sitzes, 903 Hawthrone in Sikeston, and the late Robert J. Sitzes. They are living at Clarksville, Tenn., where he is stationed in Fort Campbell, Ky.

ARMSTRONG — Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Armstrong of Charleston are parents of twin daughters born Monday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Karen Loraine was born at 9:03 a.m. and weighed six pounds, nine ounces. Sharon Lynn was born at 9:04 a.m. and weighed five pounds, seven and one-half ounces. They have four sisters and six brothers.

Mrs. Armstrong is the former Dorothy Marie Tucker, daughter of Jake Tucker of East St. Louis, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Halter

Halter-Conn

CHARLESTON — The marriage of Francine Conn and Phillip M. Halter was solemnized June 24 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Henry's Catholic Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Conn, Jr., of Wyatt and Halter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Halter of Charleston.

The Rev. Michael Swalina performed the double- ring ceremony.

Lighting the candles and serving as acolytes were Richard Conn, brother of the bride, and Tommy Coon of Charleston.

Mrs. William White of Cairo, Ill., organist, accompanied John Stallings of Charleston as he sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "More".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of crepe, styled with an A-line skirt and full, deep-pleated back. The empire waist was covered in re-embroidered lace, the scallops being outlined with seed pearls. Tiny pearls also completed the wide cuffs of the sheer, organza bishop sleeves.

The wedding - ring collar was completely covered in pearls arranged in a flower design.

The Juliet open- crowned cap of lace and encrusted pearls, held a three-tiered veil of waist - length bridal illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of stephanotis and white roses with long white velvet streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Jeanne Vasterling, the bride's college friend and roommate, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Conn, sister of the bride, Mrs. James Enderle, of Cape Girardearu sister of the groom, and Miss Eileen Stocking of Charleston.

They wore floor-length gowns of a delicate blue shade of crepe of the same style as the bride's gown. Each wore a headpiece of blue tulle, white gloves and carried a long-stemmed white rose.

Ray Threlkeld of Powell, Tenn., served as best man. Groomsmen were Edward Boyd of Sikeston, uncle of the groom, James Enderle of Cape Girardeau and Dan Lankheit of St. Louis.

Ushers were Joe Stricker of Belleville, Ill., cousin of the groom, and James Conn, brother of the bride, stationed in Fort Gordon, Ga.

Miss Margaret Ann Conn, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest register prior to the ceremony.

Honored guests were Mrs. David E. Conn, Sr., and Mrs. R. O. Bock, grandmothers of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boyd Sr., grandparents of the groom.

Mrs. Tony Sevic and Mrs. Robert Bruenderman served as hostesses for the reception which was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall immediately after the ceremony.

Serving at the reception table were Mrs. Michael Franks of Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. William Toon of Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Joe Sevic of Charleston. Also assisting were Mrs. Paul Conn, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Elott Raffety, Mrs. E. T. Small and Mrs. Robert H. Bryne, all of Wyatt.

Miss Carol Jane Conn, sister of the bride, presented rice bags to the guests during the reception.

After a wedding trip in the south they will live at 1118 West Mill Road, Evansville, Ind.

The new Mrs. Halter, a 1967 graduate of St. Henry High School, is a 1971 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau with bachelor of arts and bachelor of science in education degrees in English.

This past year she was a teaching graduate assistant at SeMo. State, teaching freshman composition courses and taking graduate courses for a master of arts degree in English.

The groom, a 1966 graduate of St. Henry High School, is a 1971 graduate of University of Missouri - Rolla with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is a sales engineer for Gulf Oil Co., working out of Chicago.

Hansel-Edmondson

Janet Hanselman

ORAN — Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hanselman announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Leatha, to Jimmy Carl Edmondson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Edmondson of Route One.

Both will be seniors at Oran High School in the fall. Wedding plans are incomplete.

Ann Landers

Argument Reveals Shocking News

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about a problem that I'm sure perplexes many parents, yet I don't remember ever seeing it in your column.

What should a parent do if his child (junior high age) tells him that a friend is planning to run away or is smoking pot? Our 14 -year- old daughter often hears such confessions and in turn she tells me. I am not concerned about her becoming involved or being led astray, but I do wonder about my obligation to the parents of these children. Many of them are virtual strangers to me. I do not see them socially, or at PTA, or anywhere else.

I am not a meddler and I don't want to put my child in the position of being a stool pigeon. Yet it seems to me these kids are looking for help or they wouldn't be confiding in my daughter.

Should I talk to the teachers or the counselors or to the parents? I feel an obligation to do something but I don't know what to do or how far to go. Please consult your panel of experts and use your own experience to counsel me. —— Know Too Much

Dear Too Much: A parent who violates his child's confidence destroys something precious. Don't do it. You could, however, suggest to your daughter that she encourage her friends to talk to you if they are unable to communicate with their own parents. You then could attempt to give them information and set them straight. It would be wonderful, of course, if you could obtain permission from these children to ask their parents to consider counseling. This is, of course, what is needed.

Dear Ann Landers: Help me, please, I'm about to go out of my mind. My husband and I got into an argument over some small thing. One word led to another and before we knew it we had a terrific fight going.

In the heat of the battle I said something about his mother. Then he blurted out that six years ago he had had an affair with my sister. She was only 16 at the time. My husband and I were both working very hard that summer and I had invited my sis to stay with us and take care of the children. My husband said the affair lasted all summer.

My sister married when she was 18 and was divorced at 20. She is now living with my mother. To say I was shocked by all this is putting it mildly.

Now I wonder if we should cancel our plans to go visit Mom in September since Sis is still living with Mom. I remember that she and my husband seemed quite chummy last summer when we were all together. My husband swears there is nothing between them and he has asked me to have faith in him.

Mom knows nothing about this. Should I tell her so she'll know why we have changed our plans? Or should we go? --- No Name No City

Dear N.N.N.C.: Go. And keep your mouth shut. It's bad enough that YOU know. Don't upset your mother with tnis beautiful news. When a man asks you to have faith in him, you should make every effort to do so. And you can prove that you trust him by being relaxed --- in other words, don't watch him like a hawk. He'll appreciate it --- and it could do a lot to strengthen your marraige.

Confidential to Must Stinky Go?: Descenting a skunk is an intricate and unpleasant surgical procedure. It is also expensive. Some veterinarians refuse to do it for any a any amount of money. Since most "pet" skunks were once wild there might be a danger of rabies, which is why some states have banned skunks as pets.

A no-nonsence approach to how to deal with life's bost difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage —— What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SENSING THE NEWS

A SPURIOUS POPULISM

The latest political gimmick is for left- of- center politicians to label themselves "populists." Their purpose in so doing is to give radical doctrines an authentic American image. But there isn't any historical link between the new elitists, who masquerade as populists, and the farmers who flocked to the Populist Party banner in the 1890s. The heart of the populist movement of the last century was a demand for the unlimited coinage of silver.

Today's self- styled populists aren't concerned with the monetary issue. And they certainly aren't interested in returning power to the people.For all their talk of participatory politics, they want to increase the power of Big Government over the people.

The sham of the new populism is revealed in its power base in radicalized university faculties and in the urban protest movements.

For instance, it is downright ridiculous to equate Harvard University's elitist professors with old- style agrarian populists. One has only to look at the background of the financial backers of the new populist movement to see that the new populism is a fraud. The backers are Park Avenue dilettantes and radical-chic actors and writers from New York and Hollywood. Kevin Phillips, the syndicated columnist, has provided the best description of the new political breed, calling them "Porsche populists."

Nevertheless, vintage liberals will use the populist label as long as possible. They even plan to institutionalize it.

Sen. Fred Harris (D-Okla.), who isn't seeking reelection, plans to become a professional populaist when he leaves office next year. He will serve as chairman of the New Populist Institute and the New Populist Action, two groups whose goals are, according to the senator's press secretary, "the redistribution of wealth, income and power in this country and the deconcentration of economic and political power."

The New Populist Institute was behind the recent "Strip Mining Conference" at Cumberland Gap, Ky. Delegates came from Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico and Arizona. According to the Washington Post, a delegation from the conference planned to "go to Washington to start lobbying for a strong strip mining bill." Ironically, these "populists" apparently didn't have the people with them. Coal miners showed up at the conference and handed out bumper stickers that read, "Coal Puts Bread on a Lot of Tables."

A Southern States Industrial Council researcher reports that the New Populist Institute is the research arm of an essentially unified organization and is supported by tax deductible contributions. "The New Populist Action," he explained, "is unabashedly political and will engage in assisting the campaigns of 'populist' canadidates and will agitate for 'populist legislation'."

Among Sen. Harris' associates in the New Populist Institute will be Sam Brown, erstwhile student campaigner for former Sen. Eugene McCarthy; Peter Barnes of the National Coalition for Land Reform; Beverly Moore, an associate of Ralph Nader; and Phil Moore of the Project for Corporate Responsibility, a Naderite outfit.

The new populist organizations in the U. S. already are a considerable factor in the development of a "hate- business" climate. Not only are they urging "deconcentration" of industry -- the forced breakup of major corporations -- but they are taking aim at agribusiness. One of the new populist objectives in this area was revealed recently when spokesmen for something called the Agribusiness Accountibility Project testified against land grant universities.

The Agribusiness Accountibility Project, which has been described as research group supported by the Field Foundation, charged at a hearing of the Senate Migratory Labor Subcommittee that land grant universities are concentrating their attention on helping agribusiness while neglecting farm workers and the rural poor. The critics of agribusiness received an especailly friendly reception from Sen. Adlai Stevenson III (D-Ill.), chairman of the subcommittee.

The emphasis of the land grant universities on agricultural production is clearly in the public interest. Efficient Agriculture means higher quality, lower cost food for American consumers. Moreover, farming is a business these days. A good farmer must be a good manager. It would be absurd and hurtful if land grant universities sought to perpetuate uneconomic farm units. Rural America isn't cheated by the emphasis on agribusiness. But the country is cheated when efforts are made to deal with farming in terms of political protest instead of scientific agriculture.

The old populism died as prosperity returned at the end of the 1890s. The new, spurious populism doesn't deserve a better fate. The current variety of populism offers nostrums that are on a par with the free silver proposals of the late 19th century.

Tornados Down This Year In Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Where have all the tornadoes gone?

Warren M. Wisner, National Weather Service climatologist for Missouri, notes that since 1954, the three-month period from April through June has averaged 18 tornadoes a year in the state. The highest number for the period was 35 in 1967 and the lowest had been eight in 1959.

This year, only four tornadoes occurred, and all of them were in April, Wisner said.

So far for the year, only five tornadoes have been confirmed—the lowest half-year total since 1954.

The lack of activity does not augur anything for the rest of the year, Wisner said. "Normally we could expect as many as nine tornadoes to occur in Missouri between now and Dec. 31," he said, "but it is really impossible to forecast the actual number."

Chinese Buy Two Concordes

PARIS (AP) — Communist China signed a contract today to purchase two supersonic Concorde jetliners from the French and British manufacturers.

The contract, described as "preliminary purchase agreement," was signed by Wang Ya-xiang for the China National Machinery Import and Export Corp. and Henri Ziegler, president of Aerospatiale, the French partner with the British Aircraft Corp.

Ramsey Hurls Nepotism Challenge At Tinnin

PARMA -- Randall Ramsey, candidate for state senator in the 25th district, today promised that if elected he would not, under any circumstances, try to put members of his family on state payrolls.

Ramsey told The Daily Standard today he challenges his opponent, Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin of Hornersville to tell voters of the 25th senatorial district exactly which members of his family are on state payrolls.

Ramsey stated he had found members of the Tinnin family in the Agriculture Department, Department of Revenue, Ozarks Regional Planning Commission and Department of Welfare.

"I believe this puts a political officeholder in a bad position for voting on appropriations for a department where a member of his family is on the payroll. He can be literally blackmailed," Ramsey declared.

"I will not be put into that type of position when it comes to voting on the people's business," Ramsey emphasized.

Ramsey said the following relatives of Sen. Tinnin are on the state payroll: Mildred Tinnin, sister, Department of Welfare, annual salary, $5,640; Joseph Tinnin, nephew, Department of Revenue, annual salary, $5,616; Clint Tinnin, brother, Department of Revenue, annual salary, $9,108; Brent Tinnin, son, Ozarks Regional Planning Commission, annual salary, $13,200.

Ramsey said this information was taken from the official manual of the state of Missouri for 1971-72 (Blue Book).

Mrs. Steward Named To Area Danforth Post

Mrs. Linda Steward, former Scott County coordinator for the Danforth re-election campaign, has been named Southeast Missouri area coordinator, according to George H. Capps, chairman of Citizens for Danforth.

As area coordinator for the Danforth re-election Campaign, Mrs. Steward will aid in campaign development within the 23-county area, with special emphasis on the building of a strong precinct organization.

She will be one of five area coordinators in the state working for John Danforth's re-election as Missouri's attorney general. Danforth is seeking his second four-year term for that office, employing the campaign slogan, "He Makes It Work".

Mrs. Steward, born in Cape Girardeau, received her education in Dallas, Tex. She holds a bachelor of arts degree from Southern Methodist University in history and speech.

While living in Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Steward worked in television as hostess of a show for pre-school children.

Mrs. Steward presently lives at 218 Kramer in Sikeston. Her husband, Fred H. Steward, Jr., is affiliated with Steward Steel Supply Company. They have three children.

Started Club Idea

The service club idea was originated in 1905 by Paul P. Harris, a Chicago attorney, who gathered members from businesses and professions for rotating meetings at their offices to become the Rotary International, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Year In Jail Metted Out On Driving Charges

BENTON — Danny Hibbs of Oran appeared before Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs and was bound over to Circuit Court to appear Thursday.

Hibbs is being tried for the March 16 break-in of a Chaffee home.

Kenney B. Jones of Blodgett Route One was sentenced to one year in the county jail on two counts of driving while operator's license was revoked and two counts of improper automobile registration.

Punishment was taken under advisement against Wayne Long of Chaffee Route Two, charged with maintaining a nuisance on his property. Long was accused by neighbors of keeping a large number of dogs in unsanitary surroundings. Long's sentencing was set for Sept. 13, and he was ordered to comply with health department regulations.

Earl Miller of Chaffee Route Two, charged with shooting one of Long's dogs, will be sentenced on Sept. 13.

Sentencing for Harold Gosche of Oran Route One, charged with not keeping a vehicle under control, was set for Aug. 23.

Monroe Sylvester LeGrand of Benton Route One was fined $15 for operating a motorcycle without a valid operator's license.

Charges were dismissed against Larry Ray Miller of Illmo Route One for pulling an over-width load.

Ralph Vernon LeGrand of Cape Girardeau was fined $10 and court costs for failure to use a motorcycle helmet.

Aug. 1 was set as trial date for James Wilford Baker of Chaffee Route One on charges of careless and imprudent driving.

Charges were dismissed against Gary Eugene Prindle of Oran for permitting an unlicensed person to operate a vehicle.

Millie Kathrein Martinez of Oran paid $5 fine and costs and showed proof of obtaining a valid license on charges of operating a vehicle without proper operator's license.

Bond was set at $1,000 for Eugene Harris of Benton Route One on charges of driving while operator's license was revoked.

Bertha Mae Wheeler of Oran Route One had her punishment taken under advisement for driving without an operator's license. Sentencing date was set for Aug. 30.

Don Harlan Williams of Oran Route One paid court costs and had charges of careless and imprudent driving dismissed.

Ervin Andrew Glueck of Chaffee Route Two paid court costs on charges of driving without a chauffeur's license. The charges were dismissed.

Charged with driving while license was revoked, Dariel J. Hodge of Morley, had his punishment taken under advisement and sentencing was set for Aug. 16.

Fined for speeding violations were Larry Thomas Hendrix of Cape Girardeau, $10 and costs; Billy Todd of Cape Girardeau, $14 and costs; Larry Dennis of Overland, $10 and costs; Howard Denton Cline, Jr. of Chaffee, $22 and costs.

Also, Kevin Thomas Machaler of St. Louis, $10 and costs; Annie Ruth Font of Benton, $26; Ronnie L. Hicks of Duncan, Miss., $30, and William Lynn Mills of Vanduser, $10 and costs.

SOUTHOLD, N.Y. (AP) — Tuesdays and Thursdays are light days for those fishing the waters of Peconic Bay so Mrs. Mary Morris of the Southold Fishing Station did something about it.

Outboard boat and motor rentals on those days are half price for senior citizens. So instead of paying $17.50 for an 18-foot boat and motor each Tuesday and Thursday it costs a senior citizen only $8.75.

13 Treated For Injuries

Thirteen were treated Tuesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital as accident patients.

Included were:

Bennie Plunk, 27, Marston, dropped a ladder on right hand, bruising right little finger; Paul Long, 49, Matthews, bruised toe at work; Daniel Kleeman, 4, East Prairie, received first and second degree burns of hands and left foot on truck.

Lloyd Seagraves, 31, Sikeston, cut right knee while trimming hedge; Johnny Slayden, 6, Charleston, scratched in fall; Robert Jarvis, 19, fell and injured back.

Milla Kindle, 19, Charleston, fell and injured back; Karen Loue, 11, Sikeston, fell and fractured right arm; Anita Ray, 19, Sikeston, cut index finger of right hand; Henry Proffer, 62, Sikeston, fractured vertebrae in tractor accident.

HAROLD SPICKERMAN of Bunker Hill, Ill., professional superstock boat racer, in his class "B" runabout will be in competition Aug. 13 at Jaycee sponsored races on the Mississippi River at New Madrid.

Top Boat Racers Entered At N. M.

NEW MADRID — Area sports fans will be treated to something different when professional superstock boat races are held Aug. 13 on the Mississippi River sponsored by the New Madrid Jaycees.

Warm-up and time trials for the 12-event race start at 11 a.m. across the levee at the south end of Main Street. Racing will start at 1 p.m.

Outstanding drivers from Southeast Missouri and the St. Louis Outboard Drivers Association will be competing for $750 prize money and trophies.

Approximately 80 runabout and hydroplane boats will be entered in five different classes, ranging in speeds from 60 miles per hour to over 100 miles per hour.

A former New Madrid resident, John B. Carey of St. Louis, will be in competition in "E" hydro class. He is currently high-point driver in that class and was overall top hydro driver at the Huntsville, Ala., Trans- Am race.

Other area drivers appearing are Lynn Crews of Kennett. He is high-point "C" class service runabout champion, and is undefeated in the 1972 season. Clyde McDonald of Cape Girardeau, rated an all-around outstanding driver, will also compete.

Top St. Louis drivers who will be racing are Bob Lowery, holder of six national titles, Emmet Homfeld, national competitive driver, who was high point man of the Trans-Am races and the St. Louis ODA; Harold Spickerman of Bunker Hill, Ill., class "B" runabout champion; and Charley Holman of Davenport, Iowa, class "B" hydroplane champion.

Proceeds from the fund-raising project are earmarked for the city's park improvement fund, according to Buck Hunter and Charles Spitler, co-chairmen for the event.

Aaron, Morgan Deliver

ATLANTA (AP) — Tug McGraw is awfully glad that he doesn't pitch in the American League. He'd probably never make the All-Star team if he did.

"They don't recognize relief pitchers over there like they do in the National League," the New York Mets' bullpen star said Tuesday night after helping the Nationals win the 43rd midsummer classic with a tense 4-3 victory in 10 innings.

As if his powerhouse pitching didn't speak eloquently enough for his argument, the left-hander had much more to say after winning his first All-Star game.

"Relief pitching is an art," he said, "and only the National League recognizes that fact. Specialization is the National League way, the modern way. I'm glad that my league has underlined the importance of a relief pitcher. He's really the 10th man on the team."

All of McGraw's remarks were, of course, directed at the American League—but mostly toward Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles. In three straight All-Star games, the American League field boss has never picked a relief pitcher for his staff.

"Earl certainly doesn't recognize us," said McGraw

McGraw was certainly recognized as one of the best pitchers on Atlanta Stadium's playing field Tuesday night, although there were several other standouts in one of the bestplayed All-Star games in recent years.

McGraw held off the American League with shutout pitching in the last two innings, striking out four batters, before Cincinnati's Joe Morgan came through with the game-winning single in the 10th.

"It was some kind of breaking ball, but I don't know if it was a slider or curve since I've never seen him before," Morgan said of the pitch he hit for a run-scoring single off Baltimore southpaw Dave McNally, the losing pitcher.

Actually, the whole affair never would have gotten to the extra-inning stage except for some game-turning dramatics by Atlanta's Hank Aaron, the hometown golden boy, and Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals.

Aaron coaxed the standing room-only crowd of 53,107 to an ear-splitting roar when he belted a two-run homer over the 375-foot mark in left-center to give the Nationals a 2-1 lead in the sixth inning.

Then Rojas, one of the unlikeliest home run hitters on the field, delivered a pinch-hit clout with a man aboard in the eighth inning to give the Americans' a 3-2 lead that put a wet blanket on Aaron's accomplishment. However, the Nationals tied the game in the ninth on Lee May's run-scoring bouncer.

Aaron called his home run "the most dramatic" he's hit. "It made me feel good because most of the folks came out to see me hit one," said Aaron, who has unloaded 659 career homers in his chase toward Babe Ruth's record 714. His latest blast was collected off Cleveland's Gaylord Perry.

Cowboys Favored

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Devaney has a string of 23 coaching victories and 32 unbeaten games, but if he hopes to continue that streak, he had better have a few aces up his sleeve.

Devaney, coach of the 1972 College All Stars, has been drilling his squad in preparation for Friday night's 39th AllStar Game against the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in Chicago.

The veteran Nebraska coach, whose teams have won two straight national football championships, told a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Chicago Tuesday he was well aware of what the National Football League champions could do.

"After a study of Cowboy game films, we decided to concentrate our game preparations on punting and kickoff returns," Devaney joked after introducing his squad.

In a more serious vein, he noted:

"With a group of guys like this, we feel that if we got any coaching to them at all, we would have a good chance. I know they're going to give it a great effort Friday night."

The All Stars will be led by quarterbacks Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson, both of Nebraska, and Pat Sullivan of Auburn, the Heisman Trophy winner.

The Cowboys are 16-to 17½point favorites in the game, which the pros have won 27 times while losing nine and tying twice.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco 49ers reported that rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley has broken a bone in his right big toe. The former Auburn All-American had just returned from being out eight days with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Chuck Hixson, who set many national passing records at Southern Methodist, announced his retirement after the Kansas City Chiefs said he had been traded to Buffalo. He never played in a NFL game. He was the Chiefs' 13th draft choice in 1971.

Franco Harris, the Pittsburgh Steelers' No. 1 draft choice, signed a multi-year contract with the team. The terms for the former Penn State player were not announced.

The Baltimore Colts signed veteran wide receivers Eddie Hinton, Ray Perkins, and Jim O'Brien who's also a placekicker, and defensive back Tom Curtis.

Wendell Tucker, a four-year wide receiver, was cut by the St. Louis Cardinals. Secondyear kicker Skip Butler was released by the New York Giants, who also said rookie linebacker Jim Evans will undergo knee surgery.

Mike Tilleman, a Houston defensive tackle, was reported in good condition after exploratory abdominal surgery. Doctors said they found an abcess on the abdominal wall but no malignancy. Tilleman, 28, a seven-year veteran, had a malignant growth removed from his stomach in 1969.

Passing

Improves

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals quarterbacks completed 10 of 17 passes Tuesday as the team held two extended workouts.

Veteran safety Larry Wilson made two interceptions during a brief scrimmage. Wilson is in his 13th pro season.

Three players were released by the Big Red. Quarterback Mike Frank, defensive lineman Henry Alford and veteran free agent Wendel Tucker were cut, lowering the Cardinal roster to 64.

Jr. Ruth Stars To State

Sikeston's Junior Babe Ruth All-Stars departed for Joplin today to compete in the state tournament and defend their title of a year ago.

The District 3 champions will battle Joplin at 6:30 this evening in the first game of the five - team, double-elimination affair.

Leonard Campbell is managing the squad which has few players back from last year's state championship team which went on to finish second in the mid-west plains regional at Bell Plains, Minn.

The Senior All-Stars lost two of three games in their double-elimination tournament last week at Jefferson City.

Home Runs Top Tourney Play

Puckett, Farris and Bob Ralph fields exploded with first round excitement Tuesday night as the three Little League tournaments opened with belated action. Ten squads took part in the heated competition which featured homers and exceptional pitching.

NATIONAL LEAGUE — Talented Kiwanis hurler, Mike Dewitt, pitched a one-hitter en route to a 10-0 victory over Security National in the first game.

Kiwanis leaped to a six-run advantage in the first inning, then went scoreless for the next two innings. An effective catcher and batter, David McCauley, came to the plate in the fourth and final inning with the bases loaded and blasted a grand- slam homer to complete the Kiwanis offense. Kevin Young suffered the loss for Security National on the mound.

Shortstop Davis and left-fielder Atkinson slammed homers in the second and third innings to pave the way to Lewis Furniture's 5-3 win over A & B Leasing. First baseman West fought back by slugging a sixth- inning home run for A & B.

Fireballer Wasson gave up only one hit to A & B and fanned 11 batters. Alberts, West and Watson shared mound duty for A & B with Watson taking the loss.

AMERICAN LEAGUE — Fabick ignited a scoring marathon in the only American League game of the night , demolishing Sealtest, 16-6 in a four-inning abbreviated match.

Second baseman Garret slammed a triple to lead Fabick's first- inning eight-run campaign. Fabick added one run inthe second and came back to score the final seven in a third- inning rally. Shortstop Hatchett had two, pitcher- third baseman Launius and first baseman Miller had one apiece in the doubles department to aid the attack.

Third baseman Barr had the only extra- base hit for Sealtest with a first inning double. Tate was the losing pitcher.

MUSIAL LEAGUE — The Brothers Club surprised Nunnelee with a flurry of hitting and a stable pitching department to mark an 11-10 victory in the first game. Pitcher Tope slugged a second- inning homer to pace the winning squad. First baseman Pool retaliated with a sixth- inning home run for Nunnelee.

Andy Greer was the winning pitcher with eight strikeouts. Cortez Smith suffered the loss. Brothers Club's Tope supplemented his four- bagger with a seventh- inning triple, a fourth- inning double and two singles in five attempts. First baseman Howard and shortstop Stewart slammed triples in the Brothers' drive. Catcher Howard connected for a double.

First baseman Pool starred for Nunnelee with four hits in four attempts, including a homer, a double and two singles. Hurler- first baseman Smith and left fielder Sindle slugged sixth inning triples. Ratledge and Jackson had doubles.

Kingsway Plaza downed Rotary in the second bout, 8-4, led by a fourth- inning homer by shortstop- pitcher Dennis Chappell. Chappell pitched Kingsway to victory with 10 strikeouts.

Third baseman Crenshaw hit a triple for Kingsway, and Lenderman and Williams had doubles.

Third baseman Merrick tripled for Rotary in the second inning. Shortstop Kyle had a double. Mike King took the loss from the mound but also chalked up 10 strikeouts.

Sports Briefs

BUF FALO (AP) — While his Buffalo Bill teammates continue training-camp workouts today, defensive end Walt Patulski is on the sideline with a knee injury that threatens to delay his National Football League debut.

Patulski returned to Buffalo from Evanston, Ill., Tuesday after hurting his left knee in a scrimmage Monday, preparing for the Colwege All-Star game in Chicago.

A spokesman for the Bills said that physicians had found a spur on the knee and told Patulski to rest for several days. It was not yet known when the league's No. 1 draft pick would be able to resume play.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Raiders signed center Bobby Sheehan to a multiyear World Hockey Association contract Monday.

The 5-foot-8, 160 pound Sheehan, a native of Weymouth, Mass., scored 20 goals and added 26 assists for 46 points while appearing in all 78 games for the California Golden Seals

Gideon, Parma Have Close Calls

MALDEN — An eight-inning battle highlighted Tuesday night's Little League baseball tournament action that had North Pemiscot, Gideon and Parma advancing into the quarterfinals of the sixth annual affair.

Neelyville made a gallant effort to knock off Gideon in Tuesday's second battle, forcing the match into the eighth inning before bowing, 8-7. A five-run rally in the last of the sixth frame provided all the suspense. Jeff Berry came in as a relief pitcher and closed the door to Neelyville and picked up the victory.

North Pemiscot started off the day's action with a 15-5, five-inning triumph over Fisk.

Parma ended the night's action with a sixth- inning rally, sparked by Buddy Matlock's two - out double that propelled Parma from a 3-2 deficit into a 4-3 victory over Matthews. Gary Atchley picked up the win in relief of Wayne Thatch, who yielded only three safties to Matthews.

Tournament action resumes Thursday with Bernie and Portageville matched in the opening contest at 5:30. Hayti and Hornersville battle at 7 p.m. and Campbell battles Delta in thy8:30 nightcap.

Due to rain, tournament play has been delayed one day. Finals are scheduled for Tuesday.

All-Stars, Aces Selected

Sikeston's Little League baseball managers have broken past traditions in selection of All- Star and Aces teams to represent the city in local and district tournaments.

In past seasons, the best players have been chosen for the All- Star squad and the runners-up were placed on the Aces, but not in this season's selections.

Managers seemingly have gone out to balance the squads and have done so mainly in the pitching department.

Because of the caliber and number of good pitchers in the Sikeston leagues this season, the managers have divided that corps among the two squads.

"Some of the pitchers on the Aces squad have All- Star ability, but there is an agreement that the Aces should have some of the better pitchers, too," Don Self, who will manage the Aces, noted upon reporting selections of the two squads for Commissioner George Butler who is out of town. "Pitchers were chosen before remaining rosters were selected," Self added.

The selections:

ALL- STARS

Pitching staff: Hal Butler, John Vaught, Roger Cloud.

ACES

Pitching staff: Don Francis, David McCauley.

Hay Fever Sufferers Should Plan Vacation

Perennial hay fever sufferers would do well to consult more than travel folders when planning their vacations. Some of the following suggestions come from a brochure made available by a medical center concerned with the study of allergic diseases.

They are offered specifically for the hay fever victim with the hope of making his holidays happier.

If travel by automobile is being considered, one that is air- conditioned is best. Otherwise, those affected should sit near a closed window. Convertible tops should be kept up.

Seashore vacations are a wise choice, but only when the breeze comes from the ocean. Breezes coming from land carry pollen. Consider, too, that individuals with mold allergies may find damp, musty oceanfront houses a source of discomfort.

A farm vacation is usually advised against.

Those allergic to feathers are well- advised to pack along a foam rubber or dacron pillow.

Keep in mind that partying is fun, but that alcohol tends to dilate blood vessels, just as pollens do. It is also best to keep from getting overly fatigued.

Nose clips should be worn when swimming in chlorinated water.

As a safeguard, bring with you medications your physicain may have recommended. Although a nasal spray such as NTZ, Neo-Synephrine nose drops, and many brands of eye drops are usually available at a drug store near hotel or cottage, your need for fast relief of the annoying symptoms, and the local pharmacist's hours may not coincide. Other medications may require a prescription.

Army Enlists Two Recruits

Two Sikeston youths have joined the U.S. Army, according to SFC C. L. McCoy, Army recruiter for this area.

Joining under the Army's two = year enlistment program are Tommy E. Grace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Grace of 1530 East Gladys, and James T. Morgan, son of Mrs. Ethelyene Greer of 718 Kendall St.

Both men are undergoing basic training at Fort Leonard Wood.

Kidney Stones Removed By Sound

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — Ultra sound waves have been used for quick and painless removal of a kidney stone during an operation that ordinarily would have required open surgery and a week or more of hospitalization, a surgeon says.

Dr. Roger Goodfriend said in an interview Thursday that he used the technique during an operation performed Sunday at Los Gatos Community Hospital.

The patient, identified only as a man in his 30s, was pain-free Monday and went home Tuesday, Goodfriend added.

Goodfriend, 43, a clinical instructor of urology at Stanford University Medical School, said he had been experimenting with the technique on dogs for three years.

He said he was encouraged by the success of the first operation, but "much more study of techniques, research and perfection of equipment is needed before the method can be widely used."

The first step of the operation is insertion of a cystoscope, a telescope-like tube, into the urinary tract to the bladder, he said.

Then a smaller tube is inserted in the cystoscope and on into the ureter. The ultrasonic probe is then introduced inside the inner tube.

After contact of the probe with the stone is verified by Xrays, a pulse of high-frequency ultrasonic energy causes the stone to disintegrate into many tiny pieces, with minimal damage to tissue, Goodfriend said.

Kidney stones form from deposits of calcium compounds and often are passed naturally through the urinary tract. But if one forms to block the ureter, connecting the kidney and bladder, it can lead eventually to a pressure buildup that can destroy the kidney, Goodfriend said.

A POPULAR NUMBER

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Motorists of Sandton feel that 777 is the best nunber for auto license plates. When the suburb got its separate plate, car owners were invited to apply for any number between 11 and 20,000. Most applied for 777. Second most popular was 555.

Mills Attends Sales Seminar

Richard D. Mills of Smitten-Winters Irrigation Co., Highway 61 South, attended a one-day Modern Farm Systems sales meeting July 13 at Ramada Inn in Miner.

The meeting, conducted by MFS personnel, was held to present Modern Farm Systems dealers with the latest marketing programs and product knowledge.

Eugene Sukup, president of Sukup Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of Sukup Stirway and Poreway, showed the group drying equipment produced by his company.

Lorenz Cited For Sales

Dwayne C. Lorenz, Sikeston agent of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., was cited Monday for outstanding life insurance sales among the company's more than 2,500 agents during the 1971-72 honor year.

He is associated with the M. Luther Hahs district agency of Cape Girardeau and the Robert B. Qualy general agency in St. Louis.

Lorenz is a winner of the Gold section award.

The gold section award is presented to an agent who has previously received the bronze and silver awards -- the first two for which the agent may qualify in his initial years with the company -- and has increased his sales over the past year's volume.

Honor presentations were made at the 92nd annual meeting of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., at the company's home office, Milwaukee, Wis. Award winners will be cited for record sales in the agents' honor year, ending May 31.

Mitchell Takes Agent Course

Robert L. Mitchell, Jr., 904 Crescent, has returned from Hartford, Conn., where he was graduated from a multiple line insurance course at the education center of The Travelers Insurance Companies.

This is an advanced course that helps prepare the agent to provide a complete insurance program for a family or a business.

Mitchell represents The Travelers in all lines of insurance through Mitchell Insurance, Inc. of Sikeston.

A graduate of Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, Mitchell is past secretary of the Sikeston Jaycees. He is a member of First United Methodist Church, Lions Club and is president of Scott County Young Democrats. He is married and the couple has a daughter, Beth.

HITS McLAIN WELL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — If former Detroit and Oakland pitcher Denny McLain had to face Smokey Robinson of the Montgomery Rebels each time he pitched here he might never get back into the major leagues.

On May 20, in McLain's first outing in the Southern League, Robinson homered twice and drove in five runs as the Rebels clouted McLain for nine hits, including three homers in five innings. Five days later Robinson duplicated his two-homer, five-runs-batted-in feat as McLain gave up 10 hits, including three homers, in six innings.

Alsups Buy Illinois Store

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Alsup, formerly of Sikeston, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Jones of Greenville are new owners of Western Auto Associate Store of Highland, Ill.

Grand opening will be July 31 through August 5.

Alsup is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Castor Alsup of Sikeston Route Two. His wife Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lewis of 521 Coleman.

The store was purchased recently from Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Rood.

The Alsups have moved to Highland and are living in the trailer court at Sunny Acres. They will manage the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones will continue to live in Greenville where they have owned and operated a Western Auto store for 14 years.

Before moving to Highland, Alsup was associated with Safeway grocery store in Sikeston. He and his wife have completed a specialized Western Auto school in Kansas City.

Pennsylvania's Presque Isle, which in French means "almost an island," was so named by French explorers in 1740 because Lake Erie storms regularly threatened to wash away the narrow neck linking the sandy peninsula to the mainland.

The altitude of Mexico City is 7,546 feet.

Two-thirds of Mexico's total area is occupied by mountains.

Markets Appear Extremely Volatile

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Edgar C. Scott, Jr., author of this column, is a 1937 graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism and has been actively involved in stock market transactions for several years. From the spring of 1946 until the spring of 1951 he covered the shoe manufacturing industry in St. Louis for a national circulation magazine, Boot & Shoe Recorder; and, from the spring of 1951 until autumn of 1967, he was employed as a reporter in the St. Louis bureau of Fairchild Publications -- covering the shoe manufacturing industry for Footwear News for the first eight years and writing principally financial news for Daily News Record, Women's Wear Daily and Home Furnishings Daily, during all of his years with Fairchild. Scott also made an occasional contribution to the financial pages of the St. Louis Globe- Democrat on a free- lance basis. During his later years with Fairchild Publications, he also traded stocks and bonds as a livelihood and has made a living in the market since resigning from Fairchild Publications in September of 1967. Scott is now living in Caruthersville.

By EDGAR C. SCOTT

"There is nothing in this world constant but inconstancy." .... Jonathan Swift

Current markets appear extremely volatile, in the opinion of Kansas City stockbrokers; subject to wide swings --- up and down ---; as whims of traders flame momentarily with commitments to buy, then fade quickly in bursts of selling orders.

The news, it would seem, will make the markets. Witness the intraday 18- point rise on unconfirmed (and later disqualified) peace rumors July 6, followed by a 10- point drop in a matter of hours, with a net gain for the day of eight points or so; and a four- point loss on the day following.

In St. Louis, investment bankers for the most part suspect the drop from 5.9 per cent unemployment to 5.5 per cent is more significant than the recent flare- up in the cost of living --- that is, the much publicized rise in the cost of meat.

Despite an expected increase in meat imports, affluent Americans are buying better cuts (and sustaining the meat price rise); while imported meats to great extent are suitable only for hamburger, baloney and sausages.

From Kansas City, commodity houses say the hog market is strong; and likely will continue so for a time.

The July Fortune Magazine, however, in its monthly business roundup speaks favorably about the battle against inflation with the comment that the consumer price index could be nearing a 3.5 per cent annual rate of increase --- as its rate of increase continues to decline --- while a 3 per cent rate of increase is a distinct possibility by year's end.

In Memphis, the word to long- term investors continues to be: get out of high price-earnings glamour stocks; take your profits and move into less vulnerable cyclicals like the machine tools, for instance, which still can be bought at the low end of the ladder.

Expected favorable quarterly earnings reports --- due in greater quantity as July advances into August very possibly could help trigger a sustained summer rally, in the opinion of some Indianapolis customers' men -- though upsetting news from the political front, or from Southeast Asia or Israel and the Arab states could trip the averages into a decline for a spell, they fear.

The DJI could gyrate between 900 and 980 or so in coming weeks, your correspondent is advised; -- and hopefully in the higher ground as the summer rally is due.

A point of controversy among industrial analysts is whether the action of the Federal Reserve Bank on June 26 in buying Treasury bills to pump more money into circulation was good news or bad.

Those who look upon the move favorably say that the resultant increase in available cash for loans to industry and business will aid in curbing the rise of short- term interest rates.

The pessimists fear that the outlook for a continuation of the business recovery isn't as rosy as the Nixon administration has expostulated; hence the move to stimulate business loans with more cash.

Paul W. McCracken, who retired as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers the past January has confidence in the recovery, however, noting that in the "very near term you almost have to be a misanthrope to find very much to quarrel

The big investment banking firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, 140 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10005, has a 23-page report about emission control for automobiles and the resultant opportunities for the investor.

BUSINESS REVIEW

JCPENNEY'S flame- retardant sleepwear for infants and children not only offers an added degree of protection, but comes with a fashion flair not available before. These infant sleepers of flame-retardant fabric come with tops with back snaps, two rows of "grow" snaps at the waist, and elasticized back-waist. The sleepers, available in a variety of bright colors, are machine washable.

Flame-Retardant Sleepwear Broaded

The broadest selection of flame - retardant sleepware for infants and children yet offered is featured in JCPenney's fall and winter 1972 catalog. Copies of the book are available at the catalog sales desk in the JCPenny store here.

Inclusion of seven pages of flame- retardant sleepwear in the catalog is a reflection of the Penney Company's overall goal of compliance with the flammability standard issued by the Department of Commerce in July 1971.

In line with the company's goal, Sikeston Manager Jess Lacefield, said, "We are offering for the fall and winter line of infants' and children's sleepwear only merchandise that complies with flammability standard. In addition, we are going as far as practical for the new line in providing flame - retardant children's sizes above 6X even though they are not covered by the standard."

Lacefield said the company expects to have completely sold out of its other sleepwear by Oct. 1.

Beyond the 6X size specified by the Department of Commerce standard, the catalog offers flame- retardant sleepwear up to size 16 for girls and 18 for boys.

The manager commented, "We feel that parents should be aware that this merchandise, offering an added degree of protection, is now available in the broadest assortments yet."

$6,466 Paid For Sikeston Services

Western Electric, manufacturing, purchasing and supply unit of the Bell System, paid more than $6,466 to Sikeston businesses for goods and services last year.

Mark Rudloff, Southwestern Bell manager here who released the figures, said Western Electric payments of $54,886,324 throughout Missouri represented many purchases from small businesses and suppliers.

"About 88 per cent of the 1,759 businesses included in these sales in Missouri are small ones," Rudloff said. "We think this percentage shows that the telephone system has a substantial impact on the local economy."

Rudloff said Western Electric, besides being the Bell System's manufacturing arm, is the purchase and supply unit for Bell operating companies like Southwestern Bell.

The figures do not include Western Electric's payroll, which is also a significant expenditure in Missouri, he said. The company's payroll in the state for 1971 was more than $90 million.

Food Show Set At Malden

MALDEN — Malden Fruit Market on Highway 25 North will host its first annual Institutional Food Show Saturday and Sunday.

The theme of the show is "New Ideas in Quality Food at Competitive Prices." Special features will consist of approximately 40 national food companies displaying the latest in food service ideas.

The show is scheduled between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Evans Reports Half-Year High Marks

PORTLAND, Ore. -- Evans Products Company today reported that first half revenues and earnings were the highest in the company's history, according to the chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Monford A. Orloff said first half net earnings of $12,633,000 were up 52 per cent on revenues of $433,241,00, which were up 29 per cent compared with the same period a year ago.

Primary earnings per common share for the first half of 1972 were 77 cents, up from 57 cents in the first six months of 1971.

Second quarter net earnings of $9,455,000 and revenues of $253,728,000 exceeded those of the comparable quarter of 1971 by 53 per cent and 27 per cent respectively.

The executive of the building materials manufacturer and distributor said general business conditions continued strong, particularly in the markets in which the company operates.

MR. AND MRS. James W. Godwin, formerly of Sikeston, recently opened a 12-unit motel three miles south of Branson on Highway 65 known as Hollister Inn Motel. Godwin is former owner of Southside Service Station in Sikeston.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, July 26, the 208th day of 1972. There are 158 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1953, Fidel Castro began a revolt in Cuba, Attacking an army barracks at Santiago.

On this date:

In 1759, the French abandoned Ft. Ticonderoga to the British in the French and Indian War.

In 1775, the Continental Congress established a Post Office Department, with Benjamin Franklin as the first postmaster general.

In 1847, Liberia was declared a republic, making it the only sovereign black nation in Africa.

In 1944, in World War II, German V2 rocket bombs hit targets in England for the first time.

In 1891, France annexed the South Sea island of Tahiti.

In 1952, Argentina's First Lady, Eva Peron, died.

Ten years ago: The new premier of Laos, Prince Souvanna Phouma, arriced in Washington to begin a four-day U.S. visit.

Five years ago: Pope Paul VI was visiting Turkey.

One year ago: The Apollo 15 spacecraft was launched from Cape Kennedy on a flight to the moon.

Artist Finds New Use For Thumb

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Seattle artist John Ramm wanted to "get art out of the museum and onto the road." He seems to have succeeded. Ramm says 12 of his sculptures are now hitchhiking around the United States and Canada.

Ramm's works, created in May just before "thumbing" became legal in Washington, are larger-than-life-sized human figures cut out of plywood. One painted arm sticks out in the traditional hitchhiking sign, the other holds a sign saying, "Take Me Along (I Fold Up.)"

Last month Ramm christened his pieces with various names, then propped them up along roadsides. Attached to the figures were instructions and post cards asking drivers to keep Ram posted of his progenies' progress.

"Ernie's up in Canada," he noted recently. "The people who took him said they had a hard time getting him through customs."

"I think Nami Grunt is in San Francisco. Drew spent a week in McCleary, Wash., as an auto repairman. Fenworth was in Evanston, Ill., and Leslie is on the way to Ohio."

Ramm asks those who give his creations a ride to get them back on the road when they reach their destination.

"If you've got one, please let go of it," he remarked in general. "Turn it loose and mail the post card. It's the only mail I get."

One of the figures, Bruce, evidently met an unfortunate end. The post card came back from Federal Way, Wash., a few miles south of Seattle, with the notation "burp." It was signed by "Big Bite the Te

Cherie's Believe It Or Not!

Would you believe that when Lee got home from Scout Camp we had to cut him out of his pants because they had been on so long the snaps had rusted together —

Would you believe I went on a diet and gained three pounds —

Would you believe this summer is almost gone and despite my good intentions about getting exercise I haven't been to the pool or on the tennis courts yet —

Would you believe that out of two hundred zinnia seeds Charles sowed he only got three plants —

Would you believe my kids like spinach but won't eat green beans —

Would you believe my washing machine eats socks —

Would you believe I just bought Charles five new pair of pants and then cleaned out his closet and found fifteen more he's forgotten he'd bought —

Would you believe my fellas can eat cookies faster than I can get them off the cookie sheet —

Would you believe that the political conventions being covered on television are just as boring as the summer programs that are being repeated —

Would you believe it's been a long - long summer and I'm pooped —

Well, you should believe it cause it's ever bit true!!

New Wire Boss For Scott City

SCOTT CITY — LeRoy G. Oberle has been named wire chief for Southwestern Bell at Scott City replacing M. Kent Wells.

As wire chief, Oberle will direct and administer telephone installation and repair activities in and around Scott City, Chaffee, Benton, Oran, Advance, Bell City and Delta.

Oberle joined Southwestern Bell in 1947 at Ste. Genevieve as a groundman and since that time has held several positions for the plant department in Ste. Genevieve and Cape Girardeau.

Oberle and his wife, Doris, are parents of four children.

Group Urges Speed Up Of Four Bridges

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — An organization called Missouri River Bridges Committee has started a petition campaign to speed up the building of four bridges over the river between St. Charles and St. Louis counties.

At a meeting Thursday night the presiding judge of St. Charles County, Douglas Boschert, was elected chairman of the committee. He said the committee will ask the state of Missouri to give high priority to the Missouri river bridges and that the target date for the first bridge, to carry Interstate 70, be moved up to 1976. The target date is now 1980.

Bridge Must Wait 5 Years

KANSAS CITY AP - It will be at least five years before Missouri can consider a new bridge on U.S. 36 across the Missouri River at St. Joseph, says Robert N. Hunter, chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department.

Hunter met Thursday with Kansas highway officials, including engineer John McNeal, and Richard Payton, assistant director.

The Kansas Legislature directed its highway commission to negotiate with Missouri for building a four-lane bridge to replace the present two-lane structure.

Hunter said several other major stream crossing in Missouri Have higher priority, and the U.S. 36 bridge will have to wait its turn.

Rye Casserole Bread

One of our nationally known food brands has paved the way for home bread- bakers everywhere to make all those yummy unbleached breads.

Natural flours now available are unbleached white, whole wheat blend, rye blend and corn blend! The packages of flour come equipped with helpful little recipe booklets stuffed inside. The flour products are said to be naturally aged, contain no chemical preservatives, no leavening or bleaching agents.

Don't know about you, but I'm glad to see it. One of my favorite, calorie- laden things to eat is whole wheat or rye bread spread with cream cheese — plain or flavored. And whole wheat toast beats plain old white toast by a mile!

Anyway, following find several ideas for breads, yeast and otherwise.

One other thing, these new flours will present endless possibilities for other cooking areas, too, such as cookies and cakes with less delicate textures ... pumpkin cake, peanut butter cookies, etc.

I can't pass up the chance to say good- bye for a week or so ... it was MY turn for the vacation count down, and the time has come. Perhaps I'll send you greeting from the far north ... I'm hoping to gather a few recipes while there.

Have a happy week and lock your doors and windows!

RYE CASSEROLE BREAD

Generously grease one 9 x 5-inch metal loaf pan, two 9 x 5- inch glass or smaller loaf pans, or 1 1/2 quart deep round casserole.
Combine in
large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted medium rye flour blend
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon caraway seed, if desired
2 packages active dry yeast
Heat in Saucepan
over low heat until
1 cup water
3/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons cooking oil
MIX:
Add 2 eggs and warm (not hot) liquid to flour mixture.
Blend at lowest speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed.
By hand, stir in another 2 1/4 — 2 1/2 cups flour to form a stiff batter. (Batter will follow spoon and leave sides of bowl).
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, 30-45 minutes. Stir down dough; (beat vigorously 30 seconds) spoon into greased pan. Let rise again in warm place until light, 30-45 minutes.
BAKE:
Bake at 350F for 40 to 45 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on rack before slicing.

*TIP: For a quicker bread with a more open texture, shape loaves after kneading; let rise only once for 70 to 85 minutes. Bake as directed.

EASY WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

COMBINE dry ingredients in large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour blend
1 tablespoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
2 cups milk
1/2 cup honey
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
1 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup cooking oil
MIX:
Add 2 eggs and warm (not hot) liquid to flour mixture.
Blend at lowest speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, stir in another 2¼ to 2½ cups flour to form a stiff batter. (Batter will follow spoon and leave sides of bowl.)
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled — about 30 minutes. Stir down dough; (beat vigorously 30 seconds) spoon into greased pan. Cover, let rise again in warm place until light, 20-30 minutes covering the first 10 minutes of rising. (Batter will not have doubled.)
BAKE:
Bake at 350 F for 35 to 40 minutes (25 to 30 minutes for two small loaves) until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on wire rack. Brush with butter and sprinkle with coarse salt, if desired.

*To make rolls, spoon dough after risen once, by tablespoon into 24 greased muffin cups. Let rise as for bread uncovered during the second rise. Bake at 400 F for 12 to 15 minutes.

EASY WHITE BREAD

COMBINE dry ingredients in large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted unbleached flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
2 1/4 cups milk
1/4 cup cooking oil
MIX:
Add 1 egg and warm liquid to flour mixture.
Beat ½ minute at low speed, 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, gradually stir in 4-5 cups additional unsifted unbleached flour to form a soft dough.
KNEAD:
Knead on floured surface until smooth and elastic— about 1 minute.
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 45-60 minutes. Punch down dough; shape into tow loaves; place in greased pans. Cover; let rise in warm place until light, 30-45 minutes.
BAKE:
Bake at 350F for 40 to 45 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on rack before slicing.

*TIP: For a quicker bread with a more open texture, shape loaves after kneading; let rise only once for 70 to 85 minutes. Bake as directed.

EASY WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

COMBINE dry ingredients in large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour blend
1 tablespoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
2 cups milk
1/2 cup honey
1/4 cup cooking oil
MIX:
Add 2 eggs and warm liquid to flour mixture. Beat ½ minute at low speed, 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, gradually stir in 4-5 cups additional unsifted whole wheat flour blend to form a soft dough.
KNEAD:
Knead on floured surface until smooth and elastic — about 1 minute.
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 70-80 minutes. Punch down dough. Shape into two loaves. Place in greased pans. Cover; let rise in warm place until light 45-60 minutes.
BAKE:
Bake at 305 F for 40 to 45 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on rack before slicing.

WHEAT CASSEROLE BREAD

COMBINE dry ingredients in large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour blend
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
1 cup water
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons cooking oil
MIX:
Add 1 egg and warm (not hot) liquid to flour mixture. Blend at lowest speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, stir in another 2¼ to 2½ cups flour to form a stiff batter. (Batter will follow spoon and leave sides of bowl.)
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and coubled, 30- 40 minutes. Stir down dough; (beat vigorously 30 seconds). Spoon into greased pan. Let rise again until light, 20- 30 minutes, covering the first 10 minutes of rising. (Batter will not have doubled.)
BAKE:
Bake at 375 F for 40 to 45 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan, cool on wire rack. Brush with butter and sprinkle with coarse salt, if desired.

*To make rolls, spoon dough (after risen once) by tablespoon into 24 greased muffin cups. Let rise as for bread, uncovering during the second rise. Bake at 400 F for 12 to 15 minutes.

CORN CASSEROLE BREAD

COMBINE dry ingredients in large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted corn flour blend
1/4 cup sugar 1 tablespoon salt
½ cup light molasses
2 eggs
POUR batter into pan and BAKE
Bake at 350 F for 15 to 20 minutes until top springs back when touched lightly in center. Cool; frost.

FROSTING

COMBINE in mixer bowl and BEAT until smooth: (Thin with milk if necessary)
2 cups powdered sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
1-2 tablespoons lemon juice

WHOLE WHEAT PANCAKES

Makes about 14 Pancakes
MEASURE dry ingredients into large mixing bowl:
2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour blend
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
MEASURE liquids
2 cups milk
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 eggs
MIX
Add liquids to dry ingredients.
Beat just until lumps disappear.
BAKE
Bake on hot griddle. Turn when edges start to dry. If batter thickens on standing, thin with milk.

? Consumer's ? Question Box

Margaret Dana

Q. I would like to know what is the difference in the amount of cream you get in whole milk, "low- fat" milk, and skim milk. There is considerable difference in price

A. The U. S. Public Health Service's Grade A Pasteurized Milk Ordinance requires fluid whole milk to contain at least 3.25 per cent butterfat, and skim milk must not have more than 0.5 per cent. However, "low- fat" and skim milk may sometimes have nonfat dry milk added as an extra ingredient, which increases the milk solids and the protein content.

Q. I understand that some medicines or vaccines for livestock are used in other countries that are not allowed here. For instance, a vaccine for foot rot in sheep that is used in New Zealand and Australia has not been approved by the FDA for use in the U.S.A. Yet meat from these countries is shipped in to be sold here. How can I be sure that the meat I buy for my family is produced in the U.S.A.?

A. You can't, in every case. Imported meat may be used in hamburger but no label tells what the mixture is. But the USDA, which has charge of all meat standards and inspection, must first inspect and approve all foreign meat plants before their products may be shipped into this country.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service checks the foreign plants at least once a year for conformity to the requirements of the Wholesome Meat Act. If a chemical added to cattle or sheep feed is not approved for use in meat in this country, the inspectors cannot permit meat containing that additive to be imported.

Q. I heard a report recently that said milk producers were worried about how they could keep their machines used in handling milk really clean if phosphates are taken out of detergents. I don't understand this. Why wouldn't any ordinary cleanser do as well?

A. I believe you may be referring to a report by the Connecticut Milk Dealers' Association and the Consolidated Milk Producers Association earlier this year, in which they said that the chemical added to cattle or whole milk contains about 87 per cent water and 13 per cent total solids. But that 13 per cent is our main source of necessary calcium and is rich in riboflavin (vitamin B) that helps keep skin healthy and vision clear. The water is a pleasant carrier of these essential nutrients.

Q. We are interested in purchasing a pool. Where can we write for the National Swimming Pool Institute's booklet you mentioned, "Minimum Standards for Residential Pools"?

A. The National Swimming Pool Institute's address is 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. The booklet, "Minimum Standards for Residential Pools," contains complete information and standards for swimming pool construction and equipment as approved by the Institute's Board of Directors. The booklet is 50 cents per copy. You may also get from the institute a booklet, "Pool Care-Guide," for home swimming pools, $1 each, and a sample contract for swimming pool construction and standard estimating form for 25 cents each. Send along a long, stamped and self- addressed envelope and ask the institute for their booklet, "How to Select Your Swimming Pool," if you'd like one.

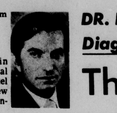
DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Diagnosis Is Difficult

There's Help for 'Just Nerves'



By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Your articles on health are the subject of many discussions when friends meet. I wish you would discuss how doctors can help us who have "just nerves" or rather how we might help ourselves. I read that making a diagnosis of "just nerves" is the toughest diagnosis to make. It is also a difficult one for the patient to accept. The pain is real regardless of what's causing it. I had this problem and it caused me to be more nervous just trying to describe my pain. Finally, I was diagnosed as a mild diabetic with diabetic neuritis. I have been getting B-12 shots every six months and I'm much improved. I also take tranquilizers. My weight was ideal—even the envy of fat friends.

Dear Reader – You're right. A diagnosis of "nerves" is a difficult one to make. It means that the doctor has to be satisfied that there is no other mechanism causing the pain or symptom. Since so many things cause pain this automatically means excluding an awful lot of disorders. And, you're right — it hurts just as bad regardless of the cause. If a patient has pain in the leg, he needs help for this pain whether it's caused by nervousness or poor circulation.

The role of a doctor is to help his patient. At times he can't unless he levels with him and makes sure he understands he doesn't have any serious disease and that his problem is really related to nervousness or emotional factors. Ideally, the doctor then delves into the life situation factors that are responsible for the nerves and the symptoms. Unfortunately, many doctors seeing lots of patients don't have time to do this in great detail for one patient. Neither the doctor nor the patient can afford for him to do this. This is one of the dilemmas of our society.

Many simple problems of nerves are benefited by eliminating habits which contribute to nerves, specifically drinking coffee which is a nerve stimulus and is just as bad regardless of the cause. If a patient has pain in the leg, he needs help for this pain whether it's caused by nervousness or poor circulation.

Diabetic neuritis certainly is painful and it is also sometimes difficult to diagnose in its early stages. That's one of the other dilemmas that doctors have—some diseases in their early development present so few findings that they are not easily diagnosed.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here's Way to Clean Silk Lampshades

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. G. S. who wants to clean her silk lampshades at home did not request washing instructions but I cannot resist passing on a method that really works. Be sure the shade fabric is colorfast. Remove any trim before washing. Sometimes these trims are attached with a fabric glue and can be easily pulled loose. If stitched, cut the threads and when trim is returned it may be either sewed or glued. Freshen any trim by brushing with a soft brush, such as an old toothbrush.

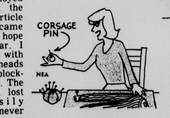
Wash in warm mild suds that are deep enough to cover the entire shade. Brush suds on, inside and out, with a soft lampshade brush and work quickly with an up-and-down motion. Swish shade in circular patterns to distribute suds. Thorough rinsing is most important to prevent streaking and for this use a sink spray hose or hold under the shower. To prevent rusting of the frame squeeze around top and bottom with a heavy bath towel to remove excess moisture. Hang shade by a string to clothesline to dry so it hangs free and dries evenly. From time to time during the drying process go over frames with a towel.—MRS. R. H. P.

DEAR GIRLS—This is tricky business but works on most silk shades. If the fabric looks stretched and soggy during the process, do not worry as it will tighten when dry. If outdoor drying is impossible an electric fan may be used to speed things up. Work fast.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I left our dark blue car out in the sun after I washed it, with the result that there are water spots all over the paint job. Does anyone know how to remove these unsightly spots? I tried wax and a rubbing compound but it removes the paint. Please, someone help me as I am really in hot water with my husband.—BONNIE

DEAR POLLY—I am a compulsive knitter and one thing that always annoyed me was picking out the pins after a blocked article had dried. I finally came up with an idea that I hope merits a Polly Dollar. I save all corsage pins with those lovely large heads and use them when blocking a knitted garment. The big heads never get lost in the wool, are easily found and a pin is never lost.—MARGARET



DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the many magazines that omit numbering some pages of advertising and using something like R-6 or not marking them at all. Other pages are numbered in the lower right hand corners, some on the upper margin and one I read had the number of the page at the bottom center between two columns. Why can't they number every page consecutively with the right-side page numbered in the lower right-hand corner and the left in the lower left-hand corner, OR, if they prefer, at the tops of the pages. It is really puzzling to try to find the continuing pages of a story.—WILMA

THEY EAT TOO MUCH

BONN, Germany (AP) — One of every four West Germans believes he is eating improperly, according to a survey by the Bonn Health Ministry.

Twenty-four per cent of those queried thought they were not getting full nutritional benefit from their meals because they were eating too much, too quickly and at the wrong times.

Girls' Coat Spectacular. Where else would you find posh, washable pile coats?

Smart moms start planning for back-to-school now. Getting an early start means you get to see selections at their peak. For example: plush acrylic pile coats in all sorts of animal disguises for 3 to 6x and 7 to14. Machine washable, too. Think of the cleaning bills you won't be paying. Come, see the whole collection.

Check our fall & winter catalog for a complete selection of girls coats.

Eagleton Offers To Quit Ticket

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Rejecting Thomas F. Eagleton's offer to quit the Democratic ticket, Sen. George McGovern says he wants to "wait and see" the reaction to his running mate's revelation that he received psychiatric care and shock treatments.

McGovern's top political adviser, Frank Mankiewicz, said the next three days will be "a little touchy," and that the incident can't be a plus for the Democrats in their uphill battle to take the White House from President Nixon.

Mankiewicz said that he thinks "a lot will depend on how the Republicans handle it. If they take it and run, there could be a considerable backlash," he said.

Eagleton told reporters on a flight to Los Angeles that "time will tell" how the public reacts to his disclosure that he voluntarily hospitalized himself in 1960, 1964 and 1966, because of "nervous exhaustion and fatigue."

Thomas F. Eagleton refused anew today to release medical records of his three hospital treatments for nervous exhaustion but said he would talk with his doctors about allowing them to discuss his past medical problems.

Eagleton also said he now realizes he made a mistake by not telling Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern about the three hospital stays before McGovern recommended him to the Democratic National Convention.

Eagleton revealed Tuesday that he had voluntarily submitted to hospital treatment in 1960, 1964 and 1966 for "nervous exhaustion and fatigue" brought on by overwork. Twice he received psychiatric care and electric shock treatment.

Eagleton elaborated on that announcement today, although Tuesday he said he would have no further comment on it during the campaign.

He said he does not now receive any medication except for "an occasional, very sporadic tranquilizer. I don't even know the name of it."

He said he did not feel any need for a psychiatric examination now and would not submit to one unless McGovern, President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew do the same.

He said the fatigue and depression that led to the three hospital stays were in his opinion relatively minor matters.

"In my own mind, I do view it as a broken leg or a broken arm," he said. "I realize many in the public do not."

He said he had reconsidered his initial stance of making no further comment about the matter and will instead try to educate the public about the kind of problems he encountered in the past.

Eagleton reiterated that he feels perfectly qualified to run for vice president and to take over the White House.

Newsmen who questioned Eagleton today at a morning news conference asked him again, as they did Tuesday, whether he would allow hospital records of his treatment to be made public.

Eagleton again refused, saying that these records are private, privileged documents. "And it is my intention that they so remain," he said.

He said the records are intended as communications among doctors, that they contain highly technical information not readily understandable by laymen, and that they contain information from personal interviews.

However, Eagleton did leave open the possibility that he will allow his former doctors to discuss treatment they gave him.

He noted that professional ethics prevent physicians from discussing publicly matters relating to their patients, and said he would within the next few days speak to the doctors and "discuss with them what should be said."

The Missouri senator was scheduled to depart today for Honolulu, Hawaii, to address a union meeting. He said he would telephone the doctors after he returns Thursday.

At the Los Angeles news conference, newsmen also pressed Eagleton on why he had not told McGovern about his mental problems when McGovern offered him the vice-presidential nomination.

"Quite frankly, I didn't think that these experiences were of that great moment," Eagleton said. "I now realize that it is. I've read the morning headlines."

He said McGovern had offered the No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket during a hectic day and that now he believes he probably would have told McGovern about it if he had had more time to think.

Eagleton said that no members of his family have been subject to mental difficulties. He said his mother died of hyptertension and his father died of natural causes when "his internal organs just slowed down at age 76."

If Eagleton should eventually leave the ticket, his successor would be selected by the Democratic National Committee.

ADMINISTRATIVE HEADQUARTERS for the City of Charleston will be in this recently completed city hall. Moving day is scheduled Friday and the Williamsburg - style structure will be "open for business" Monday.

FBI Questions Man In Cape Highjacking Scare

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Bondree Cortney, 55, of Des Plaines, Ill., was briefly taken into custody Tuesday night at Cape Girardeau Municipal Airport by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation after he told an Ozark Airlines stewardess that he had a .45 - caliber pistol and a parachute.

Cortney was released after questioning and allowed to proceed on the flight after FBI agents determined that he had had too much to drink and was not carrying a gun or parachute.

Cortney boarded Ozark flight 843 in St. Louis and bought a ticket for Paducah, Ky.

According to the FBI, Cortney made the remark about the gun after a stewardess refused to let him drink on the plane.

The FBI said Cortney left the plane voluntarily at the agents' request and allowed his luggage to be searched.

No charges were filed against Cortney because he made no statement about hijacking the airliner, but simply said he had a gun and a parachute, according to FBI agents.

Cable Cut Disrupts SeMo Service

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Normal long-distance telephone and Teletype service resumed today in a portion of southeastern Missouri affected by a long-line phone cable cut.

Carl Benbrook, district manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., said it was not known how the cable was severed. He said a report would be made today.

The break occurred on the eastern edge of Poplar Bluff, he said. Local phone service wasn't affected but Poplar Bluff and several towns surrounding it were without longdistance services part of Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Missouri was the second state to adopt a good roads constitutional amendment, and a total of 28 states have followed our example of reserving highway funds for highways in the Constitution. Several additional states prevent diversion of road taxes by statute.

It's A Spaghetti Plant

By RON PORTER

Remember the joke where you ask your neighbor if he heard about the guy who bought a farm that was a mile long and half an inch wide? And your neighbor asks what he's growing, and you reply that he's growing spaghetti, then you break up into fits of laughter?

Well, you can stop laughing now. There are spaghetti plants growing behind J. L. Wells' home at 417 Broadway, and if you don't believe it, the joke's on you.

The seeds are sold under the Silly Seed label, and the company that sells them offers besides spaghetti plants, elongated cucumbers and other vegetable absurdities.

Mrs. Wells bought the seed at Arlans Department Store in St. Louis in March. Wells planted the seed in April without really knowing what to expect.

At first, Wells says, it looked like a squash vine. Then the vine looked like it was sprouting little watermelons. Now, nearly four months later, the plant has produced a large pod with a very fibrous interior.

Instructions on the seed package say to boil the plant for 20 to 30 minutes and the fibrous material inside will expand to look like spaghetti. Cut the pod open, salt and butter, and eat.

Wells says he doesn't know what it tastes like, since the pods aren't yet ripe enough to eat.

Presumably it tastes like spaghetti.

Lusk Bound Over

NEW MADRID — Bennie Lusk, 25, of New Madrid, charged with murder in the July 16 shooting death of Elbert T. Johnson, was bound over Tuesday to Circuit Court following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Leo Hedgepeth, who ordered Lusk's $5,000 bond continued.

Testimony was given by two witnesses, Lucille Johnson, no relation to the deceased, who said she was Lusk's girl friend and was with him at the time of the shooting, and Willie Gilmore, operator of Brotherhood Club on Russell Street where the shooting occurred.

Miss Johnson testified she and Lusk were seated at a table in the Brotherhood Club when Johnson approached Lusk from the rear and struck him over the head with a "king-size Coke bottle." She said Lusk jumped up, faced Johnson and quickly fired two shots with a .22 - caliber pistol which he was carrying in his pants pocket.

Relating incidents prior to the shooting, Miss Johnson charged Johnson had called Lusk a bad name while the couple and three children were in Lusk's car parked outside the club.

After the shooting, Miss Johnson said she and Lusk went immediately to the home of Deputy Sheriff Shorty Price and told him of the shooting.

Gilmore's testimony differed with that given by Miss Johnson. He said he was at the club's bar and saw Lusk do the shooting, but that he could not see Johnson from where he was because of a wall. Gilmore testified Johnson had to be 15 feet away from Lusk at the time of the shooting or he (Gilmore) would have been able to see Johnson.

Both witnesses denied knowing of any prior trouble between the pair and said neither of the men had been drinking before the shooting.

Friends Say Eagleton Can Handle Pressures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri political friends and observers of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, for the most part, said the Democratic vice presidential candidate's disclosure of hospitalizations merely confirmed what they had known.

Eagleton told newsmen in Custer, S.D, Tuesday he entered hospitals three times between 1960 and 1966 because of "nervous exhaustion and fatigue" but since has been in "good sound, solid health."

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, whom Eagleton praised in his acceptance speech in Miami Beach, said, "I had no personal knowledge of the hospitalization" but had heared about it and did not know any details of the illness.

Asked in a St. Louis television interview if he thought the announcement would have any effect on the campaign, Hearnes said:

"No, Tom has successfully gone through several hardfought campaigns and can handle himself. Judging from how he handled himself in his previous positions, I think he can handle the rigors of office."

Lt. Gov. William Morris, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said "Tom Eagleton is one of the ardest campaigners I've ever seen, and I'm sure he, like most all of us who really work at campaigning needed a rest after the rigors of primary and general elections."

Henry Clay Gold, veteran political correspondent for the Kansas City Star, wrote in today's editions that Eagleton's three illnesses "tokched off Jefferson City speculation that Eagleton was undergoing treatment for mental illness, but the more common conclusion was that he suffered from alcoholism."

Jefferson City is Missouri's capital city.

"By the summer of 1968, it was widely accepted in political circles that Eagleton had been treated for mental illness," Gold wrote. "Medical records from Barnes Hospital in St. Louis reportedly were in circulation but, if so, they were never printed or reproduced in large numbers."

Eagleton was campaigning in 1968 for the U.S. Senate seat then held by Democrat Edward V. Long.

Gold wrote that the first illness, in late December 1960 and early January 1961, "touched off reports that Eagleton would not be physically capable to taking his oath of office (as attorney general; Jan. 9, 1961.

"The late Gov. John M. Dalton began immediate staff discussions on filling the attorney general's office if Eagleton failed to appear."

Eagleton left Barnes Hospital Jan. y and was inaugurated on schedule.

Gold said Eagleton's health came up among newsmen and some Missouri delegates at the Democratic National Convention immediately after Eagleton was chosen as Sen. George McGovern's runningmate. Gold said he received a call from a McGovern staff member within an hour after Eagleton had been selected, and was asked the name of the hospital in which Eagleton had been a patient.

Malden Man Found Shot

MALDEN — Harold Towery, 43, of 901 Stokes Blvd. was found dead in the den of his home early today by his wife and a neighbor.

Death has been attributed to a self- inflicted gunshot wound in the chest. A 28-gauge shotgun was used.

The shooting was discovered about 5:30 a.m., according to Dunklin County sheriff's department, when Towery's wife awoke and could not find him. She called on a neighbor to help her locate Towery and he was discovered in a chair in the den.

The body was taken to Landess Funeral Home.

He owned Harold Towery Trucking Company here.

Beer Thieves Are Nabbed

Three youths, wanted by Wayne County authorities for allegedly stealing a cooler of beer from a man at Lake Wappapello last weekend have been taken into custody by Sikeston Police Department.

The theft occurred either late Saturday or early Sunday. The youths, all 17 years old, are out on bond.

They are Paul David Saver, 730 East Kathleen; David Ray Alberson, 411 Broadway; and Gregory Clay Brannum, 411 Edmondson. All are charged with stealing under $50 and possession of five per cent beer.

Other arrests announced today by police include: Bill Joe Heuring, 924 Arlington, stealing over $50; Winston Wade Young, 1707 Kentucky, petit larceny; Joseph Vaughn Stewart, 911 Davis, speeding; John S. Tarpley, 219 Edmondson, careless and imprudent driving; and Robert James, Route Three, speeding.

Walkout Staged At Noranda

MARSTON — The firing of three electricians Monday night has reportedly resulted in a walkout of some employes at Noranda Aluminum Company, Inc.

A spokesman said early today, "There is a wildcat (or illegal) strike, not sanctioned by the unions. There is a picket line here and one highway patrolman. Anyone can work if they can get through the picket line. Quite a few employes have reported to work, but we are still not up to normal."

Two Injured In SeMo Accidents

Two were injured in one-car accidents in the area Tuesday, according to the highway patrol.

Sandra DeWitt, 9, of Sikeston was treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for a broken arm after the brakes failed on the car in which she was a passenger. Driver of the car was Lynell DeWitt, 32, of Sikeston. The accident occurred at 1 p.m. on Highway 62 east of Sikeston.

At 2 a.m. Tuesday on Route 51 near Puxico a pickup truck driven by Edna Louise Conner, 19, of Puxico Route One apparently went out of control and left the road. The driver told authorities she did not know how the accident happened. Injured in the accident was Roy Lee Conner, 22, of Puxico Route One.

WELFARE REFORM
PROPOSAL A
'BUDGET BUSTER'

Labeling the welfare reform proposal recommended by the Senate Finance Committee as a "budget buster," W. P. Gullander, president, National Association of Manufacturers, said that what the country really needs is a program that has an effective work incentive and provides more uniform standards of assistance.

The finance committee's bill would cost the taxpayers twice as much as the Administration's plan according to Mr. Gullander, who strongly urged that the committee alternative be rejected.

"Even if the concepts of the Senate Committee substitute were otherwise acceptable, with the fiscal outlook for the next few years as gloomy as it is, a new program involving expenditures of a least $17.9 billion in fiscal 1974 should be considered," he said.

The NAM has recommended that the Administration's program should be modified, including the denial of benefits to strikers and their families, and that it should be rigorously tested for two years.

The committee's plan of replacing the work requirement and work incentive with federally subsidized employment "could be a make-work project rather than a serious attempt to turn welfare beneficiaries into productive members of the community," Mr. Gullander said.

"Many of these families are in trouble because of the lack of skills among the adults. Yet the Senate Finance Committee's proposal would have those parents who go into job training receive less than those who go into make-work 'employment.' Although this is thought of as an 'incentive,' it might well become a disincentive to skill improvement."

THE SEASON FOR NUDISM

During the dog days of July and August, the number of people who secretly wish to be nudists for a spell rises in direct proportion with the temperature. Midsummer also is prime time for dedicated, no-nonsense nudists. The Midwest Sunbathing Association, for example, will hold its convention at Indiana's Sunshower Country Club and Nudist Resort starting today. And August will bring the Miss Nude Cosmos Pageant in San Bernardino, Calif.

Nudists contend that the unclothes human form is a wholesome physical entity which is neither inherently obscene nor apt to cause erotic stimulation in normal social gatherings. This acceptance of the nude body is construed to be a sound basis for mental and physical well-being and to provide the proper orientation for the rearing of children. Prior to 1900 such Americanmen of letters as Benjamin Franklin, Henry David Thoreau and Walt Whitman had espoused some facets of what is now modern nudist practice. But nudism as a movement did not become established in the United States until Karl Barthel, a German immigrant, held the first American nudist outing near Peekskill, N.Y., on Labor Day, 1929.

To some extent, nudity has acquired political overtones. Rare is the warm - weather antiwar demonstration that does not encourage at least a few participants to shuck their clothes, especially if a body of water is nearby. Some of the Yippies who gathered in Miami Beach for the Democratic National Convention went in for skinny- dipping, but the threatened nude parade down Collins Avenue failed to materialize.

People seem more tolerant nowadays of both organized and ad hoc nudity, possibly because it has lost its shock value. Certainly Patrick Leahy, state's attorney in Chittenden County, Vt., took a less- than - solemn view of the question last summer. Asked by police for guidance in coping with an increase of nude swimming, Leahy said skinny-dipping was permissible "on private land out of the view of the public" and "in secluded areas sometimes publicly used, if no member of the public present is offended." He ranked this decision with "my position on the use of sparklers on the Fourth of July and the validity of upside down license plates."

The Public Service Company of Colorado noted that a miniature printer to speed takeoff procedures on transoceanic flights is being tested in the cockpit of a Pan American World Airways 747. The printer, smaller than a typewriter, prints pre-departure and enroute clearances for the crew. Normally, these clearances are read over the radio and must be copied down by the crews. Radio signals activate the printer, which operates by heat rather than conventional mechanical impact. The printer has a printhead containing 35 tiny rectangles that heat and cool almost instantaneously, forming letters and numbers as the printhead glides across a heat- sensitive paper. The test is being conducted in service between the West Coast and the Far East.

American Richard Nixon, chopsticks and occidental decorum at the ready, is playing the most crucial game of Chinese Checkers in history. As to why the game is being played at all, few Americans could understand. Paradox is paramount: the President of the imperialist running dogs of Wall Street conversing with the owners of the Great Wall which neither piety nor good intentions would be allowed to penetrate. Western morality is a joke in a fortune cookie, as durable and useful as the last pleas of Tibetan monks murdered at the order of Mr. Nixon's hosts. Would the staged gaiety in Joyous Pavilion Park make one forget the thousands of Americans killed in Korea by Red Chinese soldiers who once romped as children in Joyous Pavilion Park? Perhaps the Temple of Azure Clouds would make one fall in love with the greatpast that once was China. But this is not that China: it is the unimaginable butchery and insanity of the so-called Cutural Revolution — that forging of Communist Chinese man and the decapitation of children who had the misfortune to be related to an enemy of Mao. Was this Richard Nixon in Peking making a generation of peace or a replay of Roosevelt at the Summits which consigned millions in Eastern Europe to Communist slavery and, ah so, hundreds of millions of Chinese to the Stalinist communism on the mainland? One would wish Mr. Nixon success in any genuine quest for peace and world freedom, but given the take- a - dive precedents of Americans at the Summit with Communists, the Peking Tea Sip can logically be considered a toast to the Wave of the Future.

This has been a lively election summer in most areas of the United States. Newspapers from all parts of the country have been full of political advertising. Politicians at all levels have engaged in a job of salesmanship from which many businessmen could take a few pointers.

The objectives of political advertising are practically the same as the objectives of retail advertising. In both instances, advertising is slanted to the individual on the local level. In both instances, an effort is made to overcome competition and to inspire the individual to act in favor of the advertiser.

On the basis of his constant experience, the retailer should do a better job of advertising than the politicians. But too often the opposite is true.

The political advertiser, more or less instinctively, seems to follow the principles of good advertising. There is a relentless consistency in political advertising; the politician never assumes that he has repeated his message often enough. In political advertising, product features -- that is, qualifications of the candidate -- are listed in precise detail. Finally, the political advertiser is specific in acclaiming benefits which will come to the individual if he acts in the desired way.

Each of these qualities -- consistent local newspaper advertising, appeal to the individual, concrete listing of product features, and promise of benefits -- are basic elements in the best newspaper advertising. Yet, some of the important elements are often ignored by retail advertisers.

REFLECTORIZED SIGNS
COMMUNICATE TO
"INTERSTATE MAN"

Pounded along an Interstate highway lately? If you have or are planning to do so, you might like to know Interstates are three times safer than other highways.

America's Interstate highway system was designed to be virtually accident - proof. And it could be, but for the fact that this 42,500 mile growing network of coast - to -coast roads has spawned a new breed of driver -- with potentially dangerous habits.

According to a recent study, the new "Interstate Man" set out on his trip knowing where he's going and generally how he's getting there, but he seldom decides in advance what he'll do along the way.

The average Interstate motorist, according to the study, spends 11 hours behind the wheel each day, covering more than 500 miles. And, since the vast number of Interstate travelers are vacationing or weekend visiting, they are strangers, traveling a particular route for the first time and totally unfamiliar with the range and location of service they will need.

All of these characteristics are dangerous. Many traffic safety experts recommend that 400 miles be the maximum distance traveled in one day, not the 500 and more typical of Interstate drivers.

Hours of constant high-speed driving and the fact that Interstate drivers don't expect anything to happen leads to a loss of sensitivity and "Highway Hypnosis" often develops.

The characteristics of the Interstate driver lead to uncertainty and indecision. Or even worse, the last - minute decision. Numerous accidents are caused by the Interstate motorist who suddenly spots a motel, gas station, or restaurant, and veers across several lanes of traffic towards the exit lane. If he makes the exit without sideswiping another car, too often his speed is excessive and he loses control on the exit ramp.

Reflectorized signs and road markings, used along the Interstate system, have helped increase driver reaction time by communicating to him well in advance of a turn or exit.

While good signing cannot itself insure an accident - free highway, it does help drivers help themselves by giving them more time to react. This is why easily - red reflective white - on -green guide signs are used on the Interstates and other high-speed roads.

The signs increase in size and legibility in ratio with the maximum permissible speeds and the time allowed the driver to understand the message.

GOODBY, MARTHA

Only if its fun- loving diplomat Henry Kissinger resigned would the Nixon administrationface a more difficult test than it does in trying to find a replacement for Martha Mitchell. Before she became disenchanted with politics, Martha provided a welcome spark of humor.

Her outspoken comments and telephone antics proved that the President had a sense of humor, or, at least, tolerance. Now she is gone, but even her departure as a "political prisoner" was in the best Martha Mitchell tradition.

She went out talking, telephone in hand.

AESTHETICALLY BAD

An item that comes in the "now I have heard everything" category is contained in a report of the Army Corps of Engineers predicting that within 10 years, one of the federal government's major hydroelectric dams will be relocated because of obsolescence.

In the words of the report, "Obsolescent locks and inadequate approaches at the existing Bonneville dam...will doubtless be solved by construction of a new dam" further down stream. Because of the local nature of the report, nothing was said of other federal hydroelectric projects such as TVA, other great dams on the Columbia river and elsewhere. Under present circumstances of soaring governmental costs, inflation and high taxes, to say nothing of the growing role of nuclear energy, taxpayers should hardly be expected to remain quiescent, as proposals come forth for the investment of billions of tax dollars in "new model" federal hydroelectric dams...dams that would unquestionably carry on as tax-favored commercial business enterprises in competition with the taxpaying, electric industry.

Any attempt to picture replacement dams "a few miles below" existing structures that have turned major rivers into a series of steps strains human credulity. The prospect of future generations improving this part of their environment is pretty dim if obsolescent government dams are going to become a permanent part of river scenery.

THE CHURCH'S

Slapped with a $500-million bill for "reparations" to pay for their fathers' sins against Negroes, many churchmen turned the other cheek. (Many others, though, merely turned their heads). Black leader James Forman has now upped the debt to $3 billion.

What is strange, however, is that whether they believe the claim is a valid one or whether they consider it outrageous, churchmen have been amazingly reticent about pointing out to black militants that, at least in the area of monetary aid, the churches' record in relation to Negroes has not been entirely shameful.

"More than 100 educational institutions in the South were founded, financed and staffed (1865-1890) by the churches inone of Christianity's most remarkable missionary upsurges," writes Francis Stuart Harmon in a letter to the New York Times. Harmon is vice president of the Interchurch Center and a trustee of the Riverside Church in New York.

The American Missionary Association (Congregational) sponsored 37 of these colleges and training schools, he notes. Baptists founded 26, Presbyterians 41 and Methodists 30. Others began under auspices of the Disciples of Christ, Episcopalians, Lutherans and Friends.

Christian and Jews, and nonchurch people as well, have channelled tens of millions of dollars to these schools through various funds and foundations and, since the end of World War II, through the United Negro College Fund.

This is but the sketchiest summary of church activity in only one field. But however much the churches have done, it has not, of course, been enough. The fact that so many people are unaware of these facts is proof that in the 106 years since the Emancipation Proclamation white America has never mounted the kind of national commitment, either through the churches or through secular agencies, that is needed to complete the transition of black America from slavery to full citizenship. Forget Forman and his tactics and the particular chunk of money he demands. The real question he has raised is, do the churches indeed have an unfinished mission?

Even if the answer is a resounding "yes," that mission cannot be discharged by simply handing over vast sums of money to black militant organizations out of a self-flagellating sense of guilt for past sins of omission or commission. It will require a carefully planned, long-term, interchurch and interracial co-operative endeavor.

MINDFUL OF THE

Any question, as to the necessity of granting rate increases to the nation's railroads, should vanish in the hard light of facts released by the Association of American Railroads. The Association's annual "Railroad Review and Outlook" notes: "Strong advances were made by the railroads on several fronts in 1969 despite the disruptive impact of continuing inflationary pressures on costs ... The immediate problem, in the interim period of the next year or two, will be to keep the financial health of the railroads from further impairment -- and, indeed, to improve their viability ..."

The strong advances cited included new records in freight traffic and revenues, expansion of unit train operations, improvements in freight service and introduction of a new generation of high -speed passenger trains in the Northeast Corridor. Desnite these favorable factors, an Association official has said: "Without the help provided from general rate increases authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the financial situation would have become desperate ... Further substantial escalations of costs are ahead and, without further prompt help from rate adjustments, maintenance of even the present low level of railroad earnings is not to be expected..."

In granting "wage increases" to the railroads, the nation should be mindful of the record. Over the years, the rails, through increased efficiency and advancing the technology, have stepped up their productivity and have actually helped stem the rising tide of inflation. Rather than adding to the fires of inflation, needed rail rate increases assure that commerce continues to flow smoothly at the lowest possible cost over the nation's primary arteries of transport.

STAYING HOME
WON'T HELP

Increasingly we hear people say they don't particularly like any of the candidates this year, and plan to stay at home and not vote.

This won't help the situation, whether you are a Republican, a Democrat or something else.

Perhaps some of us don't get particularly enthusiastic about any one candidate in either party — we feel that way ourselves now and then — but voting is an American duty — one by which we vote for the person we think is best qualified. Even though we aren't especially impressed by any candidate for one particular office, we at least have the judgement to choose the lesser of the evils and vote for the person we believe best qualified. If we fail to do this, and stay at home, the election could well go to those who have axes to grind or special interests to promote. In that event, our last estate as citizens could well be worse than our first.

GETTING THE
FACTS STRAIGHT

If a citizen listened only to farleft politicians and to the media, he would have a sadly distorted picture of the situation in Vietnam. Senator Edward Gurney of Florida thinks that we should "get the facts straight," and recently presented some of those facts which are at variance from the widely accepted view of the war.

Said Senator Gurney; "To those who claims we are guilty of crimes against humanity in Vietnam, let the record show that it is North Vietnam that is invading the South; that it is North Vietnam which is responsible for the 36,000 civilians who have been murdered in South Vietnam since 1960; that it is North Vietnam which was responsible for the 5,700 civilians slaughtered in cold blood at Hue during the Tet offensive ... and that it is North Vietnam which must be blamed for the hundreds of thousands of South Vietnamese and American casualties resulting from this war."

Senator Gurney also pointed out two little known facts about the way the communists have conducted the war: "it is North Vietnam which has used flamethrowers against the Montangnards of Dak Son," and "it is North Vietnam which chains its tank drivers to their seats and sends them forward against the South Vietnamese ... "

Clearly the North Vietnam communists and their Soviet and Red Chinese allies don't want peace in Southeast Aisa. Their aim is to control South Vietnam and to move from there against other free nations in that part of the world. Refusing to face these facts makes it more likely that our enemies will achieve their goal.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON: — In the oak- paneled world of ambassadors, there's an old saying that a diplomat is an honest man sent out to lie for his country.

This has been the unhappy role of our envoy to Paraguay, J. Raymond Ylitalo, who has represented President Nixon in the Autocratic court of dictator Alfredo Stroessner since 1969.

Indeed, the rivet-eyed Stroessner is fond of daying that the American ambassador is like a member of his cabinet.

When we revealed that Stroessner's epauletted generals and admirals were hustling heroin, therefore, Ylitalo sprang to the defense of the military dictatorship. "Slanderous." he called our story.

"As the American ambassador in Paraguay," he proclaimed, "I consider it my duty in good conscience to refute the unfounded accusations . . .by Mr. Anderson."

Stroessner promptly ordered his embassies around the world to issue press releases quoting Ylitalo. The dictator also had his foreign minister, Raul Sapena Pastor, send a private message to Secretary of State Bill Rogers demanding that he denounce us in public.

But this was carrying diplomacy a little too far for Rogers who sent Pastor a polite note saying he personally didn't have any hard evidence on the charges.

IT'S CLASSIFIED

Rogers didn't mention that he had some classified cables from Ylitalo's own embassy in Paraguay, refuting what Ylitalo had said in public . On at least four occasions between June 16 and June 20, the embassy secretly supported our stories.

Ylitalo happened to be on home leave at the time. But back in Paraguay, his staff fired off reports telling how Stroessner had refused to cooperate to end the heroin trade.

"The time has come to give a clear signal," began one classified cable. It went on to describe Paraguay's do-nothing posture on drugs.

Other cables suggested that the United States whould warn Paraguay of aid cuts unless the dictatorship helped to crack down on the drug traffic. "Marked improvement" was needed, declared the embassy.

Stroessner had let the U.S. down by refusing to adopt strong new laws to control drugs and failing to adhere to the 1961 narcotics convention protocol.

Paraguay has also dawled about handing over the notorious French narcotics kingpin, Auguste Record, who is living comfortably in a Paraguayan jail while the United States pleads with Stroessner to extradite him. On this count, too, the embassy urged tough action by Washington.

FOOD SCANDAL

The mismanagement of the military commissary system has become so bad that even House Armed Services Chairmen Eddie Gerbert, D-La., the Dutch Uncle of the Defense Department, is upset about it.

Hebert has quietly written to outgoing Army Chief William Westmoreland complaining about "commissary personnel, both in and out of uniform, belonging to an organization whose members are doing business with commissaries."

The chairman, of course, was talking about the Defense Supply Association, a well-heeled hobby whose membership includes both food brokers and the Pentagon officials to whom they sell their goods.

"This sort of arrangement," said Hebert, "has the potential for restraint of trade which will result in higher prices for military personnel, kickbacks and conflict of interest."

Hebert asked Westmoreland to give the commissary mess his "personal attention." It needs it. The $2.5 billion (B) a year commissary system is the biggest and worst -managed supermarket chain on earth.

It is supposed to provide food and other basic goods to military families at low cost. But all too often, the commissary officers have given the best deal to the food brokers who have, in turn, provided them with such emoluments as Paris playgirls and plush hotel rooms.

When we first revealed these shenanigans early last year, we found that the four top logistics officers in the Pentagon had winked at the improprieties because they were also involved with the food lobby as "honorary presidents" of the Defense Supply Association.

Subsequently, they have resigned, and the association has changed its name to the American Logistics Association.

Yet we have found that the brass hats and the lobbyists are still playing buddy -buddy. At the Masters Golf Tournament in Augusta, two commissary officers, Forrest Gorr and Vance Rimmer, were spotted living it up with two bigtime food brokers, Russ Friend and Charley Reed.

Gorr has also gone to the races with such other food brokers as Si Abzug and Mack Palmer. Both Gorr and Rimmer insist they always pay their own bills when they travel with food brokers.

Whether they do or not, such cozy friendships have led to disastrous mismanagment of the commissary system. A recent GAO study, for example, showed that European commissaries had bought an 81-year supply of Kellogg's tuna fish salad and a 28-year supply of crabmeat salad.

This blunder has led to the tuna fish being unloaded on Army mess halls in Europe in hopes it can be consumed before it all spoils.

Two Waive Hearings

NEW MADRID — Two waived preliminary hearings on felony charges Tuesday before Magistrate Leo Hedgepeth and were ordered bound over to Circuit Court.

Ernest Strickland of North Lilbourn was bound over to Circuit Court under $1,000 bond on charge of exhibitng a .22- caliber pistol in an angry and threatening manner before J. W. Moore, Jr., and Rueben Moore July 15. J. W. Moore, Jr., was hospitalized for a gunshot wound which he reportedly told authorities was accidentally inflicted by Strickland.

Henry Johnson of Baderville, accused of assaulting Charles Johnson Sunday with a five-inch hunting knife, was bound over to Circuit Court under $500 bond.

Two charged with public drunkeness, Bobby Gene Treece and Carly Wayne Burgett, each were given 30-day suspended jail sentence, placed on six months probaton and fined $45.

Sullivan was fined $15 for using out-of-state operator license while a Missouri resident.

Charged with failure to exercise care in the operation of a motor vehicle, Robert Wayne Curtis paid $11 fine.

Man Pleads Guilty To Car Wash Thefts

NEW MADRID — Billy Collins of New Madrid pleaded guilty to burglary and larceny charges Tuesday in Circuit Court and was granted supervised probation after Judge William L. Ragland sentenced him to consecutive terms of two years on each charge.

Collins was accused of breaking into and stealing $5.75 at Bud Hartwell's car wash Aug. 19,1971. A charge of possession of stole property against Collins was dismissed.

Luther Midkiff of Clarkton, charged with forgery, was granted a change of venue to Mississippi county.

Divorces granted include Mary Wood from James F. Wood. She was given custody of three children and $45 monthly for each child for support, following approval of a property settlement.

Carlos Deprow was divorced from Ethel E. Deprow. She was restored to her former name of Davis. Deveda Partney was awarded a divorce, $32.50 weekly alimony, $300 attorney's fee and custody of one son on her cross bill against Everett C. Partney.

Custody of six minor children and a divorce were granted to Lucille Perkins from David Robert Perkins.

Sarah Arma Lee Wigfall received a divorce, custody of four children, $5,000 alimony, $15 per week for each child for support and $100 attorney' s fee in her suit against Wash Earl Wigfall.

Kiwanis Group Will Elect Lt. Governor

Don Pratt and Jim Stallings were elected delegates to the caucus to elect a Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor for Division 13 at Tuesday night's Kiwanis Club meeting at Ramada Inn.

The caucus will be held Tuesday night at the home of George Kirk, 1014 North Kingshighway, following a family picnic for all clubs in Division 13.

Two delegates from each of the 13 clubs in the division, plus past governors, will affirm the election of Warren Hastings of Cape Girardeau as lieutenant governor. Hastings' election becomes effective Oct. 1. The delegates will then elect a lieutenant governor for the term beginning in October, 1973.

The picnic and caucus has been held at the home-of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk for the past 33 years, with the exception of one year.

Colleagues Give Support To Eagleton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate colleagues rallied to the support of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton today after his disclosure that he was hospitalized three times in the 1960s for psychiatric treatment.

His defenders included both party leaders in the Senate.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said at the start of today's Senate session that Eagleton, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, is "a fine and decent man."

"I say to our opponents: You have made statements which become you.

Eagleton Tells Of Hospital Stays

CUSTER, S. D. AP — Following is a partial transcript of the press conference Tuesday at which Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, the Democratic nominee for vice president, discussed his medical background:

On three occasions in my life, I have voluntarily gone into hospitals as a result of nervous exhaustion and fatigue. Few in this room knew me well — Tom Ottenad of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Ed O'Brien of the St. Louis Globe- Democrat and a few others have followed my career and they know me to be a rather intense, hard-driving person. And as a younger man, I must say, I drove myself too far. In 1960, when John F. Kennedy was running for president and I was the Democratic nominee for attorney general of Missouri, I'm not bragging when I say this, but I was the only statewide candidate who would go around the state and speak for John Kennedy. I felt a common interest with him and a deep admiration for him. I was in many instances my own car driver. The day and age of Secret Service escorts, that wasn't my cup of tea in 1960, and I pushed myself terribly, terribly hard, day and night. And after that campaign was over I did experience an exhaustion and fatigue and I was, on my own volition, hospitalized in Barnes Hospital , St. Louis, Mo., King's Highway and Euclid Ave. . . .the period of hospitalization, as best I could recall it, was probably four weeks. It was around, it started around Dec. 1 and culminated the first day of January or soon after the new year of 1961.

The second experience was four days in length and I went to Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., between Christmas, Dec. 25, 1964, and New Year's Day, Jan. 1, 1965. During that week, that holiday week, I was in Mayo for four days, having a physical examination. Part of the manifestation of my fatigue and exhaustion relates to the stomach. I'm not too dissimilar from the fellow in the Alka- Seltzer ad, who says, "I can't believe I ate the whole thing." But I do get, when I do overwork and tire myself, I do get kind of a nervous stomach situation. It's one of the physical manifestations of what I've experience.

The final time, ladies and gentlemen, was perhaps in middle or late September of 1966, where I once again went back to Mayo Clinic, once again exhausted and fatigued. The length of the stay was, I think, approximately three weeks.

One could ask and should ask, well, in light of that history have you learned anything. All of us live our lives in an attempt to learn more about ourselves. We are free in giving advice, as it is, to citizens on how they could conduct their lives. I'm a lawyer, I was free in giving my advice to my clients on legal matters. But in many respects, we are our own worst enemies and it took these experiences, these tough experiences, for me to learn a little bit about myself.

I still am an intense person. I still push pretty hard, but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years, and for the past six years, since 1966 to date, I've experienced good, solid, sound health. I make it a regular practice to remain as idle as I can on Sunday, that's my free day, that's my day to go swimming if the weather permits, and in winter months, that's my day to lie on the couch and watch the Washington Redskins, the St. Louis football Cardinals and the Kansas City Chiefs, the last two being my favorite teams.

So I believe and I'm very confident that, at age 42, I've learned how to pace myself, I've learned how to measure my own energy and to know the limits of my own endurance. Insofar as this campaign is concerned, it is my intent to give it all that I have, but on a measured basis, not to repeat the experiences that I have experienced in those prior years heretofore mentioned.

Q. Was Sen. McGovern aware of these hospitalizations before he decided on you as the candidate?

A. No. he was not. He was made aware of them the weekend or the Monday after the convention.

Q. Sen. McGovern, what is your reaction to it?

McGovern: When I talked to Sen. Eagleton about my decision to ask him to go as my running mate, I asked him if there were any problems in his past that he though were significant, that were worth discussing with me at that time, and he said no. And I agree with that. I'm fully satisfied on the basis of everything I've learned about these brief hospitalizations that what it manifests on Sen. Eagleton's part is the good judgment to seek out some medical care when he was exhausted. I've watched him at very close range in the U.S. Senate for the last four years and, as far as I'm concerned, there's no member of that Senate who is any sounder in mind, body and spirit than Tom Eagleton. I'm fully satisfieid, and if I had known every detail that he discussed with me this morning, which is exactly what he has just told you here now, he would still have been my choice for the vice presidency of the United States.

Q. Was alcohol involved at all?

A. Eagleton Alcohol was not involved in any iota or any way, shape or form whatsoever. Now it has been mentioned that there has been a rumor that has plagued me for all these recent years and I can assure you categorically without hesitation, unequivocally, there has been no trace, no hint, no iota, not one iota of alcoholism as part of these rumors, I mean as part of the actual fact, albeit it has been part of the rumors.

A. Did you receive any psychiatric help?

A. Yes I did. I consulted when I entered the hospital voluntarily my physician, who was my family physician, an interneist, Dr. William Perry in St. Louis. ... I was treated by a psychiatrist, Dr. Frank Shobe ...

Q. Was there any thought in your mind of refusing the offer of Sen. McGovern because of this?

A. My wife and I discussed this when we went to Florida when it had been speculated in the press that I was one of several people being roughly considered for vice president. We discussed amongst ourselves whether this development would necessitate my disclosing this medical history background which I did here today. I told her then that I thought it would . . . We discussed it at some length and both agreed that we had an opportunity to render a service, I thought I did. We were satisfied my health was sound, that I had learned the lessons of the past, and that the risk of having to divulge these things was a risk we would have to face up to.

Q. When Sen. McGovern asked you, you didn't discuss it with him?

A. I told him that my health was solid and sound and I think that's what Dr. Pearson the Senate physician will conclude when he examines the reports of my exams taken last Friday.

Q. What type of psychiatric treatment did you receive?

A. Counsel from the psychiatrist including electric shock.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

PRAYER: Father, we thank You for Your matchless grace and for the power of the Spirit that strengthens us in time of crisis. Use us to communicate the Word to people and to help restore truth, mercy, and knowledge of You to the land. In Jesus' name. Amen.

What's The Law?

By Jack Strauss, LL. B

Horace, in terrible financial difficulties, never knew where the next check was coming from or when the next one was coming back. Consequently, he decided to end it all, but not at a total loss. He bought himself an airline ticket, a substantial sum of flight insurance from a vending machine, naming his wife and children as beneficiaries, and then proceeded to blow-up the airplane while in flight.

When the pieces were put together, and the cause of the explosion uncovered, a lawsuit followed. The surviving relatives of those on the plane sued the insurance company that maintained the vending machine for the deaths of their loved ones.

"It was pure carelessness," they insisted in court. "To sell insurance by means of an automatic vending machine is like playing Russian roulette. There's no way to ascertain a purchaser's mental or financial condition. The new result is that some crackpot like Horace was able to blow up an airplane for the insurance money."

"There was nothing careless about it at all," was the answer. "Vending machines have become a part of American life. And, for those passengers who are in a hurry to board a plane and want insurance, they're a necessity. Therefore, we're blameless."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the insurance company pay for the plane going down?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the risk of a person blowing himself up in an airplane for the insurance money is minimal. The risk must be balanced against the greater need for having the vending machines at the airport, observed the judge, so that insurance is easily and quickly available, particularly for those who are late and in a hurry to catch a plane.

St. Louis Provides Visiting Spot For The World

ST. LOUIS (AP) — More than two centuries ago, in 1763, traders Pierre Laclede Liguest and Auguste Chouteau began carving out a settlement several miles downstream from the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

Today land meant originally for a place to trade with the Indians has mushroomed into what public relations men call "Gateway to the West" and a "mecca" for tourists seeking adventures in sports, amusement and musical entertainment.

Perhaps the biggest drawing card for the city is the 630-foot, stainless steel Gateway Arch on the banks of the Mississippi River. The landmark, completed in 1968, stands as a tribute to the early pioneers who left St. Louis to start a long, fateful treck to the mythical Golden West.

A unique, self-leveling capsule train takes Arch visitors to the top of the United States' highest man-made attraction. Once there, 75 feet above the pinnacle of the Washington Monument, the tourist can see a wide panorama which reaches into western St. Louis County on the west and into the environs of Illinois on the east.

Capsule trains run along each leg of the Arch during the busy summer season, keeping waiting time to a minimum.

Within walking distance of the Arch are a host of tourist attractions to keep the visitor busy during his stay.

Foremost among these is the .bevy of riverboat restaurants and tour liners which dot the western shore of the Big Muddy.

Billed as the world's largest inland waterways excursion boat, the silver colored Admiral is available for daily trips down the Mississippi to the Jefferson Barracks Bridge and back during tie summer. The boat can accommodate 4,000 passengers on its daytime and special moonlight dance cruises from Memorial Day through Labor Day. Passengers can enjoy a narrated cruise during the downstream trip. On the way back snack bars, sundeck lounging, a deck of pinball machines for the kids and even a concert on a real, steam calliope are available.

Other tour boats, smaller in size and scope, include the Goldenrod showboat, featuring ragtime music, old-time melodrama and movie classics along with a first-rate buffet. Also available are the floating restaurant Becky Thatcher and the Robert E. Lee, a "mock" steamboat offering specialized fish or steak dining and cocktail lounges.

Two strictly visitor boats complete the riverfront attraction. The U.S.S. Inaugural, a World War II minesweeper which saw service in the Battle of Okinawa, awaits nostalgic tourists. And the Santa Maria, replica of Columbus' flagship, has been restored to her original splendor after sinking several years ago during a thunder and wind storm on the river.

Within a couple of blocks of the riverfront is the downtown section which spans history beginning with the pre-Civil War era.

The domed Old Courthouse was the site of slave auctions and the infamous Dred Scott trials which sparked the nation's awareness of involuntary servitude. Inside are fully restored courtrooms and displays including 1862 murals by artist Carl Wimar which were the first of their kind west of the Mississippi. Many of the slaves sold on the courthouse steps were sent immediately to the cotton plantations of the South.

Near the courthouse is the Old Cathedral, formerly called the Basilica of St. Louis. The church was built on land originally assigned fr church use in 1764 by Pierre Laclede. About a mile to the west is the Eugene Field house, once the residence of the acclaimed children's poet who penned Little Boy Blue. The house includes an antique toy and doll collection and some original Field manuscripts.

Moving west of the downtown hub, the tourist encounters another wealth of attractions to occupy his photo-snapping hours.

About a half hour's drive from the Arch, the 200-acre Six Flags over Mid America amusement park beckons recreation hungry visitors. The park opened in June of last year and is available on a fulltime schedule from June through October.

Patterned after the mammoth Disneyland park, Six Flags attractions include a roller-coaster, log ride, motorized auto rides, dolphin show and a carousel. The park also offers live entertainment in an air conditioned auditorium, snack bars and gift shops.

Located on the site of the 1904 World's Fair, the sprawling Forest Park by itself has enough attractions to fill several days of a visit to St. Louis.

The 83-acre St. Louis Zoo offers one of the country's best animal displays and a circuit tour by miniature railroad. Unlike most zoos, the facility is free to the public. Youngsters can spend hours at the Charles H. Yalem Children's Zoo. A small admission is charged at the Yalem section, which includes display of newborn animals, a goat and bird feeding yard and a bread "mouse house."

Other sections of Forest Park provide space for the city Art Museum with Asian, European and American treasurees spanning 5,000 years, and the McDonnell Planetarium, offering regularly scheduled star shows and astronomical exhibits.

Within the park boundaries is the Municipal Opera, which provides nightime entertainment including top Broadway musicals and performances by leading singers and dancing groups. The Muny seats 12,000 persons under the stars at its nightly summer series.

Another sectikon of town offers the Missouri Botanical Garden, said to be one of the largest and most beautiful horticultural displays in the world. The 70 acre-plus spread of lush greenery and floral exhibits includes the Climatron, a goedesic-domed structure of hexagon panels that can simulate any climate. The dome houses a variety of tropical plants and trees, as well as a glass enclosed fish pond.

Further out in St. Louis County, the plus estate of beer baron August A. Busch Jr. is open to the public under the name Grant's Farm. The farm includes a natural wildlife area, historic shrine and a long cabin built by former President Ulysses S. Grant in the days when he hauled wood to sell at the riverfront.

Grant's Farm tours are fee, but should be arranged by phone or mail prior to a visit because of the facility's popularity.

Sports fans are in for a full schedule during summer visits. Regular season games by the baseball Cardinals and professional soccer Stars are held in the 50,000 seat Busch Memorial Stadium. The ball park was finished in 1966 and serves as a winter field for the football Cardinals as well as outdoor auditorium for the annual Shrine Circus and an occasional convention.

Across the river in Illinois two modern tracks, Cahokia Downs and Fairmount Park, attract fans of the turf sport.

Also in Illinois, just off Interstate 70 near Collinsville, is an anthropologist's delight called Cahokia Mounds State Park. The park includes more than 100 Indian burial mounds—capped by the hundred-foot Monks Mound. Archeologists estimate Monks Mound dates from around 1200 a.d. and is believed to have been the grand temple of an ancient Indian settlement. Cahokia Mounds includes a picnic area for the history buff.

Night owl tourists can cap off their days with a visit to one of the many clubs which have sprouted in the city and suburbs, marking a revitalization of late night entertainment. A few years ago it was unusual to have one top act in St. Louis. Today clubs feature regularly "big name" performers such as George Shearing, Jack Jones and the Buddy Rich orchestra.

It's been a long time sutte Laclede and Chouteau slogged off their boat on the Mississippi. The town has seen slavery, depression and the introduction of the ice cream cone and hot dog at the World's Fair.

St. Louis 1972 provides a home for almost two million persons and a visiting spot for the world.

Hearnes Commutes Sentence

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP)- Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has commuted the 99-year sentence of William N. Pollard, who was convicted in the sensational 1948 murder of a baby in St. Louis.

Pollard is now totally incapacitated and will enter a Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe, Ohio. In 1970 he was paroled from the state penitentiary at Jefferson City to a rehabilitation unit at Moberly, Mo.

Pollard was arrested and convicted after St. Louis police had first questioned a Bolivar, Mo., couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Winn, in the killing. The body of 21-month-old Joseph Nichols, Jr., was found in a dresser drawer at the old American Hotel in St. Louis.

Pollard, who took custody of the child from its parents in Huntington, W. Va., had occupied the hotel room just before Winns checked in. The couple later won a $25,000 damage suit against the hotel.

Arington Named FHA Committeeman

Bill V. Arington of East Prairie Route One has been appointed to the Sikeston area committee of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA), John Foster, state director, announced today.

Arington and his wife live near East Prairie with their three children, Randy, 20, Sandra, 19, and Carol, 17. The Arington family owns approximately 600 acres and farms a total of approximately 750 acres. The Aringtons have lived and farmed in the Dogwood area all of their adult life. They are active members of Dogwood Methodist Church and participate in many other community activities.

The FHA Sikeston area committee is composed of three members, each appointed for a three-year term. One membership expires each year.

Other members of the committee are Albert Peters, Jr., and Johnnie L. Blisett.

Major functions of the committee are to: (1) determine eligibity of individual applicants for loans; (2) establish limits with respect to amounts of credit that may be extended; (3) make recommendations with respect to loans to associations, and water districts and partnerships; (4) consult with the county supervisor concerning servicing of loans and with respect to borrowers who should be referred to other credit sources.

Bobby R. Hicks, FHA county supervisor at Sikeston, serves Scott and Mississippi counties.

The FHA furnishes credit and technical assistance to individuals and groups in rural areas who are unable to obtain the credit they need from other sources. Emphasis is given to the development of family size farms and rural communities through loans for family residences, water and sewer systems, and the ownership and operation of farms.

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

MISSOURI HONORED BY VICE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Missouri again has been paid a great tribute. The Democratic Party has once again looked to our state for its Vice Presidential nominee as it did in Chicago twenty-eight years ago, when Senator Harry S. Truman was nominated.

It was my privilege to first serve in the Federal government at the request of Mr. Truman; and now share with the second from our state to receive this honor, Senator Thomas F. Eagleton, the privilege of serving Missouri and the nation in the Senate.

MISSOURI WOULD RECEIVE LESS THAN IT PAYS UNDER REVENUE-SHARING BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C. — State and local governments in Missouri would get back only 76 cents for each dollar Missourians pay in personal income taxes to support the Administration's revenue-sharing bill passed by the House of Representatives and now under study by the Senate Finance Committee.

Under the Administration's measure as passed by the House, Missouri taxpayers would contribute an approximately $140.5 million, based upon fiscal 1971 Federal income tax figures, but our state and local governments would receive only $107.5 million in revenue sharing allocations.

Sponsors of the revenue-sharing measure say it was designed to provide revenue for local governments which face declining tax bases and in increasing demand for costly governmental services. At the same time, however, state governments would be encouraged to expand revenues from their state income tax.

Under complex formulas, the House bill would distribute $1.8 billion to state governments and $3.5 billion directly to local governments, the latter sum apportioned on a formula based equally on the percentage that the government has of the total state population, the extent of urban population in its area and the percentage of low-income residents within its jurisdiction.

According to the best figures now available, Missouri would rank 26th among the states in per capita receipts under the proposed revenue sharing legislation.

In 1971, Missourians paid 2.67 percent of all Federal personal income taxes, but under the House-passed bill, our state and local governments would receive only 2.03 percent of the $5.3 billion to be distributed in the initial allocation.

In addition to this disadvantage for Missouri between what we will pay and what we will get back, the bill will not provide assistance to some of the more critical needs facing our state and local governments.

For example, many public schools in Missouri and nationally face a "fiscal crisis" and are looking to state and Federal governments for greater assistance. The Administration's House-passed bill, however, does not provide any assistance for independent public school districts.

In many areas we have a "taxpayers' revolt" in the form of legal challenges to the property tax as the principal source of revenue for the public schools plus legislative proposals to alter the Federal income tax structure.

Because of my reservations as to the overall philosophy of revenue- sharing and the fact our state and many of our local governments would receive less under the Administration's House- passed bill than what it will cost our taxpayers, I am urging the Senate Finance Committee to re-examine both the formula on allocations and the basic concept of this legislation before the bill is reported to the Senate.

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

JAPANESE ELECTIONS

The Democratic Convention in Miami wasn't the only party election held last week. The Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) of Japan- that country's ruling party since the war -- also nominated its candidate for national leadership. Kakuei Tanaka.

The following day, in a procedure vastly different from the American electoral process, the Japanese parliament voted along strict party lines to elect their Prime Minister, Mr. Tanaka. An election much less tiring than our own.

The Japanese election had special significance for Americans this year. Our relations with Japan were severely shaken by this year's Nixon "shocks" (as they are called in Japan). First, there was the fight on textile quotas. Then there were the surprise announcements of the China trip and the new economic policy.

The deliberate and slow-moving Japanese government, which operates on the principle of consensus decision- making, was thrown into a turmoil and politicians and bureaucrats alike experienced a serious loss of face.

New Era of Relations

The reaction of the LDP was to elect the dynamic Mr. Tanaka who is fondly referred to in Japan as the "computerized bulldozer." The choice of Tanaka has opened a new era of U.S. -- Japanese relations -- an era that will see the two allies embarking on independent but parallel courses in world affairs.

The most serious problem between our two countries is the lopsided trade advantage (approximately $3.2 billion last year) in Japan's favor. The Japanese economy has a highly excesive capacity not only to produce but to produce for export.

The Japanese seem to understand now that they will have to sharply curb exports if they wish to stabilize the free world trading system and avoid another revaluation of the Yen - something Prime Minister Tanaka wishes to avoid.

Mechanisms Established

Increased domestic investment to solve social problems, a liberalization of import regulations and an improved distribution system will encourage more American investment in Japan. If Japan does not take steps soon we will have serious problems in the coming years.

The only encouraging change is that, after the trauma of the past, mechanisms have been established to avoid unnecessary cross- cultural shocks and concentrate on the complexities of international trade – a considerable task in its own right.

Dear Editor:

"The government is the only agency that can take a useful commodity like paper, slap some ink on it, and make it totally worthless." -- Ludwig von Mises

"It is precisely when a free gold market is needed that most modern governments seek to suppress it. For it reflects and measures the extent of the lack of confidence in the domestic currency: and it exposes the fictitious quality of the 'official' rate. And these are among the reasons why it is needed." -- Henry Hazlitt, "What You Should Know About Inflation"

Apparently the United States government has chosen to ignore the enlightened example of the vast majority of the IMF nations and to imitate the gold laws of two non-IMF nations -- U.S.S.R. and Communist China.

Non- ownership of gold permits politicians, whom we elect, to produce (by deficit financing) all the dollars they want to remain popular and be re- elected. If our citizens could own and trade in monetary gold, the inflationary bubble, and the embezzlement of life savings it creates, would burst and there would no longer be a "monetary crisis." The politicians' spending could be controlled!'

If you really wish to stop inflation, write to your Congressmen and to the Secretary of the Treasury asking them to legalize ownership of gold by all citizens.

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley,
President
Glendale, Cal.

Mississippi County Schools Get $12,929

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Congressman Bill D. Burlison of Missouri's Tenth Congressional District recently announced that the Office of Education has approved the awarding of $12,929 for Special Programs for Educationally Disadvantaged Children to school districts in Mississippi County.

Mr. Burlison noted that the grants are authorized under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, and are part of a program providing special grants for urban and rural schools serving areas with the highest concentrations of children from low- income families.

The U.S. Representative explained that the funds will be used solely for programs and projects designed to meet the special educational needs of educationally deprived children in pre- school programs and in elementary schools serving areas with the highest concentrations of children from low- income families. The grants may also be used in secondary schools in the same areas when the local and state education agencies determine that here is an urgent need for such programs in secondary schools, according to the Congressman.

County school districts receiving funds are: East Prairie R-2 $3,764 and Charleston R-1 $9,165.

Myers Named To Farmers For BondPanel

Peter Myers of Sikeston has been appointed to the advisory committee of Farmers for Bond for Governor, according to John Zapf, chairman of the organization.

Zapf said, "We are pleased to have a man of Myers' caliber working with us in the campaign. He and other interested farmers throughout Missouri have joined Farmers for Bond to help Kit become Governor and work with him on developing a platform to strengthen the Missouri farm economy."

Bond met recently with the advisory committee in Jefferson City. Various issues were discussed, including possible changes in the Missouri Department of Agriculture to make the agency more responsive to the needs of Missouri farmers.

Myers is a member of the Farm Bureau, Missouri Farmers Association and the Rotay Club. He and his wife Mary have five children.

The World Almanac recalls that prior to his election in 1860 Abraham Lincoln received a letter from Grace Bedell, 11, suggesting that he grow whiskers, because "All the ladies like whiskers and they would tease their husbands to vote for you . . ." Lincoln started his beard after his election.

SUNDAY

The Daughters of Isabella will serve breakfast from 8 a.m. to noon in the basement of St. Francis Xavier school, 106 North Stoddard. Bacon, eggs, sausage, biscuits and gravy, juice, coffee and milk will be on the menu. Tickets may be bought in advance from D of I members or at the door.

Cystic Fibrosis Chairman Named

Mrs. Rene DeKrieck, 317 Kramer Drive in Sikeston, was named chairman of the Breath of Life campaign to fight children's lung diseases by Thomas J. Barta, president of the Gateway Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, St. Louis.

Mrs. DeKrieck will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support the research and care for children affected by cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and other related lung-damaging diseases.

The Breath of Life campaign will focus most activities during the week of Sept. 10.

Cystic Fibrosis, thus far an incurable disease, is inherited when both parents carry the defective gene. It is believed that one in 20 persons carries the C/F gene, usually without knowing it. Because of improved therapy and constand research, many C/F patients are living beyond infancy to their teens, and into young adulthood. That same kind of therapy is relieving and often curing children suffering from the other respiratory afflictions whose symptions resemble those of C/F.

The National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation has 110 affiliated centers across the United States.

Princess Resigns Rank

BANGKOK (AP) — Princess Ubolratana, the oldest of King Bhumibol's three daughters, has given up her title amid rumors that she has secretly married a fellow student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

There was no mention of the rumored romance, but it is customary for members of the Thai royal family to resign their rank if they marry commoners.

Princess Ubolratana went to Massachusetts in 1968 to attend Concord Academy and then went to MIT to study mathematics.

Births

SITZES — Specialist Four and Mrs. Edward Sitzes are parents of a daughter, Christine Marie, born July 14 in Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. She weighed seven pounds, six and one-half ounces and is the first child.

Mrs. Sitzes is the former Patricia Rentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rentz of St. Louis. Sitzes is the son of Mrs. Robert Sitzes, 903 Hawthrone in Sikeston, and the late Robert J. Sitzes. They are living at Clarksville, Tenn., where he is stationed in Fort Campbell, Ky.

ARMSTRONG — Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Armstrong of Charleston are parents of twin daughters born Monday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Karen Loraine was born at 9:03 a.m. and weighed six pounds, nine ounces. Sharon Lynn was born at 9:04 a.m. and weighed five pounds, seven and one-half ounces. They have four sisters and six brothers.

Mrs. Armstrong is the former Dorothy Marie Tucker, daughter of Jake Tucker of East St. Louis, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Halter

Halter-Conn

CHARLESTON — The marriage of Francine Conn and Phillip M. Halter was solemnized June 24 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Henry's Catholic Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Conn, Jr., of Wyatt and Halter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Halter of Charleston.

The Rev. Michael Swalina performed the double- ring ceremony.

Lighting the candles and serving as acolytes were Richard Conn, brother of the bride, and Tommy Coon of Charleston.

Mrs. William White of Cairo, Ill., organist, accompanied John Stallings of Charleston as he sang the "Lord's Prayer" and "More".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of crepe, styled with an A-line skirt and full, deep-pleated back. The empire waist was covered in re-embroidered lace, the scallops being outlined with seed pearls. Tiny pearls also completed the wide cuffs of the sheer, organza bishop sleeves.

The wedding - ring collar was completely covered in pearls arranged in a flower design.

The Juliet open- crowned cap of lace and encrusted pearls, held a three-tiered veil of waist - length bridal illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of stephanotis and white roses with long white velvet streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Jeanne Vasterling, the bride's college friend and roommate, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Conn, sister of the bride, Mrs. James Enderle, of Cape Girardearu sister of the groom, and Miss Eileen Stocking of Charleston.

They wore floor-length gowns of a delicate blue shade of crepe of the same style as the bride's gown. Each wore a headpiece of blue tulle, white gloves and carried a long-stemmed white rose.

Ray Threlkeld of Powell, Tenn., served as best man. Groomsmen were Edward Boyd of Sikeston, uncle of the groom, James Enderle of Cape Girardeau and Dan Lankheit of St. Louis.

Ushers were Joe Stricker of Belleville, Ill., cousin of the groom, and James Conn, brother of the bride, stationed in Fort Gordon, Ga.

Miss Margaret Ann Conn, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest register prior to the ceremony.

Honored guests were Mrs. David E. Conn, Sr., and Mrs. R. O. Bock, grandmothers of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boyd Sr., grandparents of the groom.

Mrs. Tony Sevic and Mrs. Robert Bruenderman served as hostesses for the reception which was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall immediately after the ceremony.

Serving at the reception table were Mrs. Michael Franks of Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. William Toon of Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Joe Sevic of Charleston. Also assisting were Mrs. Paul Conn, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Elott Raffety, Mrs. E. T. Small and Mrs. Robert H. Bryne, all of Wyatt.

Miss Carol Jane Conn, sister of the bride, presented rice bags to the guests during the reception.

After a wedding trip in the south they will live at 1118 West Mill Road, Evansville, Ind.

The new Mrs. Halter, a 1967 graduate of St. Henry High School, is a 1971 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau with bachelor of arts and bachelor of science in education degrees in English.

This past year she was a teaching graduate assistant at SeMo. State, teaching freshman composition courses and taking graduate courses for a master of arts degree in English.

The groom, a 1966 graduate of St. Henry High School, is a 1971 graduate of University of Missouri - Rolla with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is a sales engineer for Gulf Oil Co., working out of Chicago.

Hansel-Edmondson

Janet Hanselman

ORAN — Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hanselman announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Leatha, to Jimmy Carl Edmondson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Edmondson of Route One.

Both will be seniors at Oran High School in the fall. Wedding plans are incomplete.

Ann Landers

Argument Reveals Shocking News

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about a problem that I'm sure perplexes many parents, yet I don't remember ever seeing it in your column.

What should a parent do if his child (junior high age) tells him that a friend is planning to run away or is smoking pot? Our 14 -year- old daughter often hears such confessions and in turn she tells me. I am not concerned about her becoming involved or being led astray, but I do wonder about my obligation to the parents of these children. Many of them are virtual strangers to me. I do not see them socially, or at PTA, or anywhere else.

I am not a meddler and I don't want to put my child in the position of being a stool pigeon. Yet it seems to me these kids are looking for help or they wouldn't be confiding in my daughter.

Should I talk to the teachers or the counselors or to the parents? I feel an obligation to do something but I don't know what to do or how far to go. Please consult your panel of experts and use your own experience to counsel me. —— Know Too Much

Dear Too Much: A parent who violates his child's confidence destroys something precious. Don't do it. You could, however, suggest to your daughter that she encourage her friends to talk to you if they are unable to communicate with their own parents. You then could attempt to give them information and set them straight. It would be wonderful, of course, if you could obtain permission from these children to ask their parents to consider counseling. This is, of course, what is needed.

Dear Ann Landers: Help me, please, I'm about to go out of my mind. My husband and I got into an argument over some small thing. One word led to another and before we knew it we had a terrific fight going.

In the heat of the battle I said something about his mother. Then he blurted out that six years ago he had had an affair with my sister. She was only 16 at the time. My husband and I were both working very hard that summer and I had invited my sis to stay with us and take care of the children. My husband said the affair lasted all summer.

My sister married when she was 18 and was divorced at 20. She is now living with my mother. To say I was shocked by all this is putting it mildly.

Now I wonder if we should cancel our plans to go visit Mom in September since Sis is still living with Mom. I remember that she and my husband seemed quite chummy last summer when we were all together. My husband swears there is nothing between them and he has asked me to have faith in him.

Mom knows nothing about this. Should I tell her so she'll know why we have changed our plans? Or should we go? --- No Name No City

Dear N.N.N.C.: Go. And keep your mouth shut. It's bad enough that YOU know. Don't upset your mother with this beautiful news. When a man asks you to have faith in him, you should make every effort to do so. And you can prove that you trust him by being relaxed --- in other words, don't watch him like a hawk. He'll appreciate it --- and it could do a lot to strengthen your marraige.

Confidential to Must Stinky Go?: Descenting a skunk is an intricate and unpleasant surgical procedure. It is also expensive. Some veterinarians refuse to do it for any a any amount of money. Since most "pet" skunks were once wild there might be a danger of rabies, which is why some states have banned skunks as pets.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's bost difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage —— What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CYNTHIA COFFEY of Sikeston will model the new "baggy cuffed pantsuit" in the "Let Us Entertain You" fashion sow Aug. 7 at Holiday Inn. Tickets are available from any sorority member of Delta Gamma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi or by calling 471-8159

A SPURIOUS POPULISM

The latest political gimmick is for left- of- center politicians to label themselves "populists." Their purpose in so doing is to give radical doctrines an authentic American image. But there isn't any historical link between the new elitists, who masquerade as populists, and the farmers who flocked to the Populist Party banner in the 1890s. The heart of the populist movement of the last century was a demand for the unlimited coinage of silver.

Today's self- styled populists aren't concerned with the monetary issue. And they certainly aren't interested in returning power to the people.For all their talk of participatory politics, they want to increase the power of Big Government over the people.

The sham of the new populism is revealed in its power base in radicalized university faculties and in the urban protest movements.

For instance, it is downright ridiculous to equate Harvard University's elitist professors with old- style agrarian populists. One has only to look at the background of the financial backers of the new populist movement to see that the new populism is a fraud. The backers are Park Avenue dilettantes and radical-chic actors and writers from New York and Hollywood. Kevin Phillips, the syndicated columnist, has provided the best description of the new political breed, calling them "Porsche populists."

Nevertheless, vintage liberals will use the populist label as long as possible. They even plan to institutionalize it.

Sen. Fred Harris (D-Okla.), who isn't seeking reelection, plans to become a professional populaist when he leaves office next year. He will serve as chairman of the New Populist Institute and the New Populist Action, two groups whose goals are, according to the senator's press secretary, "the redistribution of wealth, income and power in this country and the deconcentration of economic and political power."

The New Populist Institute was behind the recent "Strip Mining Conference" at Cumberland Gap, Ky. Delegates came from Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico and Arizona. According to the Washington Post, a delegation from the conference planned to "go to Washington to start lobbying for a strong strip mining bill." Ironically, these "populists" apparently didn't have the people with them. Coal miners showed up at the conference and handed out bumper stickers that read, "Coal Puts Bread on a Lot of Tables."

A Southern States Industrial Council researcher reports that the New Populist Institute is the research arm of an essentially unified organization and is supported by tax deductible contributions. "The New Populist Action," he explained, "is unabashedly political and will engage in assisting the campaigns of 'populist' canadidates and will agitate for 'populist legislation'."

Among Sen. Harris' associates in the New Populist Institute will be Sam Brown, erstwhile student campaigner for former Sen. Eugene McCarthy; Peter Barnes of the National Coalition for Land Reform; Beverly Moore, an associate of Ralph Nader; and Phil Moore of the Project for Corporate Responsibility, a Naderite outfit.

The new populist organizations in the U. S. already are a considerable factor in the development of a "hate- business" climate. Not only are they urging "deconcentration" of industry -- the forced breakup of major corporations -- but they are taking aim at agribusiness. One of the new populist objectives in this area was revealed recently when spokesmen for something called the Agribusiness Accountibility Project testified against land grant universities.

The Agribusiness Accountibility Project, which has been described as research group supported by the Field Foundation, charged at a hearing of the Senate Migratory Labor Subcommittee that land grant universities are concentrating their attention on helping agribusiness while neglecting farm workers and the rural poor. The critics of agribusiness received an especailly friendly reception from Sen. Adlai Stevenson III (D-Ill.), chairman of the subcommittee.

The emphasis of the land grant universities on agricultural production is clearly in the public interest. Efficient Agriculture means higher quality, lower cost food for American consumers. Moreover, farming is a business these days. A good farmer must be a good manager. It would be absurd and hurtful if land grant universities sought to perpetuate uneconomic farm units. Rural America isn't cheated by the emphasis on agribusiness. But the country is cheated when efforts are made to deal with farming in terms of political protest instead of scientific agriculture.

The old populism died as prosperity returned at the end of the 1890s. The new, spurious populism doesn't deserve a better fate. The current variety of populism offers nostrums that are on a par with the free silver proposals of the late 19th century.

Tornados Down This Year In Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Where have all the tornadoes gone?

Warren M. Wisner, National Weather Service climatologist for Missouri, notes that since 1954, the three-month period from April through June has averaged 18 tornadoes a year in the state. The highest number for the period was 35 in 1967 and the lowest had been eight in 1959.

This year, only four tornadoes occurred, and all of them were in April, Wisner said.

So far for the year, only five tornadoes have been confirmed—the lowest half-year total since 1954.

The lack of activity does not augur anything for the rest of the year, Wisner said. "Normally we could expect as many as nine tornadoes to occur in Missouri between now and Dec. 31," he said, "but it is really impossible to forecast the actual number."

Chinese Buy Two Concordes

PARIS (AP) — Communist China signed a contract today to purchase two supersonic Concorde jetliners from the French and British manufacturers.

The contract, described as "preliminary purchase agreement," was signed by Wang Ya-xiang for the China National Machinery Import and Export Corp. and Henri Ziegler, president of Aerospatiale, the French partner with the British Aircraft Corp.

Ramsey Hurls Nepotism Challenge At Tinnin

PARMA -- Randall Ramsey, candidate for state senator in the 25th district, today promised that if elected he would not, under any circumstances, try to put members of his family on state payrolls.

Ramsey told The Daily Standard today he challenges his opponent, Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin of Hornersville to tell voters of the 25th senatorial district exactly which members of his family are on state payrolls.

Ramsey stated he had found members of the Tinnin family in the Agriculture Department, Department of Revenue, Ozarks Regional Planning Commission and Department of Welfare.

"I believe this puts a political officeholder in a bad position for voting on appropriations for a department where a member of his family is on the payroll. He can be literally blackmailed," Ramsey declared.

"I will not be put into that type of position when it comes to voting on the people's business," Ramsey emphasized.

Ramsey said the following relatives of Sen. Tinnin are on the state payroll: Mildred Tinnin, sister, Department of Welfare, annual salary, $5,640; Joseph Tinnin, nephew, Department of Revenue, annual salary, $5,616; Clint Tinnin, brother, Department of Revenue, annual salary, $9,108; Brent Tinnin, son, Ozarks Regional Planning Commission, annual salary, $13,200.

Ramsey said this information was taken from the official manual of the state of Missouri for 1971-72 (Blue Book).

Mrs. Steward Named To Area Danforth Post

Mrs. Linda Steward, former Scott County coordinator for the Danforth re-election campaign, has been named Southeast Missouri area coordinator, according to George H. Capps, chairman of Citizens for Danforth.

As area coordinator for the Danforth re-election Campaign, Mrs. Steward will aid in campaign development within the 23-county area, with special emphasis on the building of a strong precinct organization.

She will be one of five area coordinators in the state working for John Danforth's re-election as Missouri's attorney general. Danforth is seeking his second four-year term for that office, employing the campaign slogan, "He Makes It Work".

Mrs. Steward, born in Cape Girardeau, received her education in Dallas, Tex. She holds a bachelor of arts degree from Southern Methodist University in history and speech.

While living in Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Steward worked in television as hostess of a show for pre-school children.

Mrs. Steward presently lives at 218 Kramer in Sikeston. Her husband, Fred H. Steward, Jr., is affiliated with Steward Steel Supply Company. They have three children.

Started Club Idea

The service club idea was originated in 1905 by Paul P. Harris, a Chicago attorney, who gathered members from businesses and professions for rotating meetings at their offices to become the Rotary International, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Year In Jail Metted Out On Driving Charges

BENTON — Danny Hibbs of Oran appeared before Magistrate Judge Lloyd Briggs and was bound over to Circuit Court to appear Thursday.

Hibbs is being tried for the March 16 break-in of a Chaffee home.

Kenney B. Jones of Blodgett Route One was sentenced to one year in the county jail on two counts of driving while operator's license was revoked and two counts of improper automobile registration.

Punishment was taken under advisement against Wayne Long of Chaffee Route Two, charged with maintaining a nuisance on his property. Long was accused by neighbors of keeping a large number of dogs in unsanitary surroundings. Long's sentencing was set for Sept. 13, and he was ordered to comply with health department regulations.

Earl Miller of Chaffee Route Two, charged with shooting one of Long's dogs, will be sentenced on Sept. 13.

Sentencing for Harold Gosche of Oran Route One, charged with not keeping a vehicle under control, was set for Aug. 23.

Monroe Sylvester LeGrand of Benton Route One was fined $15 for operating a motorcycle without a valid operator's license.

Charges were dismissed against Larry Ray Miller of Illmo Route One for pulling an over-width load.

Ralph Vernon LeGrand of Cape Girardeau was fined $10 and court costs for failure to use a motorcycle helmet.

Aug. 1 was set as trial date for James Wilford Baker of Chaffee Route One on charges of careless and imprudent driving.

Charges were dismissed against Gary Eugene Prindle of Oran for permitting an unlicensed person to operate a vehicle.

Millie Kathrein Martinez of Oran paid $5 fine and costs and showed proof of obtaining a valid license on charges of operating a vehicle without proper operator's license.

Bond was set at $1,000 for Eugene Harris of Benton Route One on charges of driving while operator's license was revoked.

Bertha Mae Wheeler of Oran Route One had her punishment taken under advisement for driving without an operator's license. Sentencing date was set for Aug. 30.

Don Harlan Williams of Oran Route One paid court costs and had charges of careless and imprudent driving dismissed.

Ervin Andrew Glueck of Chaffee Route Two paid court costs on charges of driving without a chauffeur's license. The charges were dismissed.

Charged with driving while license was revoked, Dariel J. Hodge of Morley, had his punishment taken under advisement and sentencing was set for Aug. 16.

Fined for speeding violations were Larry Thomas Hendrix of Cape Girardeau, $10 and costs; Billy Todd of Cape Girardeau, $14 and costs; Larry Dennis of Overland, $10 and costs; Howard Denton Cline, Jr. of Chaffee, $22 and costs.

Also, Kevin Thomas Machaler of St. Louis, $10 and costs; Annie Ruth Font of Benton, $26; Ronnie L. Hicks of Duncan, Miss., $30, and William Lynn Mills of Vanduser, $10 and costs.

SOUTHOLD, N.Y. (AP) — Tuesdays and Thursdays are light days for those fishing the waters of Peconic Bay so Mrs. Mary Morris of the Southold Fishing Station did something about it.

Outboard boat and motor rentals on those days are half price for senior citizens. So instead of paying $17.50 for an 18-foot boat and motor each Tuesday and Thursday it costs a senior citizen only $8.75.

13 Treated For Injuries

Thirteen were treated Tuesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital as accident patients.

Included were:

Bennie Plunk, 27, Marston, dropped a ladder on right hand, bruising right little finger; Paul Long, 49, Matthews, bruised toe at work; Daniel Kleeman, 4, East Prairie, received first and second degree burns of hands and left foot on truck.

HAROLD SPICKERMAN of Bunker Hill, Ill., professional superstock boat racer, in his class "B" runabout will be in competition Aug. 13 at Jaycee sponsored races on the Mississippi River at New Madrid.

Top Boat Racers Entered At N. M.

NEW MADRID — Area sports fans will be treated to something different when professional superstock boat races are held Aug. 13 on the Mississippi River sponsored by the New Madrid Jaycees.

Warm-up and time trials for the 12-event race start at 11 a.m. across the levee at the south end of Main Street. Racing will start at 1 p.m.

Outstanding drivers from Southeast Missouri and the St. Louis Outboard Drivers Association will be competing for $750 prize money and trophies.

Approximately 80 runabout and hydroplane boats will be entered in five different classes, ranging in speeds from 60 miles per hour to over 100 miles per hour.

A former New Madrid resident, John B. Carey of St. Louis, will be in competition in "E" hydro class. He is currently high-point driver in that class and was overall top hydro driver at the Huntsville, Ala., Trans- Am race.

Other area drivers appearing are Lynn Crews of Kennett. He is high-point "C" class service runabout champion, and is undefeated in the 1972 season. Clyde McDonald of Cape Girardeau, rated an all-around outstanding driver, will also compete.

Top St. Louis drivers who will be racing are Bob Lowery, holder of six national titles, Emmet Homfeld, national competitive driver, who was high point man of the Trans-Am races and the St. Louis ODA; Harold Spickerman of Bunker Hill, Ill., class "B" runabout champion; and Charley Holman of Davenport, Iowa, class "B" hydroplane champion.

Proceeds from the fund-raising project are earmarked for the city's park improvement fund, according to Buck Hunter and Charles Spitler, co-chairmen for the event.

Aaron, Morgan Deliver

ATLANTA (AP) — Tug McGraw is awfully glad that he doesn't pitch in the American League. He'd probably never make the All-Star team if he did.

"They don't recognize relief pitchers over there like they do in the National League," the New York Mets' bullpen star said Tuesday night after helping the Nationals win the 43rd midsummer classic with a tense 4-3 victory in 10 innings.

As if his powerhouse pitching didn't speak eloquently enough for his argument, the left-hander had much more to say after winning his first All-Star game.

"Relief pitching is an art," he said, "and only the National League recognizes that fact. Specialization is the National League way, the modern way. I'm glad that my league has underlined the importance of a relief pitcher. He's really the 10th man on the team."

All of McGraw's remarks were, of course, directed at the American League—but mostly toward Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles. In three straight All-Star games, the American League field boss has never picked a relief pitcher for his staff.

"Earl certainly doesn't recognize us," said McGraw

McGraw was certainly recognized as one of the best pitchers on Atlanta Stadium's playing field Tuesday night, although there were several other standouts in one of the bestplayed All-Star games in recent years.

McGraw held off the American League with shutout pitching in the last two innings, striking out four batters, before Cincinnati's Joe Morgan came through with the game-winning single in the 10th.

"It was some kind of breaking ball, but I don't know if it was a slider or curve since I've never seen him before," Morgan said of the pitch he hit for a run-scoring single off Baltimore southpaw Dave McNally, the losing pitcher.

Actually, the whole affair never would have gotten to the extra-inning stage except for some game-turning dramatics by Atlanta's Hank Aaron, the hometown golden boy, and Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals.

Aaron coaxed the standing room-only crowd of 53,107 to an ear-splitting roar when he belted a two-run homer over the 375-foot mark in left-center to give the Nationals a 2-1 lead in the sixth inning.

Then Rojas, one of the unlikeliest home run hitters on the field, delivered a pinch-hit clout with a man aboard in the eighth inning to give the Americans' a 3-2 lead that put a wet blanket on Aaron's accomplishment. However, the Nationals tied the game in the ninth on Lee May's run-scoring bouncer.

Aaron called his home run "the most dramatic" he's hit. "It made me feel good because most of the folks came out to see me hit one," said Aaron, who has unloaded 659 career homers in his chase toward Babe Ruth's record 714.

His latest blast was collected off Cleveland's Gaylord Perry.

Cowboys Favored

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Devaney has a string of 23 coaching victories and 32 unbeaten games, but if he hopes to continue that streak, he had better have a few aces up his sleeve.

Devaney, coach of the 1972 College All Stars, has been drilling his squad in preparation for Friday night's 39th AllStar Game against the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys in Chicago.

The veteran Nebraska coach, whose teams have won two straight national football championships, told a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Chicago Tuesday he was well aware of what the National Football League champions could do.

"After a study of Cowboy game films, we decided to concentrate our game preparations on punting and kickoff returns," Devaney joked after introducing his squad.

In a more serious vein, he noted:

"With a group of guys like this, we feel that if we got any coaching to them at all, we would have a good chance. I know they're going to give it a great effort Friday night."

The All Stars will be led by quarterbacks Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson, both of Nebraska, and Pat Sullivan of Auburn, the Heisman Trophy winner.

The Cowboys are 16-to 17½point favorites in the game, which the pros have won 27 times while losing nine and tying twice.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco 49ers reported that rookie wide receiver Terry Beasley has broken a bone in his right big toe. The former Auburn All-American had just returned from being out eight days with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Chuck Hixson, who set many national passing records at Southern Methodist, announced his retirement after the Kansas City Chiefs said he had been traded to Buffalo. He never played in a NFL game. He was the Chiefs' 13th draft choice in 1971.

Franco Harris, the Pittsburgh Steelers' No. 1 draft choice, signed a multi-year contract with the team. The terms for the former Penn State player were not announced.

The Baltimore Colts signed veteran wide receivers Eddie Hinton, Ray Perkins, and Jim O'Brien who's also a placekicker, and defensive back Tom Curtis.

Wendell Tucker, a four-year wide receiver, was cut by the St. Louis Cardinals. Secondyear kicker Skip Butler was released by the New York Giants, who also said rookie linebacker Jim Evans will undergo knee surgery.

Mike Tilleman, a Houston defensive tackle, was reported in good condition after exploratory abdominal surgery. Doctors said they found an abcess on the abdominal wall but no malignancy. Tilleman, 28, a seven-year veteran, had a malignant growth removed from his stomach in 1969.

Passing Improves

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals quarterbacks completed 10 of 17 passes Tuesday as the team held two extended workouts.

Veteran safety Larry Wilson made two interceptions during a brief scrimmage. Wilson is in his 13th pro season.

Three players were released by the Big Red. Quarterback Mike Frank, defensive lineman Henry Alford and veteran free agent Wendel Tucker were cut, lowering the Cardinal roster to 64.

Jr. Ruth Stars To State

Sikeston's Junior Babe Ruth All-Stars departed for Joplin today to compete in the state tournament and defend their title of a year ago.

The District 3 champions will battle Joplin at 6:30 this evening in the first game of the five - team, double-elimination affair.

Leonard Campbell is managing the squad which has few players back from last year's state championship team which went on to finish second in the mid-west plains regional at Bell Plains, Minn.

The Senior All-Stars lost two of three games in their double-elimination tournament last week at Jefferson City.

Home Runs Top Tourney Play

Puckett, Farris and Bob Ralph fields exploded with first round excitement Tuesday night as the three Little League tournaments opened with belated action. Ten squads took part in the heated competition which featured homers and exceptional pitching.

NATIONAL LEAGUE — Talented Kiwanis hurler, Mike Dewitt, pitched a one-hitter en route to a 10-0 victory over Security National in the first game.

Kiwanis leaped to a six-run advantage in the first inning, then went scoreless for the next two innings. An effective catcher and batter, David McCauley, came to the plate in the fourth and final inning with the bases loaded and blasted a grand- slam homer to complete the Kiwanis offense. Kevin Young suffered the loss for Security National on the mound.

Shortstop Davis and left-fielder Atkinson slammed homers in the second and third innings to pave the way to Lewis Furniture's 5-3 win over A & B Leasing. First baseman West fought back by slugging a sixth- inning home run for A & B.

Fireballer Wasson gave up only one hit to A & B and fanned 11 batters. Alberts, West and Watson shared mound duty for A & B with Watson taking the loss.

AMERICAN LEAGUE — Fabick ignited a scoring marathon in the only American League game of the night , demolishing Sealtest, 16-6 in a four-inning abbreviated match.

Second baseman Garret slammed a triple to lead Fabick's first- inning eight-run campaign. Fabick added one run inthe second and came back to score the final seven in a third- inning rally. Shortstop Hatchett had two, pitcher- third baseman Launius and first baseman Miller had one apiece in the doubles department to aid the attack.

Third baseman Barr had the only extra- base hit for Sealtest with a first inning double. Tate was the losing pitcher.

MUSIAL LEAGUE — The Brothers Club surprised Nunnelee with a flurry of hitting and a stable pitching department to mark an 11-10 victory in the first game. Pitcher Tope slugged a second- inning homer to pace the winning squad. First baseman Pool retaliated with a sixth- inning home run for Nunnelee.

Andy Greer was the winning pitcher with eight strikeouts. Cortez Smith suffered the loss. Brothers Club's Tope supplemented his four- bagger with a seventh- inning triple, a fourth- inning double and two singles in five attempts. First baseman Howard and shortstop Stewart slammed triples in the Brothers' drive. Catcher Howard connected for a double.

First baseman Pool starred for Nunnelee with four hits in four attempts, including a homer, a double and two singles. Hurler- first baseman Smith and left fielder Sindle slugged sixth inning triples. Ratledge and Jackson had doubles.

Kingsway Plaza downed Rotary in the second bout, 8-4, led by a fourth- inning homer by shortstop- pitcher Dennis Chappell. Chappell pitched Kingsway to victory with 10 strikeouts.

Third baseman Crenshaw hit a triple for Kingsway, and Lenderman and Williams had doubles.

Third baseman Merrick tripled for Rotary in the second inning. Shortstop Kyle had a double. Mike King took the loss from the mound but also chalked up 10 strikeouts.

Sports Briefs

BUF FALO (AP) — While his Buffalo Bill teammates continue training-camp workouts today, defensive end Walt Patulski is on the sideline with a knee injury that threatens to delay his National Football League debut.

Patulski returned to Buffalo from Evanston, Ill., Tuesday after hurting his left knee in a scrimmage Monday, preparing for the Colwege All-Star game in Chicago.

A spokesman for the Bills said that physicians had found a spur on the knee and told Patulski to rest for several days. It was not yet known when the league's No. 1 draft pick would be able to resume play.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Raiders signed center Bobby Sheehan to a multiyear World Hockey Association contract Monday.

The 5-foot-8, 160 pound Sheehan, a native of Weymouth, Mass., scored 20 goals and added 26 assists for 46 points while appearing in all 78 games for the California Golden Seals

Gideon, Parma Have Close Calls

MALDEN — An eight-inning battle highlighted Tuesday night's Little League baseball tournament action that had North Pemiscot, Gideon and Parma advancing into the quarterfinals of the sixth annual affair.

Neelyville made a gallant effort to knock off Gideon in Tuesday's second battle, forcing the match into the eighth inning before bowing, 8-7. A five-run rally in the last of the sixth frame provided all the suspense. Jeff Berry came in as a relief pitcher and closed the door to Neelyville and picked up the victory.

North Pemiscot started off the day's action with a 15-5, five-inning triumph over Fisk.

Parma ended the night's action with a sixth- inning rally, sparked by Buddy Matlock's two - out double that propelled Parma from a 3-2 deficit into a 4-3 victory over Matthews. Gary Atchley picked up the win in relief of Wayne Thatch, who yielded only three safties to Matthews.

Tournament action resumes Thursday with Bernie and Portageville matched in the opening contest at 5:30. Hayti and Hornersville battle at 7 p.m. and Campbell battles Delta in thy8:30 nightcap.

Due to rain, tournament play has been delayed one day. Finals are scheduled for Tuesday.

All-Stars, Aces Selected

Sikeston's Little League baseball managers have broken past traditions in selection of All- Star and Aces teams to represent the city in local and district tournaments.

In past seasons, the best players have been chosen for the All- Star squad and the runners-up were placed on the Aces, but not in this season's selections.

Managers seemingly have gone out to balance the squads and have done so mainly in the pitching department.

Because of the caliber and number of good pitchers in the Sikeston leagues this season, the managers have divided that corps among the two squads.

"Some of the pitchers on the Aces squad have All- Star ability, but there is an agreement that the Aces should have some of the better pitchers, too," Don Self, who will manage the Aces, noted upon reporting selections of the two squads for Commissioner George Butler who is out of town. "Pitchers were chosen before remaining rosters were selected," Self added.

The selections:

ALL- STARS

Pitching staff: Hal Butler, John Vaught, Roger Cloud.

ACES

Pitching staff: Don Francis, David McCauley.

Hay Fever Sufferers Should Plan Vacation

Perennial hay fever sufferers would do well to consult more than travel folders when planning their vacations. Some of the following suggestions come from a brochure made available by a medical center concerned with the study of allergic diseases.

They are offered specifically for the hay fever victim with the hope of making his holidays happier.

If travel by automobile is being considered, one that is air- conditioned is best. Otherwise, those affected should sit near a closed window. Convertible tops should be kept up.

Seashore vacations are a wise choice, but only when the breeze comes from the ocean. Breezes coming from land carry pollen. Consider, too, that individuals with mold allergies may find damp, musty oceanfront houses a source of discomfort.

A farm vacation is usually advised against.

Those allergic to feathers are well- advised to pack along a foam rubber or dacron pillow.

Keep in mind that partying is fun, but that alcohol tends to dilate blood vessels, just as pollens do. It is also best to keep from getting overly fatigued.

Nose clips should be worn when swimming in chlorinated water.

As a safeguard, bring with you medications your physicain may have recommended. Although a nasal spray such as NTZ, Neo-Synephrine nose drops, and many brands of eye drops are usually available at a drug store near hotel or cottage, your need for fast relief of the annoying symptoms, and the local pharmacist's hours may not coincide. Other medications may require a prescription.

Army Enlists Two Recruits

Two Sikeston youths have joined the U.S. Army, according to SFC C. L. McCoy, Army recruiter for this area.

Joining under the Army's two = year enlistment program are Tommy E. Grace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Grace of 1530 East Gladys, and James T. Morgan, son of Mrs. Ethelyene Greer of 718 Kendall St.

Both men are undergoing basic training at Fort Leonard Wood.

Kidney Stones Removed By Sound

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — Ultra sound waves have been used for quick and painless removal of a kidney stone during an operation that ordinarily would have required open surgery and a week or more of hospitalization, a surgeon says.

Dr. Roger Goodfriend said in an interview Thursday that he used the technique during an operation performed Sunday at Los Gatos Community Hospital.

The patient, identified only as a man in his 30s, was pain-free Monday and went home Tuesday, Goodfriend added.

Goodfriend, 43, a clinical instructor of urology at Stanford University Medical School, said he had been experimenting with the technique on dogs for three years.

He said he was encouraged by the success of the first operation, but "much more study of techniques, research and perfection of equipment is needed before the method can be widely used."

The first step of the operation is insertion of a cystoscope, a telescope-like tube, into the urinary tract to the bladder, he said.

Then a smaller tube is inserted in the cystoscope and on into the ureter. The ultrasonic probe is then introduced inside the inner tube.

After contact of the probe with the stone is verified by Xrays, a pulse of high-frequency ultrasonic energy causes the stone to disintegrate into many tiny pieces, with minimal damage to tissue, Goodfriend said.

Kidney stones form from deposits of calcium compounds and often are passed naturally through the urinary tract. But if one forms to block the ureter, connecting the kidney and bladder, it can lead eventually to a pressure buildup that can destroy the kidney, Goodfriend said.

A POPULAR NUMBER

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Motorists of Sandton feel that 777 is the best nunber for auto license plates. When the suburb got its separate plate, car owners were invited to apply for any number between 11 and 20,000. Most applied for 777. Second most popular was 555.

Mills Attends Sales Seminar

Richard D. Mills of Smitten-Winters Irrigation Co., Highway 61 South, attended a one-day Modern Farm Systems sales meeting July 13 at Ramada Inn in Miner.

The meeting, conducted by MFS personnel, was held to present Modern Farm Systems dealers with the latest marketing programs and product knowledge.

Eugene Sukup, president of Sukup Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of Sukup Stirway and Foreway, showed the group drying equipment produced by his company.

Lorenz Cited For Sales

Dwayne C. Lorenz, Sikeston agent of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., was cited Monday for outstanding life insurance sales among the company's more than 2,500 agents during the 1971-72 honor year.

He is associated with the M. Luther Hahs district agency of Cape Girardeau and the Robert B. Qualy general agency in St. Louis.

Lorenz is a winner of the Gold section award.

The gold section award is presented to an agent who has previously received the bronze and silver awards -- the first two for which the agent may qualify in his initial years with the company -- and has increased his sales over the past year's volume.

Honor presentations were made at the 92nd annual meeting of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., at the company's home office, Milwaukee, Wis. Award winners will be cited for record sales in the agents' honor year, ending May 31.

Mitchell Takes Agent Course

Robert L. Mitchell, Jr., 904 Crescent, has returned from Hartford, Conn., where he was graduated from a multiple line insurance course at the education center of The Travelers Insurance Companies.

This is an advanced course that helps prepare the agent to provide a complete insurance program for a family or a business.

Mitchell represents The Travelers in all lines of insurance through Mitchell Insurance, Inc. of Sikeston.

A graduate of Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, Mitchell is past secretary of the Sikeston Jaycees. He is a member of First United Methodist Church, Lions Club and is president of Scott County Young Democrats. He is married and the couple has a daughter, Beth.

HITS McLAIN WELL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — If former Detroit and Oakland pitcher Denny McLain had to face Smokey Robinson of the Montgomery Rebels each time he pitched here he might never get back into the major leagues.

On May 20, in McLain's first outing in the Southern League, Robinson homered twice and drove in five runs as the Rebels clouted McLain for nine hits, including three homers, in five innings. Five days later Robinson duplicated his two-homer, five-runs-batted-in feat as McLain gave up 10 hits, including three homers, in six innings.

ANNUAL ANTLERS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — All winter long bucks in the deer herd have looked just like all the rest of the deer.

Paul M. Kelsey, New York regional conservation educator, says that the mechanics of deer antler growth have fascinated people for centuries. Antlers of the deer family are replaced annually, distinctly different from the horns of antelope, buffalo or domestic cattle, which simply adds additional external growth each season.

Scientists think that increased sunlight is picked up by the deer's eye and passed to the pituitary gland located at the base of the brain. This gland then stimulates the start of antler growth. By mid-May, growth has started.

Alsups Buy Illinois Store

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Alsup, formerly of Sikeston, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Jones of Greenville are new owners of Western Auto Associate Store of Highland, Ill.

Grand opening will be July 31 through August 5.

Alsup is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Castor Alsup of Sikeston Route Two. His wife Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lewis of 521 Coleman.

The store was purchased recently from Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Rood.

The Alsups have moved to Highland and are living in the trailer court at Sunny Acres. They will manage the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones will continue to live in Greenville where they have owned and operated a Western Auto store for 14 years.

Before moving to Highland, Alsup was associated with Safeway grocery store in Sikeston. He and his wife have completed a specialized Western Auto school in Kansas City.

Pennsylvania's Presque Isle, which in French means "almost an island," was so named by French explorers in 1740 because Lake Erie storms regularly threatened to wash away the narrow neck linking the sandy peninsula to the mainland.

The altitude of Mexico City is 7,546 feet.

Two-thirds of Mexico's total area is occupied by mountains.

I guess you know that "athletes foot" is usually picked up in locker rooms, but your chances of catching this infection is almost nil if the skin is healthy and unbroken.

You are more apt to catch it if your skin is scraped or you have blisters ... avoid these and you usually avoid the infection.

Markets Appear Extremely Volatile

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Edgar C. Scott, Jr., author of this column, is a 1937 graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism and has been actively involved in stock market transactions for several years. From the spring of 1946 until the spring of 1951 he covered the shoe manufacturing industry in St. Louis for a national circulation magazine, Boot & Shoe Recorder; and, from the spring of 1951 until autumn of 1967, he was employed as a reporter in the St. Louis bureau of Fairchild Publications -- covering the shoe manufacturing industry for Footwear News for the first eight years and writing principally financial news for Daily News Record, Women's Wear Daily and Home Furnishings Daily, during all of his years with Fairchild. Scott also made an occasional contribution to the financial pages of the St. Louis Globe- Democrat on a free- lance basis. During his later years with Fairchild Publications, he also traded stocks and bonds as a livelihood and has made a living in the market since resigning from Fairchild Publications in September of 1967. Scott is now living in Caruthersville.

Current markets appear extremely volatile, in the opinion of Kansas City stockbrokers; subject to wide swings --- up and down ---; as whims of traders flame momentarily with commitments to buy, then fade quickly in bursts of selling orders.

The news, it would seem, will make the markets. Witness the intraday 18- point rise on unconfirmed (and later disqualified) peace rumors July 6, followed by a 10- point drop in a matter of hours, with a net gain for the day of eight points or so; and a four- point loss on the day following.

In St. Louis, investment bankers for the most part suspect the drop from 5.9 per cent unemployment to 5.5 per cent is more significant than the recent flare- up in the cost of living --- that is, the much publicized rise in the cost of meat.

Despite an expected increase in meat imports, affluent Americans are buying better cuts (and sustaining the meat price rise); while imported meats to great extent are suitable only for hamburger, baloney and sausages.

From Kansas City, commodity houses say the hog market is strong; and likely will continue so for a time.

The July Fortune Magazine, however, in its monthly business roundup speaks favorably about the battle against inflation with the comment that the consumer price index could be nearing a 3.5 per cent annual rate of increase --- as its rate of increase continues to decline --- while a 3 per cent rate of increase is a distinct possibility by year's end.

In Memphis, the word to long- term investors continues to be: get out of high price- earnings glamour stocks; take your profits and move into less vulnerable cyclicals like the machine tools, for instance, which still can be bought at the low end of the ladder.

Expected favorable quarterly earnings reports --- due in greater quantity as July advances into August very possibly could help trigger a sustained summer rally, in the opinion of some Indianapolis customers' men --- though upsetting news from the political front, or from Southeast Asia or Israel and the Arab states could trip the averages into a decline for a spell, they fear.

The DJI could gyrate between 900 and 980 or so in coming weeks, your correspondent is advised; -- and hopefully in the higher ground as the summer rally is due.

A point of controversy among industrial analysts is whether the action of the Federal Reserve Bank on June 26 in buying Treasury bills to pump more money into circulation was good news or bad.

Those who look upon the move favorably say that the resultant increase in available cash for loans to industry and business will aid in curbing the rise of short- term interest rates.

The pessimists fear that the outlook for a continuation of the business recovery isn't as rosy as the Nixon administration has expostulated; hence the move to stimulate business loans with more cash.

Paul W. McCracken, who retired as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers the past January has confidence in the recovery, however, noting that in the "very near term you almost have to be a misanthrope to find very much to quarrel

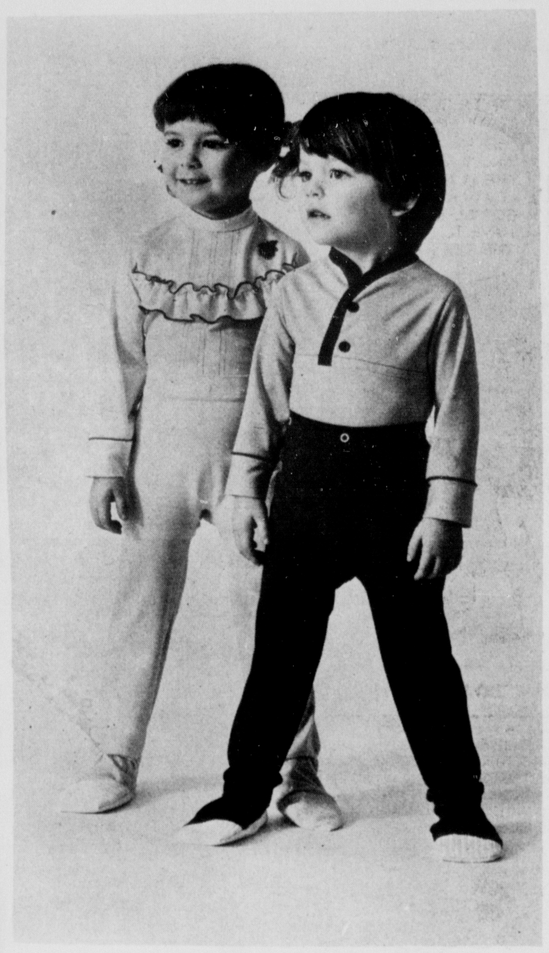
BUSINESS REVIEW



JCPENNEY'S flame- retardant sleepwear for infants and children not only offers an added degree of protection, but comes with a fashion flair not available before. These infant sleepers of flame-retardant fabric come with tops with back snaps, two rows of "grow" snaps at the waist, and elasticized back-waist. The sleepers, available in a variety of bright colors, are machine washable.

Flame-Retardant Sleepwear Broaded

The broadest selection of flame - retardant sleepware for infants and children yet offered is featured in JCPenney's fall and winter 1972 catalog. Copies of the book are available at the catalog sales desk in the JCPenny store here.

Inclusion of seven pages of flame- retardant sleepwear in the catalog is a reflection of the Penney Company's overall goal of compliance with the flammability standard issued by the Department of Commerce in July 1971.

In line with the company's goal, Sikeston Manager Jess Lacefield, said, "We are offering for the fall and winter line of infants' and children's sleepwear only merchandise that complies with flammability standard. In addition, we are going as far as practical for the new line in providing flame - retardant children's sizes above 6X even though they are not covered by the standard."

Lacefield said the company expects to have completely sold out of its other sleepwear by Oct. 1.

Beyond the 6X size specified by the Department of Commerce standard, the catalog offers flame- retardant sleepwear up to size 16 for girls and 18 for boys.

The manager commented, "We feel that parents should be aware that this merchandise, offering an added degree of protection, is now available in the broadest assortments yet."

$6,466 Paid For Sikeston Services

Western Electric, manufacturing, purchasing and supply unit of the Bell System, paid more than $6,466 to Sikeston businesses for goods and services last year.

Mark Rudloff, Southwestern Bell manager here who released the figures, said Western Electric payments of $54,886,324 throughout Missouri represented many purchases from small businesses and suppliers.

"About 88 per cent of the 1,759 businesses included in these sales in Missouri are small ones," Rudloff said. "We think this percentage shows that the telephone system has a substantial impact on the local economy."

Rudloff said Western Electric, besides being the Bell System's manufacturing arm, is the purchase and supply unit for Bell operating companies like Southwestern Bell.

The figures do not include Western Electric's payroll, which is also a significant expenditure in Missouri, he said. The company's payroll in the state for 1971 was more than $90 million.

Evans Reports Half-Year High Marks

PORTLAND, Ore. -- Evans Products Company today reported that first half revenues and earnings were the highest in the company's history, according to the chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Monford A. Orloff said first half net earnings of $12,633,000 were up 52 per cent on revenues of $433,241,00, which were up 29 per cent compared with the same period a year ago.

Primary earnings per common share for the first half of 1972 were 77 cents, up from 57 cents in the first six months of 1971.

Second quarter net earnings of $9,455,000 and revenues of $253,728,000 exceeded those of the comparable quarter of 1971 by 53 per cent and 27 per cent respectively.

The executive of the building materials manufacturer and distributor said general business conditions continued strong, particularly in the markets in which the company operates.

Food Show Set At Malden

MALDEN — Malden Fruit Market on Highway 25 North will host its first annual Institutional Food Show Saturday and Sunday.

The theme of the show is "New Ideas in Quality Food at Competitive Prices." Special features will consist of approximately 40 national food companies displaying the latest in food service ideas.

The show is scheduled between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

MR. AND MRS. James W. Godwin, formerly of Sikeston, recently opened a 12-unit motel three miles south of Branson on Highway 65 known as Hollister Inn Motel. Godwin is former owner of Southside Service Station in Sikeston.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, July 26, the 208th day of 1972. There are 158 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1953, Fidel Castro began a revolt in Cuba, Attacking an army barracks at Santiago.

On this date:

In 1759, the French abandoned Ft. Ticonderoga to the British in the French and Indian War.

In 1775, the Continental Congress established a Post Office Department, with Benjamin Franklin as the first postmaster general.

In 1847, Liberia was declared a republic, making it the only sovereign black nation in Africa.

In 1944, in World War II, German V2 rocket bombs hit targets in England for the first time.

In 1891, France annexed the South Sea island of Tahiti.

In 1952, Argentina's First Lady, Eva Peron, died.

Ten years ago: The new premier of Laos, Prince Souvanna Phouma, arriced in Washington to begin a four-day U.S. visit.

Five years ago: Pope Paul VI was visiting Turkey.

One year ago: The Apollo 15 spacecraft was launched from Cape Kennedy on a flight to the moon.

Artist Finds New Use For Thumb

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Seattle artist John Ramm wanted to "get art out of the museum and onto the road." He seems to have succeeded. Ramm says 12 of his sculptures are now hitchhiking around the United States and Canada.

Ramm's works, created in May just before "thumbing" became legal in Washington, are larger-than-life-sized human figures cut out of plywood. One painted arm sticks out in the traditional hitchhiking sign, the other holds a sign saying, "Take Me Along (I Fold Up.)"

Last month Ramm christened his pieces with various names, then propped them up along roadsides. Attached to the figures were instructions and post cards asking drivers to keep Ram posted of his progenies' progress.

"Ernie's up in Canada," he noted recently. "The people who took him said they had a hard time getting him through customs."

"I think Nami Grunt is in San Francisco. Drew spent a week in McCleary, Wash., as an auto repairman. Fenworth was in Evanston, Ill., and Leslie is on the way to Ohio."

Ramm asks those who give his creations a ride to get them back on the road when they reach their destination.

"If you've got one, please let go of it," he remarked in general. "Turn it loose and mail the post card. It's the only mail I get."

One of the figures, Bruce, evidently met an unfortunate end. The post card came back from Federal Way, Wash., a few miles south of Seattle, with the notation "burp." It was signed by "Big Bite the Te

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Cherie's Believe It Or Not!

Would you believe that when Lee got home from Scout Camp we had to cut him out of his pants because they had been on so long the snaps had rusted together —

Would you believe I went on a diet and gained three pounds —

Would you believe this summer is almost gone and despite my good intentions about getting exercise I haven't been to the pool or on the tennis courts yet —

Would you believe that out of two hundred zinnia seeds Charles sowed he only got three plants —

Would you believe my kids like spinach but won't eat green beans —

Would you believe my washing machine eats socks —

Would you believe I just bought Charles five new pair of pants and then cleaned out his closet and found fifteen more he's forgotten he'd bought —

Would you believe my fellas can eat cookies faster than I can get them off the cookie sheet —

Would you believe that the political conventions being covered on television are just as boring as the summer programs that are being repeated —

Would you believe it's been a long - long summer and I'm pooped —

Well, you should believe it cause it's ever bit true!!

New Wire Boss For Scott City

SCOTT CITY — LeRoy G. Oberle has been named wire chief for Southwestern Bell at Scott City replacing M. Kent Wells.

As wire chief, Oberle will direct and administer telephone installation and repair activities in and around Scott City, Chaffee, Benton, Oran, Advance, Bell City and Delta.

Oberle joined Southwestern Bell in 1947 at Ste. Genevieve as a groundman and since that time has held several positions for the plant department in Ste. Genevieve and Cape Girardeau.

Oberle and his wife, Doris, are parents of four children.

Group Urges Speed Up Of Four Bridges

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — An organization called Missouri River Bridges Committee has started a petition campaign to speed up the building of four bridges over the river between St. Charles and St. Louis counties.

At a meeting Thursday night the presiding judge of St. Charles County, Douglas Boschert, was elected chairman of the committee. He said the committee will ask the state of Missouri to give high priority to the Missouri river bridges and that the target date for the first bridge, to carry Interstate 70, be moved up to 1976. The target date is now 1980.

Bridge Must Wait 5 Years

KANSAS CITY AP - It will be at least five years before Missouri can consider a new bridge on U.S. 36 across the Missouri River at St. Joseph, says Robert N. Hunter, chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department.

Hunter met Thursday with Kansas highway officials, including engineer John McNeal, and Richard Payton, assistant director.

The Kansas Legislature directed its highway commission to negotiate with Missouri for building a four-lane bridge to replace the present two-lane structure.

Hunter said several other major stream crossing in Missouri Have higher priority, and the U.S. 36 bridge will have to wait its turn.

COOKING-UP with judy gazette

Rye Casserole Bread

One of our nationally known food brands has paved the way for home bread- bakers everywhere to make all those yummy unbleached breads.

Natural flours now available are unbleached white, whole wheat blend, rye blend and corn blend! The packages of flour come equipped with helpful little recipe booklets stuffed inside. The flour products are said to be naturally aged, contain no chemical preservatives, no leavening or bleaching agents.

Don't know about you, but I'm glad to see it. One of my favorite, calorie- laden things to eat is whole wheat or rye bread spread with cream cheese — plain or flavored. And whole wheat toast beats plain old white toast by a mile!

Anyway, following find several ideas for breads, yeast and otherwise.

One other thing, these new flours will present endless possibilities for other cooking areas, too, such as cookies and cakes with less delicate textures ... pumpkin cake, peanut butter cookies, etc.

I can't pass up the chance to say good- bye for a week or so ... it was MY turn for the vacation count down, and the time has come. Perhaps I'll send you greeting from the far north ... I'm hoping to gather a few recipes while there.

Have a happy week and lock your doors and windows!

RYE CASSEROLE BREAD

Generously grease one 9 x 5-inch metal loaf pan, two 9 x 5- inch glass or smaller loaf pans, or 1 1/2 quart deep round casserole.
Combine in
large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted medium rye flour blend
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon caraway seed, if desired
2 packages active dry yeast
Heat in Saucepan
over low heat until warm:
1 cup water
3/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons cooking oil
MIX:
Add 2 eggs and warm (not hot) liquid to flour mixture.
Blend at lowest speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed.
By hand, stir in another 2 1/4 — 2 1/2 cups flour to form a stiff batter. (Batter will follow spoon and leave sides of bowl).
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, 30-45 minutes. Stir down dough; (beat vigorously 30 seconds) spoon into greased pan. Let rise again in warm place until light, 30-45 minutes.
BAKE:
Bake at 350F for 40 to 45 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on rack before slicing.

*TIP: For a quicker bread with a more open texture, shape loaves after kneading; let rise only once for 70 to 85 minutes. Bake as directed.

EASY WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

COMBINE dry ingredients in large mixer bowl:
2 cups unsifted whole wheat flour blend
1 tablespoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
2 cups milk
1/2 cup honey
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 packages active dry yeast
HEAT in saucepan
over low heat
until warm:
2 1/4 cups milk
1/4 cup cooking oil
MIX:
Add 1 egg and warm liquid to flour mixture.
Beat ½ minute at low speed, 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, gradually stir in 4-5 cups additional unsifted unbleached flour to form a soft dough.
KNEAD:
Knead on floured surface until smooth and elastic—about 1 minute.
RISING:
Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 45-60 minutes. Punch down dough; shape into tow loaves; place in greased pans. Cover; let rise in warm place until light, 30-45 minutes.
BAKE:
Bake at 350F for 40 to 45 minutes until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on rack before slicing.

*TIP: For a quicker bread with a more open texture, shape loaves after kneading; let rise only once for 70 to 85 minutes. Bake as directed.

? Consumer's ? Question Box

by Margaret Dana

Q. I would like to know what is the difference in the amount of cream you get in whole milk, "low- fat" milk, and skim milk. There is considerable difference in price

A. The U. S. Public Health Service's Grade A Pasteurized Milk Ordinance requires fluid whole milk to contain at least 3.25 per cent butterfat, and skim milk must not have more than 0.5 per cent. However, "low- fat" and skim milk may sometimes have nonfat dry milk added as an extra ingredient, which increases the milk solids and the protein content.

Q. I understand that some medicines or vaccines for livestock are used in other countries that are not allowed here. For instance, a vaccine for foot rot in sheep that is used in New Zealand and Australia has not been approved by the FDA for use in the U.S.A. Yet meat from these countries is shipped in to be sold here. How can I be sure that the meat I buy for my family is produced in the U.S.A.?

A. You can't, in every case. Imported meat may be used in hamburger but no label tells what the mixture is. But the USDA, which has charge of all meat standards and inspection, must first inspect and approve all foreign meat plants before their products may be shipped into this country.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service checks the foreign plants at least once a year for conformity to the requirements of the Wholesome Meat Act. If a chemical added to cattle or sheep feed is not approved for use in meat in this country, the inspectors cannot permit meat containing that additive to be imported.

Q. I heard a report recently that said milk producers were worried about how they could keep their machines used in handling milk really clean if phosphates are taken out of detergents. I don't understand this. Why wouldn't any ordinary cleanser do as well?

A. I believe you may be referring to a report by the Connecticut Milk Dealers' Association and the Consolidated Milk Producers Association earlier this year, in which they said that the quality of milk will suffer if they are not allowed to use detergents containing phosphates. The industry explained that machines used by the industry are the kind that must be cleaned in place, with closed- in systems. If phosphate detergents are not used, a calcium deposit called "milkstone" developes in the machinery and provides a place for bacteria to settle and grow. No other material, they stated, had been found as yet that would be effective.

Q. I have heard it said that milk really is primarily just water and that nutritionists have misled people by claiming it had high nutritional benefits. Is this true?

A. It is quite true that fresh whole milk contains about 87 per cent water and 13 per cent total solids. But that 13 per cent is our main source of necessary calcium and is rich in riboflavin (vitamin B) that helps keep skin healthy and vision clear. The water is a pleasant carrier of these essential nutrients.

Q. We are interested in purchasing a pool. Where can we write for the National Swimming Pool Institute's booklet you mentioned, "Minimum Standards for Residential Poola"?

A. The National Swimming Pool Institute's address is 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. The booklet, "Minimum Standards for Residential Pools," contains complete information and standards for swimming pool construction and equipment as approved by the Institute's Board of Directors. The booklet is 50 cents per copy. You may also get from the institute a booklet, "Pool Care Guide," for home swimming pools, $1 each, and a sample contract for swimming pool construction and standard estimating form for 25 cents each. Send along a long, stamped and self- addressed envelope and ask the institute for their booklet, "How to Select Your Swimming Pool," if you'd like one.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

There's Help for 'Just Nerves'

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Your articles on health are the subject of many discussions when friends meet. I wish you would discuss what doctors can help us who have "just nerves" or rather how we might help ourselves. I read that making a diagnosis of "just nerves" is the toughest diagnosis to make. It is also a difficult one for the patient to accept. The pain is real regardless of what's causing it. I had this problem and it caused me to be more nervous just trying to describe my pain. Finally, I was diagnosed as a mild diabetic with diabetic neuritis. I have been getting B-12 shots every six months and I'm much improved. I also take tranquilizers. My weight was ideal—even the envy of fat friends.

Dear Reader — You're right. A diagnosis of "nerves" is a difficult one to make. It means that the doctor has to be satisfied that there is no other mechanism causing the pain or symptom. Since so many things cause pain this automatically means excluding an awful lot of disorders. And, you're right — it hurts just as bad regardless of the cause. If a patient has pain in the leg, he needs help for this pain whether it's caused by nervousness or poor circulation.

The role of a doctor is to help his patient. At times he can't unless he levels with him and makes sure he understands he doesn't have any serious disease and that his problem is really related to nervousness or emotional factors. Ideally, the doctor then delves into the life situation factors that are responsible for the nerves and the symptoms. Unfortunately, many doctors seeing lots of patients don't have time to do this in great detail for one patient. Neither the doctor nor the patient can afford for but listen, the fact that you the dilemmas of our society.

Many simple problems of nerves are benefited by eliminating habits which contribute to nerves, specifically drinking coffee. Coffee is a nerve stimulus and is certainly the cause of many people's indigestion problems and "nervous stomach." Nervous individuals should avoid all other stimulating drinks such as tea and colas and should avoid cigarettes. A good regular exercise program is also helpful.

High on the list of important treatments for "nerves" is a sympathetic friend. I want to emphasize that I said friend, because the person often needs an ear outside the family setting. In the course of talking about one's problems to someone you can trust, a person often works out his own solution. This is part of what psychiatry really is. Even if your friend doesn't do anything to make. It means that the to do this. This is one of have verbalized the things in life that worry you or distress you helps you to sort them out and identify your problems and begin to face reality. Of course, this won't solve the total problem for many people, but it does help some.

Diabetic neuritis certainly is painful and it is also sometimes difficult to diagnose in its early stages. That's one of the other dilemmas that doctors have—some diseases in their early development present so few findings that they are not easily diagnosed.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here's Way to Clean Silk Lampshades

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. G. S. who wants to clean her silk lampshades at home did not request washing instructions but I cannot resist passing on a method that really works. Be sure the shade fabric is colorfast. Remove any trim before washing. Sometimes these trims are attached with a fabric glue and can be easily pulled loose. If stitched, cut the threads and when trim is returned it may be either sewed or glued. Freshen any trim by brushing with a soft brush, such as an old toothbrush.

Wash in warm mild suds that are deep enough to cover the entire shade. Brush suds on, inside and out, with a soft lampshade brush and work quickly with an up-and-down motion. Swish shade in circular patterns to distribute suds. Thorough rinsing is most important to prevent streaking and for this use a sink spray hose or hold under the shower. To prevent rusting of the frame squeeze around top and bottom with a heavy bath towel to remove excess moisture. Hang shade by a string to clothesline to dry so it hangs free and dries evenly. From time to time during the drying process go over frames with a towel.—MRS. R. H. P.

DEAR GIRL—This is tricky business but works on most silk shades. If the fabric looks stretched and soggy during the process, do not worry as it will tighten when dry. If outdoor drying is impossible an electric fan may be used to speed things up. Work fast.—POLLY

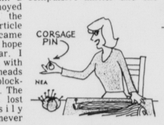
DEAR POLLY—I left our dark blue car out in the sun after I washed it, with the result that there are water spots all over the paint job. Does anyone know how to remove these unsightly spots? I tried wax and a rubbing compound but it removes the paint. Please, someone help me as I am really in hot water with my husband.—BONNIE

DEAR POLLY—I am a compulsive knitter and one thing that always annoyed me was picking out the pins after a blocked article had dried. I finally came up with an idea that I hope merits a Polly Dollar. I save all corsage pins with those lovely large beads and use them when blocking a knitted garment. The big beads never get lost in the wool, are easily found and a pin is never lost.—MARGARET



DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the many magazines that omit numbering some pages of advertising and using something like R-6 or not marking them at all. Other pages are numbered in the lower right hand corners, some on the upper margin and one I read had the number of the page at the bottom center between two columns. Why can't they number every page consecutively with the right-side page numbered in the lower right-hand corner and the left in the lower left-hand corner, OR, if they prefer, at the tops of the pages. It is really puzzling to try to find the continuing pages of a story.—WILMA

BONN, Germany (AP) — One of every four West Germans believes he is eating improperly, according to a survey by the Bonn Health Ministry. Twenty-four per cent of those queried thought they were not getting full nutritional benefit from their meals because they were eating too much, too quickly and at the wrong times.

How much more would you make if you went to a technical school?

Technicians often earn twice as much as the average high school graduate. As much as some college graduates make. For more information about short-term technical training, tear out this ad and send it in.

Girls' Coat Spectacular. Where else would you find posh, washable pile coats?

$13-$28

Smart moms start planning for back-to-school now. Getting an early start means you get to see selections at their peak. For example: plush acrylic pile coats in all sorts of animal disguises for 3 to 6x and 7 to14. Machine washable, too. Think of the cleaning bills you won't be paying. Come, see the whole collection.

Check our fall & winter catalog for a complete selection of girls coats.

A Kick the annoying TV tuning habit ... with TAC, the amazing electronic system that automatically keeps flesh tones natural and pictures sharp. There's no more jumping up to adjust controls ... and no more green or purple faces. Model 6230, an ideal second set for any room, also has telescoping antenna and convenient carrying handle.

SAVE $40 NOW $279.00

B Space-saving console styling ... plus the wonderful convenience of the Magnavox Total Automatic Color System, as well as the brighter, sharper pictures on a Matrix Tube — are all yours to enjoy with Contemporary styled model 6332! Choose from compact and beautiful Early American and Mediterranean styling, too. Also save on convenient remote control.

SAVE $30 NOW $469.00

C Model 7164 in Early American Styling on concealed swivel casters. TAC automatically keeps pictures sharp and flesh tones natural. 25" diagonal measure. Matrix picture tube with Magna-Power Chassis uses predominately solid-state components for increased reliability and improved performance and has TAmbour doors.

SAVE $70 NOW $629.00

D Enjoy the full beauty of music — from exciting stereo FM/AM radio, your favorite recordings, or optional Magnavox tape equipment. Each magnificently styled console has 50-WAtts EIA music power, an Air- Suspension Speaker System with two HIGH— Compliance 10" Bass Woofers and two 1,000 Hz. Exponential Horns that project sound from both sides and front of the cabinet to extend thrilling stereo separation to the width of your room. There's even ample record storage area.

SAVE $50 NOW $449.00

E TAC is a complete electronic system that eliminates the need to jump up and down to adjust controls. It automatically keeps pictures sharp and flesh tones natural. There's no more green or purple faces. The new ultra- rectangular 25" (diagonal measure) Matrix tube gives better contrast, sharpness and more brightness. And the Magna- Power Chassis uses predominately solid- state components for greater reliability. This exceptional value also has two speakers. A decorative door conceals front controls.

SAVE $70 NOW $629.00

F Perfect wherever space is a problem, this magnificent Magnavox will bring you 19" diagonal measure pictures with the convenience of TAC - the complete system that automatically keeps pictures sharp, flesh tones natural (no more green or purple faces). And, it will bring you great stereo listening — from stereo FM/AM radio, recordings, or an optional tape player. 15- Watts E1A music power, two 10" Bass Woofers, two 5" treble speakers, an automatic record player, plus record storage.

SAVE $50 NOW $799.99
